WYNEKOOP MISTRIAL FEARED

21 MILLIONS ARE ADDED TO VET PAYMENTS

Increase Announced by President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt tonight announced new modifications of his executive regulations concerning payments to disabled war veterans. The amendments will add $21,092,205 to the annual cost of meeting veterans' payments and will bring the expenditures for this purpose in the 1935 fiscal year to 510 million dollars.

In the present fiscal year no estimate is available as to exactly how much shall be spent, but it is considered likely that it will be higher than in 1935.

The administration's first move toward reducing the veterans' payments was aimed at cutting 400 millions off the annual cost, which, in 1932, was $784,842,000. This saving has now dwindled, by including today's amendments in the reckoning, to 275 millions.

Affects 228,000 Veterans.

According to a statement issued by Stephen T. Early, assistant secretary to the President, the amendments will bring some relief to 228,000 veterans.

It is reported that the President's purpose is to take the wind out of the sails of the American Legion and other lobbying veterans' organizations when they go before congress for new demands. The Legion has a four point program for disabled veterans' relief which is only partly met by the President's newly amended regulations.

Congressman John E. Rankin [Dem., Miss.], long standing and vociferous advocate of bonus and compensation payments to veterans, today issued a call for public hearings to begin Jan. 23 before the house committee on world war veterans' legislation, of which he is chairman.

Summary of Increases.

The eight amendments to the President's veterans' payment regulations issued today were summarized, in part, as follows, in Mr. Early's statement:

"1. Increase in rates of pension for war veterans suffering with service connected disabilities from $90 to $100 per month for total disability and proportionate increases for such veterans suffering with less than total disabilities.

"2. Liberalization of eligibility rules for hospital treatment in nonservice connected cases, so as to provide such treatment to veterans suffering with nonservice diseases requiring emergency or extensive medical and surgical care, who are unable to pay for same.

"3. The granting of a pension of $15 per month to Spanish-American war veterans who served ninety days or more and were honorably discharged or who, having served less than ninety days, were discharged for disability incurred in line of duty in the service and who are 50 per cent or more disabled without regard to the service origin of the condition or the age of the veteran.

Funeral Allowance Increased.

"4. Increase in burial and funeral allowance for deceased war veterans from $75 to $100.

"5. War veterans suffering with permanent and total disabilities not the result of their misconduct which are not shown to have been incurred in any period of military or naval service are no longer required to prove a minimum of ninety days' service providing they were discharged on account of disability incurred in line of duty in order to draw pension of $30 per month.

"6. Restoration of previous rates of pensions payable to certain widows of deceased regular army officers and enlisted men who died of disabilities incurred in line of duty, the maximum payable in such cases to be the $30 rate payable to widows of war veterans who died of service connected disabilities.

Employment Limit Increased.

"7. Prohibition against payment of pension to federal employés receiving salaries in excess of $50 per month was modified to permit the payment of pension to such employés, if single, whose salary does not exceed $1,000 per annum, or if married or supporting minor children does not exceed $3,500 per annum.

"8. Provision authorizing renouncement of pension which will permit trained employés of the veterans' administration who otherwise under the provisions of the economy act would be barred from participating in the

LARGE DAIRIES SELL 9 CT. MILK, CASH AND CARRY

Enter Field of the Independents.

Chicago's organized milk industry went into the cash and carry business yesterday. Milk went on sale for 9 cents a quart in some 2,000 chain stores in Chicago and suburbs, as well as in the establishments of many of these stores' independent competitors at the same time that the price of delivered milk was cut from 11 to 10 cents a quart.

The cash and carry sales plan was regarded as an attempt by the "big three" milk companies and the smaller concerns in the organized industry to get back some of the trade they have lost to cash and carry milk depots whose cut rate sales wrecked the milk marketing agreement which had been set up for Chicago by the agricultural adjustment administration of the federal government.

Stores Pay 8 Cents.

When milk was delivered for 11 cents a quart, and stores charged the same price for over the counter sales, the stores bought the milk at 9½ cents a quart. When dealers cut their delivered price to 10 cents a quart they reduced the price to stores to 8 cents a quart. Thus the milk distributors and the stores are each bearing half the cost of the one cent cash and carry differential. The same differential was allowed on cream. Stores charged 12 cents a half pint for coffee cream and 17 cents a half pint for whipping cream, one cent below the delivered prices.

Prices charged by the independent cash and carry dealers still remained below those of the organized dealers and the chain stores yesterday. Most of them were charging 7½ cents a quart for milk, but requiring a 4 cent bottle deposit.

Their price for coffee cream was 10 cents a half pint, 18 cents a pint, or 32 cents a quart, and for whipping cream 16 cents a half pint, 25 cents a pint, or 45 cents a quart. These prices were not uniform, however, and the independent dealers are to hold a conference today to discuss a uniform schedule of cut rate prices.

Formerly Opposed to Cut.

The entry of the organized milk distributors into the cash and carry field was an economic case of the mountain going to Mahomet, for these dealers have fought the practice bitterly for two years. During that period the number of cash and carry cut rate milk stores in the city increased from a handful to several hundred.

When the organized dealers and the Pure Milk association, representing 18,000 farmers, drew up their marketing agreement and won its approval last summer by the AAA they tried to legislate their cut rate competitors out of business by fixing retail prices and allowing no differential between delivered and cash and carry sales. But the independent dealers ignored the price fixing section of the code. The AAA investigated the situation and decided that it would be futile to try to put them out of business, and the code was scrapped.

The farmers' milk strike followed, and the independent dealers, who were the only ones who tried to bring their normal supply into the city, were victims of a campaign of vandalism on country roads and city streets. In the country farm pickets dumped their milk. In Chicago members of the milk wagon drivers' union attacked independents' trucks and dumped a number of them into the Chicago river.

Truce Arranged by Mayor.

Public indignation at the violence which characterized the strike, and which reached a climax when farmer blockaders stopped half a dozen trains and held up the United States mails, was one of the factors which forced the truce arranged by Mayor Kelly. The arbitration board, headed by Fred W. Sargent, president of the North Western railroad, which was picked under the terms of the truce agreement on Wednesday, announced a reduced price of $1.85 a hundredweight [3.98 cents a quart] to farmers for fluid milk.

TRY THIS TEST IF YOU WANT TO KNOW HOW SOBER YOU ARE

Some folks think they are sober if they can walk a chalk line and not miss it more than a yard with any step. Other folks think they are sober if they can still sing "Sweet Adeline."

But such guesswork measurements of intoxication are scorned by C. W. Muehlberger, Cook county coroner's chemist. Last night, speaking before a meeting in the Stevens hotel sponsored by the American Chemical society, Mr. Muehlberger told how it could be learned to the fraction of a milligram—which is about the weight of a drop of water—just how intoxicated any person is at a given time.

You take a cubic centimeter of the subject's blood and analyze it. If it contains less than one milligram of alcohol—cold sober.

One to two milligrams—delighted and devilish.

Two to three milligrams—Delinquent and disgusting.

Three to four—Dizzy and delirious.

Four to five—Dazed and disgusted.

Over five—Dead drunk.

A milligram is 1-1,000 of a cubic centimeter, so if the blood has five parts alcohol in 1,000 it doesn't matter what the chalk line test shows. Mr. Muehlberger pointed out that people who can handle liquor may not get much of it into the blood and hence remain more sober than others.

Byrd Flagship Periled by Ice Barrier Crash

[Via Mackay Radio to the New York Times and the Chicago Tribune.]

ABOARD S. S. JACOB RUPPERT, Bay of Whales, Antarctica, Jan. 19.—The 28 sleepless hours that followed the arrival of the second Byrd antarctic expedition in the Ross ice barrier have seen it transported in a series of rapidly increasing crises, from jubilation to the verge of despair.

The buried city of Little America has been excavated and found intact, but the highway that the first expedition used between the Bay of Whales and the winter camp has apparently been rendered impassable by the crushing ice movements of four winters. If no way can be found, the expedition faces the task of surveying a new route and transporting 300 tons of winter supplies about 20 miles.

Ice Threatens Ship.

The Condor seaplane, which will carry out the bulk of the expedition's exploratory work, narrowly escaped disaster on its first flight today and the flagship itself came so close to being overwhelmed by a toppling ice cliff that even the most scornful men were for a moment silenced.

A few minutes before noon today this 10,000 ton flagship came creeping along the east side of the Bay of Whales. On the right the barrier rose sheer from the water's edge. In places it was 70 feet high—70 feet of almost perfectly planed surface. Admiral Byrd was on the bridge. He was examining the cliffs for a low place at which to moor the ship.

The old route to Little America had closed. The only solution to rapid unloading of supplies appeared to be a barrier mooring, but he still hesitated over the alternative. Five years ago his two ships, the City of New York and the Eleanor Bolling, were almost overturned when the barrier gave way on top of them.

Byrd Studies Ice Cliff.

The Ruppert was making slow speed about 200 yards off the barrier. She was headed toward East Cape. The Ruppert drew abreast of a lower place on the barrier. It was not far from where the Eleanor Bolling unloaded in 1929. The barrier roof dropped to within 50 feet of the water's edge. Byrd studied it, then turned to the meteorologist.

"What do you think of that place?" he asked. "Does it look safe to you?"

Before he finished there was a sound like a skyscraper collapsing. A quarter of a mile of ice barrier was streaming downward, spilling and tumbling into the sea. The impact rocked the ship and 100,000 tons of ice spread fanwise across the water.

The Ruppert now is swinging back to the edge of the bay ice, about two and a half miles northwest of Little America near the mouth of Floyd Bennett bay.

Plane Escapes Crash.

The seaplane's escape from disaster was quite as drramatic. The plane was equipped with skiis. About 4 o'clock this morning Chief Pilot June, Assistant Pilot Bolin, and Radio Operator Hutcheson took off from the ice on a flight for Little America.

The men on the ship were appalled to see that the two huge skiis were dangling vertically from their pedestals.

"Your skiis are hanging straight down," the Ruppert radioed.

There were anxious moments, but Pilot June brought the plane down in a bank of soft snow. Later the plane was flown to Little America.

NO PLACE LIKE HOME TO HELMAR WHEN MRS. HUNTS FOR BARGAINS

All may be well that ends well, but South State street police admitted harboring a little curiosity over what happened when Anna Johnson met her husband, Helmar, in their North Chicago home last night.

The Johnsons drove to Chicago yesterday to take their 3 year old son, Bobby, to a south side hospital for examination. On their way back home Mrs. Johnson, lured by the State street dollar sales, stopped off at a store to pick up a few bargains. She instructed Helmar to park outside or, if chased by a traffic cop, to run around the block a few times until she came out of the store.

Helmar agreed. At 3:30 p. m. Mrs. Johnson left the store, but neither her husband nor their car was in sight. Mrs. Johnson waited. She herself circled the block. And she continued to circle until 6:30. Still there was no sign of Helmar.

Then Mrs. Johnson went to the police station. Sergt. Jerry Lynch telephoned hospitals, morgues and police stations—but could not find Helmar. Mrs. Johnson telephoned home. Finally, at 10 o'clock, a call came from North Chicago. Helmar was home, firing the furnace. He had tired of waiting downtown for his wife. Moreover, traffic cops had given him two tickets for parking.

Farley to Quit as Chairman of Democrats

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Finding a new chairman for the Democratic national committee is another task that has been added to the multiplicity of difficulties suddenly besetting the Democratic party.

It was disclosed today that James A. Farley, the chairman who conducted the campaign of President Roosevelt for election two years ago, had asked to be relieved of his party duties in order to devote his full time to the work of being postmaster general.

He will continue his work with the committee, however, until a new chairman is found and no successor appeared to be immediately in sight.

Other Officials Resign.

The disclosure followed a succession of resignations of party officials. It had no connection, however, it was said, with the criticism President Roosevelt made several days ago of party officials who were practicing law in the capital. Farley is not a lawyer and his forthcoming resignation was described as influenced by the desire to be able to devote his full time to the postoffice department.

Meanwhile, however, congressional interest in legislation to ban political lawyers from practicing in the government departments was manifesting itself under a friendly attitude from the White House.

It became increasingly evident, too, that if legislation were necessary to prevent officers of political parties from practicing here, strong pressure would be exerted to make it broad and more restrictive than now on members of congress.

Predicts G. O. P. Support.

Senator McNary of Oregon, the minority leader, predicted a lot of Republican support for the legislative move. Representative Byrns of Tennessee, the Democratic leader, said the proposed act had much backing in the house.

Senator Norris, Nebraska Republican independent, proposed that the chairmen of the national political committees be prohibited from holding places in congress or in the cabinet.

The net result of the day's informal discussions at the capitol was that President Roosevelt's declaration against party officers practicing law in the departments here seemed likely to result in an extensive change.

Apparently the President was looking favorably upon the drastic legislation now under consideration.

Chairman Ashurst of the senate judiciary committee proposed early consideration of the bill by Senator Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] prohibiting national committeemen from accepting government positions as well as preventing them from practicing law before the departments.

HARRY BUILDS A HOT FIRE AND GETS A CHILL

Lockup Keepers John Joyce and Thomas McInerney smelled smoke on the cell floor of the detective bureau last night. They traced it to cell 8.

Inside was a bonfire in which a coat, trousers, shirt, socks, and other garments were blazing. In a corner of the cell sat Harry [Nero] Abrams, wearing only a pair of shoes, a necktie and a hat. He was laughing.

"What's the idea?" he was asked.

"Nothing much, except I thought it would be fun to burn up my clothes," replied Abrams. His laughter froze later when Chief Schoemaker put him in a patrol wagon for a cold ride to the Bridewell.

$2,000,000 Ship Held at Dock by $26.40 Wage Claim

New York, Jan. 19.—[Special.]—The Munson liner Pan America, worth about 2 million dollars, is held at her dock today for a claim of $26.40. The liner was libeled today by James B. Clark Jr. of Nyack, seaman in her crew, who alleges the sum is due him in wages. The libel prohibits the ship from being moved from its dock.

DOCTORS FIND HER 'VERY ILL'; TWO DAY DELAY

Court to Get Report on Monday.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

Declaration of a mistrial in the Wynekoop murder case seemed imminent last night, due to the growing exhaustion of the invalid defendant, Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop. A decision on the question is expected Monday.

By order of Judge Joseph B. David, who is presiding at the trial, three physicians spent an hour and fifteen minutes yesterday afternoon examining Dr. Wynekoop, alleged slayer of her daughter-in-law, Rheta. Judge David authorized the examination on a plea of her attorneys that to yield to her insistence that the trial go on would be "legal suicide."

Physicians Are Grave.

The three physicians emerged from the jail infirmary where the doctor is confined at 5 p. m. All were grave.

"We agreed that she's a very sick woman," said Dr. Arthur Byfield, court representative on the medical committee.

"Yes, she's ill, all right," echoed Dr. William D. McNally, representing the state.

The third physician, Dr. Frank Chauvet, representing the Wynekoop forces, made no comment.

"We will make no further report here," Dr. Byfield went on. "Our instructions are to present our findings to Judge David in court Monday. No one else will know them before that time."

Judge Confirms Instructions.

Reached at the Covenant club, Judge David confirmed D. Byfield's version of his instructions.

"I know the case has attracted a lot of attention," he remarked. "But it would be improper to disclose this report anywhere but in court—in the presence of the defendant, her counsel and the prosecutor."

Should the medical committee agree that a resumption of the trial might prove fatal, Judge David said he would grant the defense plea for a mistrial. A means to that end has already been devised by Defense Attorney Frank Tyrrell.

"Withdrawal of a juror would be the only thing necessary," Mr. Tyrrell averred. "The judge could authorize that and thereby create grounds for a mistrial. I believe there are precedents."

State to Oppose Mistrial.

No matter what the findings, the state will oppose declaration of a mistrial, Prosecutor Charles S. Dougherty announced.

"Withdrawal of a juror would be a subterfuge," he said. "I know of no precedents for such an action. The state will insist that this case go on to the jury."

The very nature of the defendant's malady—hardened arteries and high blood pressure—demands that the case go to a decision, Dougherty argued.

"I think Dr. Wynekoop's own position is sensible, if it's sincere," he said of the defendant's expressed determination to go through with the case to clear her name.

May Live Ten Years.

"Our information is that the ailment is such that the doctor might die in ten minutes or live ten years," Dougherty explained. "The state has no inclination to hasten her natural death by unnecessary strain.

"But here is the situation: There is no reason to assume that Dr. Wynekoop's health is going to improve. There is no reason to hope her strength will gain as long as she's in jail. We certainly will not consent to her release on bail. Why shouldn't we, then, insist on getting it over with now? If we don't try her now we won't be able to try her ever."

Judge David's decision, first to postpone the case to Monday, and later to authorize the medical examination of the defendant, came after the defendant had come to court against the advice of the jail physician, Dr. Francis W. McNamara, and there suffered the fifth heart attack she had withstood since the trial opened.

Temperature Is Subnormal.

With her pulse racing at 100 and her temperature subnormal at 96 degrees, Dr. Alice was wheeled into court at 10 a. m., determined to go on "if it kills me." Dr. Catherine took her mother's hand, inquiring how she felt.

"O! I'm terribly bad this morning, darling," she replied, continuing with more energy than her statement seemed to warrant.

"I am going to die all right—I know that. But I want more than ever to finish this trial before I pass out. They simply must hurry things along."

Attorney W. W. Smith was before the bench, meanwhile, urging the postponement his client opposed. Following her collapse in court the previous evening, he said, the defendant was examined by Drs. Chauncey Maher and Earle Gray.

"These specialists were of the opinion it would be highly dangerous to go on," Mr. Smith averred. "As an officer of this court I am unwilling to take the responsibility for going on under these circumstances, even though my client wishes it. I respectfully request, therefore, that we adjourn to Monday."

Judge David pondered the point.

"Of course, we don't want to insist on a course that will cause her to collapse," Prosecutor Dougherty said. "I suggest an examination by a state physician to discover her true condition."

Room Buzzes with Rumors.

Court fans, mystified by the inaudible discussion at the bench, began to whisper and the crowded room was soon buzzing with rumors. Judge David abruptly adjourned the discussion to his chambers.

Dr. Alice, seemingly indifferent over the question of postponement, was carrying on an animated conversation now. Her spiritual adviser, the Rev. John Henry Hopkins, had stepped forward and gallantly kissed her hand.

"That man Hoffman!" the venerable defendant was exclaiming. "He's diabolical. I simply can't understand how he could have said the things he did. He would testify to anything. He's the devil's own liar."

Her allusion was to Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, director of the Criminal court behavior clinic who, just before her collapse Thursday, repeated under oath an alleged private confession she made to him that she "did it to save the poor dear." The "poor dear," Dr. Hoffman later explained, referred to the slain Rheta.

"There, there, my dear doctor," the clergyman soothed her. "Whatever has been said, I want you to know I still believe in you!"

Catherine in New Dress.

Dr. Alice's mouth twitched in a faint smile as she thanked the Rev. Mr. Hopkins with a hand pat. Dr. Catherine, appearing quite pert in a new dress of gray crêpe that set off her auburn hair, took up the Wynekoop family complaints.

"The callousness of these people," she whispered with a fond look at Dr. Alice. "Imagine Dr. Hoffman. And imagine a reporter calling me up at 2 o'clock this morning. I was so angry I could hardly speak."

Judge and lawyers emerged from chambers. Word filtered back to the defense table that the trial would be postponed. Dr. Alice set her mouth in a firm line and shook her head vigorously. Her relatives stepped forward, including a brother, Ira Lindsay, and a sister, Mrs. George Fairclo, both of Sycamore, and her son, Walker Wynekoop of Glencoe.

Attorney Smith called the relatives into chambers. Dr. Alice was wheeled in with them. After conferring in private for some minutes a decision was reached to postpone the trial.

Jury Is Brought In.

With the invalid defendant and her wheel chair out of sight, the bailiff rapped for order. Cigarets were extinguished, the court fans subsided, and the jury marched in. Judge David sought skillfully to dispel any impressions the jurymen might have received as their eyes strayed to Dr. Wynekoop's vacant chair.

"A postponement until Monday is necessary," he said heartily, with a smile. "You gentlemen and counsel on both sides have been going splendidly. We are making excellent progress. You must not speculate on the cause of this postponement at any time."

The jury returned the judge's smile, nodded their thanks for his compliment, and marched out. Dr. Alice, meanwhile, had arrived at the jail infirmary.

"I'm feeling terrible," she smiled at the jail physician, Dr. Francis W. McNamara, as she toyed with the meal of vegetable soup, salad, and milk which her son, Walker, brought in. She was nibbling a leaf of the salad when nausea overcame her.

"I guess I'll be going home soon, now," she said feebly to Dr. McNamara.

Her Only Home Now.

"What do you mean?" he asked.

"O! just upstairs to my cell. That's the only home I have now, you know."

A few minutes later she was taken to her cot to rest for the examination of the three physicians. Dr. McNamara announced she seemed "very nervous," adding that her morning trip to court was against his advice.

At 10 o'clock last night Dr. Wynekoop was reported asleep. Dr. Constantine Theodore, assistant jail physician, examined her at 7:30 p. m. and found her resting well. For supper she had a light broth, a salad, and a glass of milk.

A stir was created yesterday by publication in a tabloid of a purported "confession" by John Van Pelt, the Wynekoop janitor, stating it was he who shot Rheta on the doctor's operating table Nov. 21, while the doctor steadied his hand, she having first put Rheta to sleep with chloroform.

His reward for pressing a revolver against Rheta's back according to the "confession," as to be $150 from the doctor's purse and the privilege of marrying her after the funeral. A published facsimile of the "confession" bore the purported signature of John Van Pelt, which, when compared with the janitor's authentic signature on a police statement, appeared equally genuine.

Notwithstanding the apparent authenticity of the signature, State's Attorney Courtney and Assistant State's Attorney Dougherty, evinced no interest in Van Pelt. The state's attorney office had learned of a series of "confessions" emanating from the janitor a month ago, and had established their falsity by five days of investigation, Dougherty said.

Courtney Issues Statement.

Mr. Courtney issued a formal statement, which read as follows:

"We heard rumors in December of statements by Van Pelt. We investigated them thoroughly and found to our satisfaction that Van Pelt was not in Chicago on Nov. 21, the day of the murder.

"No one in authority ever had custody of Van Pelt. On Dec. 24, a writ of habeas corpus was filed in Criminal court by Dr. Wynekoop's attorney, Frank Tyrrell. The writ demanded that my office, the police, or sheriff present Van Pelt instanter. My officer filed a sworn statement that we did not then, or ever, have him in custody."

"A few days later Van Pelt appeared at the Fillmore street police station and told Acting Capt. Thomas Duffy that he had been kidnaped and held prisoner for four or five days. Duffy said he did not want him."

Opinion around the Criminal court was that Van Pelt's kidnapers were newspapermen. The janitor, 69 years old, estranged from his family in California and without sources other than the lodging Dr. Wynekoop gave him, is known to be an alcohol addict. The assumption was that if he "confessed" at all, it was under the stimulus of alcohol.

Judge Is Provoked.

On direct examination of Capt. John Stege in court Wednesday, Defense Attorney Milton Smith had asked whether Van Pelt "ever confessed murdering Rheta." Stege denied it with a laugh, but the judge was provoked to wrath.

"You can't take every Tom, Dick and Harry the police have questioned and try to put him on trial in this court," he warned Attorney Smith.

The judge added, however, that if Earle Wynekoop, Rheta's husband, who once "confessed" the killing, desired to repeat it on the stand, the court would not forbid it. Dougherty averred, with reference to Van Pelt, that the state could, if necessary, establish the same unimpeachable alibi for him that was earlier established for Earle.

28 Indian Couples Rewed Under White Man's Law

ALERT BAY, British Columbia, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The legal requirements surrounding marriage as laid down in the white man's laws were satisfied en masse tonight by 28 Indian couples, previously married according to their own code. The Indians had applied for relief, but upon being advised they must go through a marriage ceremony in order to qualify, they went to the Rev. C. K. K. Prosser, rector of the Church of England here, and gave their "I wills" and "I dos" with one general voice.

Traylor Passes Restful Day, His Doctors Report

Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, who is confined to his home at 426 Barry avenue by pneumonia, passed a restful day yesterday, according to his physicians, Dr. Samuel R. Cubbins and Dr. N. C. Gilbert. Both expressed themselves as satisfied with his progress.

Notes of the Wynekoop Trial

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Attorney Frank Tyrrell, who is assisting Dr. Wynekoop's staff of defense lawyers, was all smiles yesterday following Thursday's court spectacle when he threw a book at a photographer who was making a speed flash of his client. He blamed the book throwing incident on an aching tooth and said that with the tooth treated he would be "a more agreeable person" next week.

The first juror to receive a visit since the jury was impaneled was Fred Marsh of 3512 North Keeler avenue, victim of a toothache on the previous day. Under the strict supervision of Bailiff Mike Jelinek he was allowed to talk to his wife on what the bailiff said was a "purely domestic matter."

Dr. Wynekoop's sister, Mrs. Mabel Faircio of Sycamore, her husband, George, and Mr. and Mrs. Ira Lindsay of Onarga, brother and sister-in-law of the defendant, visited the defendant in Judge David's chambers yesterday. On emerging Mrs. Faircio said, "she looks terrible."

Walker Wynekoop expressed indignation against Dr. Harry Hoffman's testimony of the previous day. "I didn't blame the police for questioning mother," he said, "because that's part of their business. But Dr. Hoffman had no business in trying to get a confession. He knew that she was not even under arrest. Moreover, he lied in his testimony."

One of the psychiatrists, who has been in and out of Judge David's court during the Wynekoop trial, yesterday pointed out conversationally "two extreme opposites in emotional makeup—Judge David and Dr. Wynekoop." "The doctor's emotional disposition is like that of Assistant State's Attorney Charles Dougherty," he said, "calm and dispassionate." The defense attorneys, he pointed out, also afforded a contrast in Milton Smith and Frank Tyrrell. It is Milton Smith who indulges in many tilts with the court, and it was Tyrrell who threw the book at a photographer Thursday.

PRESIDENT ADDS 21 MILLIONS TO VETS' PAYMENTS

making of decisions on veterans' claims to retain their positions."

The President's move came as an answer to a demand that has been growing on Capitol hill for liberalized treatment of the veterans and from within the Democratic party as well as the Republican. The entire house membership and one-third of the senate must run for reelection next fall. They admittedly still feel the need of catering to the well organized veterans' minority. With popular opinion seemingly lulled into disregard of huge governmental expenditures after its uprising of a few months ago economy appears to the congressional candidates to be less important politically than veterans' benefits.

Already a strong group has gathered behind the four way bill sponsored by the American Legion which will go far to restore to the statute books regulations which the President wiped out last spring—among them a partial resumption of presumptive service connected benefits. Adoption of the bill will mean an added cost for veterans of an estimated 100 million dollars a year.

Members of congress would prefer to be able to say that it was they who liberalized the drastic cuts engineered by the President, but Mr. Roosevelt, it appears, does not intend to trust the job to their hands for fear that there will be no stopping point.

EDITOR KIDNAPED BY ENEMIES AND THROWN INTO SEA

CASTRIES, St. Lucia, British West Indies, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Serious disorders appeared imminent tonight at Fort de France, Martinique, following the slaying of a newspaper editor, characterized as "an attempt at the liberty of the press."

Dispatches from the French colony said the editor, André Aliker, had been kidnaped by agents of enemies whose threats had failed to still his pen, and cast into the sea. His body, bound with ropes, drifted ashore nine miles from Port de France.

Police arrested four persons, but efforts to hold a trial were frustrated by hundreds of citizens who thronged to the court crying "vengeance." Fearing violence, the officers returned the prisoners to their cells and strengthened the guard.

Aliker, editor of the syndicalist organ, Justice, was described as a strong defender of the laboring classes.

Two Draw 30 Days' Jail for Sunday Shoe Shining

Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 20.—(AP)—For shining shoes on Sunday in violation of the state bootblacks' code, Harry Karros and John Glezos were sentenced in police court today to 30 days in jail. The sentences were suspended, however, on their promise to observe the code.

SOUDER DENIES GUILT IN HACKETT KIDNAPING CASE

Trial of Accused Pair May Close Today.

Frank Souder, Benton bootlegger, took the witness stand before a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Thomas J. Lynch last night and denied that he had participated in the kidnapings of James Hackett, Blue Island gambler. Souder is on trial with Gale Swolley, Peoria saloonkeeper, on charges of having kidnaped Hackett for ransom on May 27, 1933. The victim was seized at 127th street and Cicero avenue in Alsip. This was the second time Hackett had been kidnaped.

Souder was the last witness of a night session of court, which was held in an effort to hurry the case to a conclusion. Judge Lynch said at the adjournment if the case could be finished today "at a decent hour" he would then send it to the jury, which has been qualified to impose the death penalty. Otherwise the closing arguments will be postponed until Monday.

Souder, a tall, slender man who wears gold rimmed glasses, said he believed he was the victim of a grudge on the part of Julius Augustus [Babe] Jones, Aurora and St. Charles bootlegger, who broke the code of gangland and turned state's evidence.

Denies Hackett's Charges.

Accusations made by Hackett and by Frank Carney, who was with Hackett when the latter was kidnaped the second time, as well as the corroborating testimony of Jones, were denied by the defendant. He denied that he was a member of the gang of Theodore [Handsome Jack] Klutas, who was slain by detectives recently.

Souder denied that he was even acquainted with Swolley, his co-defendant, or that he had ever seen Hackett before the latter identified him as one of his kidnapers. He admitted he was in Chicago on the day of the kidnaping, but said he was here to get a charter for a downstate bartenders' union and to visit A Century of Progress, which opened that day. He said he was at the World's Fair from morning to night of the day of the second Hackett kidnaping.

The witness was not asked about the first kidnaping of Hackett, when the gambler paid $75,000 for his release. Hackett, who was held captive in Jones' home in Aurora in the second kidnaping, paid $1,500 of a promised $10,000 ransom.

Attacks Defendant's Testimony.

Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan attacked Souder's testimony that he was not acquainted with Swolley, showing that Souder and Swolley registered in the Southmoor hotel on May 11, 1933, at about the same time. This must have been a coincidence, said Souder.

Souder's testimony, which was brief, was given largely in answers to questions by Attorney George Crane of defense counsel.

Q.—What was the purpose of your being in Chicago in May, 1933? A.—To organize a bartenders and dispensers' union.

Q.—Did you talk to Jones about this? A.—Yes, I knew him because he ran alcohol in southern Illinois. I asked him to introduce me to the men who had charge of the union. He said he knew them, but I found out he did not. I had promised him a job as organizer if he would help me get a charter.

Q.—Did you give Jones a job? A.—No, I told him that he did not do me any good and I would not give him a job. I guess he has an ill feeling against me over the union.

In further testimony Souder denied that he was one of the kidnapers, despite the fact that he had been identified by Hackett.

Balk Testimony by Wife.

Before Souder took the stand the defense was denied permission to put his wife, Mrs. Maude Souder, on the stand as an alibi witness.

The state closed its case early in the afternoon with police testimony regarding the arrest of the defendants. The prosecution received a setback when Pat Roche, former chief investigator for the state's attorney's office and now a private detective, who solved the case, could not be called to the stand because of illness. Walter Wendt, one of his investigators, testified in his stead.

The prosecution called witnesses rapidly in drawing its case to a close. The court session was opened with Jones being recalled to the witness stand for redirect examination by Assistant State's Attorney Coghlan.

When Jones was called an unusual situation was revealed regarding his promised immunity. On cross-examination Jones had previously testified that before he went on the witness stand he was handed a paper by Public Defender Benjamin Bachlach. The judge allowed parts of it to be read to the jury.

The paper was virtually a signed contract between Jones and the assistant prosecutor, saying that Coghlan would "recommend consideration" for Jones if he testified for the state in this and "other cases." The mention of "other cases" caused the objections by the defense.

According to court attaches, this case is the first in the history of the Criminal court in which a defendant has been given a written promise of immunity for turning state's evidence.

Milk Wagon Driver Tells of Seeing Banker Kidnaped

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 19.—(AP)—A witness to the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer tonight shed the first ray of light on the obscure circumstances surrounding the wealthy banker's abduction Wednesday.

The witness is James Quinehan, a milk wagon driver, who told how the kidnapers seized the 37 year old owner and president of the Commercial State bank between 8:20 and 8:30 a. m. last Wednesday.

"I was driving east on Goodrich avenue," said Quineman, "until I reached Dunlap street, where I stopped to let a bunch of kids cross the street to the Summit school nearby.

Pulls in Front of Banker's Car.

"A block away I saw two automobiles. The Bremer car had stopped before crossing Lexington avenue, an arterial highway, when suddenly a big sedan pulled up squarely in front of it. It looked like an accident.

"I turned my head a moment to say hello to some of the kids and when I looked back again I saw the strange automobile moving away with the Bremer car following. I must have stopped there about two minutes before I went along.

"I didn't see any of the men in the car and I couldn't identify them."

Quinehan at the time was unaware he was witnessing a kidnaping and it wasn't until later, when talking with Miss Louise Bremer, sister of the missing man, that Quinehan decided he had seen the abduction.

Denies Contact with Abductors.

Bremer had just left his 8 year old daughter, Betty, at the Summit school and started for his office. His automobile, blood stained, later was found abandoned, arousing fears in the Bremer family for his safety.

When Miss Bremer saw Quinehan today she told him no contact had been made with the kidnapers up to 10 a. m., observing:

"Money doesn't mean anything. It's all ready. We are interested in getting him back safely."

Other Developments of Day.

Other events of the day included:

Reiteration of the appeal of Adolph Bremer, capitalist father of the kidnaped man and personal friend of President Roosevelt, that police and government investigators "stand aside" from the case so that the ransom could be paid and his son's safety assured.

Following Bremer's appeal it was announced in Washington tonight the department of justice had withdrawn temporarily its forces from investigation of the case.

Quintting of St. Paul policemen with bullet proof vests and submachine guns while Chief Thomas Dahill awaited the signal to go ahead and "do business." Police so far have acceded to the family's wishes to keep out of the case. But Dahill has 67 men on 24 hour duty ready to start at any moment.

Ransom Money Ready.

The ransom money was ready in old bills according to the kidnapers' demands and the Bremer family, which is one of the wealthiest in St. Paul, were anxiously awaiting instructions as to where the package was to be delivered.

Meanwhile, George St. Marie, an acquaintance of Bremer, told police he saw two men acting suspiciously the night before the kidnaping.

"I was bowling with Mr. Bremer and his brother," St. Marie said. "I noticed two strangers in the rear of the bowling alley. One of them said 'That isn't the man. It's the other,' and he pointed at Edward Bremer."

St. Marie furnished police with descriptions of the pair.

Stolen, 34; recovered, 77; stripped, 4 [from police records for 24 hours ended at midnight Thursday].

Lieut. John L. Kelley, head of the stolen auto detail, said last night that the new police campaign against automobile thievery is showing results. During the 24 hour period ended Thursday night, he said, only thirty-four cars were stolen, the fewest since August, 1932. Police, Lieut. Kelley said, are more and more on the alert against automobile stealing, and are receiving commendable assistance from the new Auto court.

BILL COLLECTION AGENCIES FACING POSTAL LAW QUIZ

The federal government will open an investigation today of several large collection agencies, accused of violating the postal laws in sending out "dunning" letters to slow paying debtors. Assistant District Attorney Edward A. Fisher said that two officials of one collection agency, affiliated with a large furniture house, would be questioned this morning.

Two types of offenses have been discovered in preliminary investigations. One violates a postal law in that libelous and obscene matter is printed on the outside of the envelope. The other is a violation of the Lindbergh law, which makes it a crime to send threatening letters through the mail.

One firm threatened to distribute handbills, carrying a record of the debtor's account, and to post large bills carrying his record and his picture, in his home town. Another firm sent letters to creditors, the envelope carried an "alias" in large letters following his real names, and the inclusion of a name reflecting on his character.

10 JURORS NAMED FOR KIDNAP TRIAL OF TOUHY AND 3

Two Tentative; Expect a Full Panel Today.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

Ten jurors had been accepted, two of them tentatively and eight definitely, when court adjourned yesterday in the trial of four Touhy gangsters charged with the kidnaping of John Factor.

The four defendants, whom the state is seeking to send to the electric chair, are: Roger Touhy, leader of the notorious north side gang; Edward [Father Tom] McFadden; Gustav [Gloomy Gus] Schaefer, and Albert [Polly Nose] Kator.

The attorneys in the case were in agreement that the jury probably will be completed this morning. A special venire of 100 prospective jurors was ordered to appear.

Under orders of Judge Michael Feinberg the ten men were locked up for the night.

Investigating Their Histories.

A force of investigators from the state's attorney's office, however, was delegated to spend the night probing into the histories of the ten citizens. Twice before, during the selection of a jury, evidence has been uncovered disqualifying accepted jurors because they had concealed facts about themselves which made them unacceptable to the state.

One hundred and sixty men had passed through the jury box at the close of court yesterday. Fifty-five had been excused by the court, fifty-one had been peremptorily challenged by the defense, and forty-eight peremptory challenges had been used by the state. The remaining ten constituted those who will, barring any further developments, join with two others in determining whether the defendants are innocent or guilty of kidnaping for ransom, and what penalty they shall pay if guilty.

Veniremen Closely Quizzed.

During the day there was presented a fine bit of legal jockeying in which, it appeared, the lawyers strove to find jurors who under no conceivable circumstances might entertain independent opinions of their own.

Veniremen were rejected by the defense because, apparently, they considered the law against kidnaping a good one to enforce. On the other hand, the state was suspicious of a man who admitted that a distant relative of his wife had once, a decade ago, been arrested.

An examination of the questions asked by both sides and the many rejections of the day indicated that the ideal juror was one who never read the newspapers or, if he did, never believed what he read.

Must Presume Innocence.

He must be a man, the defense seemed to insist, who could look at the four defendants and presume them to be as innocent as himself of the crime charged. He must note the surly stare of Roger Touhy and his three co-defendants and not be prejudiced against them if they choose not to take the stand in their own defense. These two points, as a matter of fact, are insisted upon by the law and the judge so instructed the veniremen.

An incident illustrating the manner in which the law puzzles the layman was furnished when Albert Stachel Jr., an Austrian born florist from Glencoe, whose answers indicated an intelligent conception of the case on trial, was rejected for cause.

Stachel could not understand why the fact that a defendant might not choose to take the stand in his own defense should not be considered against him.

"If a man's accused of a crime and is innocent, it's natural that he should stand up and deny it," he insisted. "That's what I would want to do."

"But it's not the law," the judge told him—and Sachel went the way of many others.

Judge Remonstraies.

The frequent rejection of jurors because they had read about the kidnaping in the press finally stirred the court to a remonstrance.

"We want no jurors so narrow minded," he said, "that they can form an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of these defendants based upon what they have read in the papers. Such a person would not be worthy to sit in any case. These defendants are not to be tried upon what has appeared in the press concerning them. I suspect that the answers of some of you may be colored by a desire to avoid jury service. I appeal to you to answer honestly the questions as to your qualifications."

STEAM ROLLER PUSHES MONEY BILL TO A VOTE

Protests Continue Before Committees.

Warburg Speeds Trip

New York, Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Felix M. Warburg, banker and philanthropist, made a hurried departure on the Olympic tonight for London.

The banker arrived at the pier in dress clothes shortly before the boat sailed, remarking that he had just left a dinner. His name was not on the sailing list. Mr. Warburg is a member of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., international bankers. He has been an advocate of stabilization of the dollar and recently remarked that action in the immediate future was considered "of great importance."

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Under the urge of pressure from the treasury, obedient Democratic members are ready to rush President Roosevelt's monetary bill through the house of representatives tomorrow under a special rule permitting only four hours of debate.

The continued changes of the dollar in terms of foreign exchange and urgent refinancing demands are impelling administration leaders to extreme haste and to ignore the vehement protests against the bill's passage. Members of congress and witnesses sought in vain today, as they have since the President's monetary message, to halt progress of the bill, at least for full consideration.

Called "Spineless Majority."

Republican House Leader Bertrand H. Snell of New York, declared that not 10 per cent of the members knew what was in the measure or what effect it would have. The obedience of the Democratic majority to the commands of the White House made it "the most spineless majority we have ever had," said Mr. Snell.

Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], secretary of the treasury under President Wilson, challenged the constitutionality of the bill and its proposal to seize all federal reserve gold. He was joined in his effort by Senator Daniel O. Hastings [Rep., Del.].

The Virginia Democrat charged that in giving his recent opinion upholding the validity of the proposed law, Attorney General Cummings had purposely omitted portions of Supreme court opinions hostile to his point of view.

Both Senators Glass and Hastings pointed out that though, as Mr. Cummings said, congress might have power to order the seizure of property for public use under its right of eminent domain, the determination of the compensation to be paid for the property is a judicial and not a legislative function.

Bankers Warn of Inflation.

Members of the senate banking and currency committee heard Roy A. Young, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, and Dr. Benjamin M. Anderson Jr., economist of the Chase National Bank of New York, declare that the creation and use of a two billion dollar stabilization fund, as now proposed, might swell member bank reserves to a possible four billion 900 million dollars and initiate an uncontrollable inflation of credit.

The house coinage committee heard George W. Norris, governor of the Philadelphia Reserve bank, demand what was going to happen to the more than three billions of federal reserve notes when the treasury took the gold security out from under them.

But One Favorable Witness.

Among committee witnesses only former Senator Robert L. Owen, former chairman of the senate banking and currency committee, lauded the measure, claiming that all gold should be in the treasury's hands, that currency need not be redeemable, that the measure would serve to achieve a money stabilized in purchasing power.

Chairman Andrew Somers [Dem., N. Y.] of the house coinage committee revealed, following a conference with President Roosevelt, that an administration amendment will be offered to the section creating the 2 billion dollar fund with which the treasury intends to stabilize the dollar in foreign exchange.

Instead of meeting the demand for some form of independent supervision, the amendment will cloak the use of the fund in secrecy for three years, at the end of which time a report will be made to congress.

Not Concerned with Profit.

Both Gov. Young and Gov. Norris and Dr. Anderson maintained their willingness to see the treasury acquire the profit to come from devaluation of the federal reserve gold, but they were insistent that the gold itself be not seized. And Gov. Young and Dr. Anderson were positive and dramatic in their prediction of what might happen should the stabilization fund be built up out of the profit on the gold.

They pointed out the danger of too large an excess of member bank reserves and that these reserves were already 900 million dollars, or more than enough to start wild expansion and speculation should confidence suddenly be restored. As proposed by the bill, they said, the expenditure of t. stabilization fund would mean an increase in member bank reserves by a parallel amount.

GOLD PROFIT PAYS BILLS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—As cash in the government's till ebbed close to the danger line today the treasury department prepared to pay its bills out of the "profit" on gold revaluation as soon as the pending gold bill, with a joker allowing them to do so, is enacted.

Meanwhile governors of the twelve federal reserve banks, smarting under the treasury's insistence that they surrender their gold, were hurrying to Washington to meet tomorrow to decide whether they will help the treasury borrow the billions necessary for the new deal's pending program.

Plan Two Funds.

The joker is an amendment which Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau had written into the bill yesterday and which permits the treasury to pay out gold certificates for any purpose it sees fit. At present it can pay out gold certificates only to meet government interest payments.

Approximately 666 million dollars, enough to run the government at its most furious rate of spending for three weeks, would thus become available for meeting treasury bills.

The total profit on devaluation of the dollar to 60 cents would be 2 billion 666 million dollars, but 2 billions is earmarked for a stabilization fund.

More Financing Next Week.

With less than 500 million dollars left in its cash fund and with the government spending at the rate of more than 200 million dollars a week the treasury is asking congress to pass the gold bill by Tuesday.

Meanwhile, however, the treasury is preparing to borrow money in the routine way, by floating securities, but the borrowing is not to be started until the middle of next week.

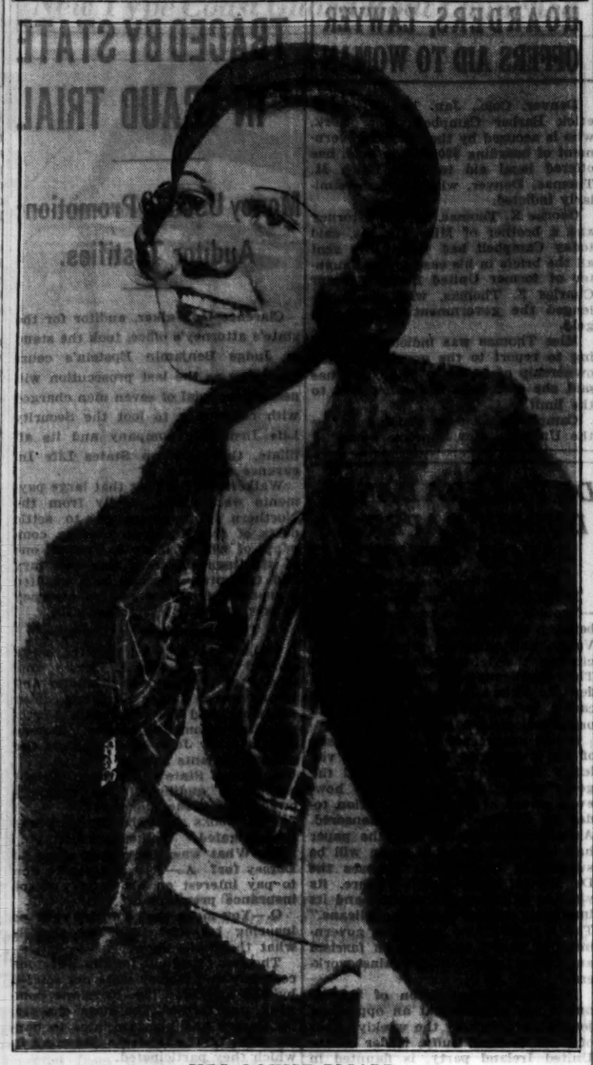
Granted Divorce from Banker's Son



MRS. LOUISE PICARD.

Old Decree Voided

Judge Ralph F. Desort in the Superior court yesterday set aside the separate maintenance decree which Mrs. Louise Picard, 21 years old, obtained on Feb. 9 from Charles T. Picard, 3159½ Hudson avenue, son of Napoleon Picard, retired banker. In its place the judge granted Mrs. Picard a decree of divorce.

The action was taken on a petition filed by her husband. They were married Sept. 18, 1932, and separated on Oct. 19 of that year. Attorney Harry X. Cole, representing Picard, argued that it was against public policy to grant a woman 21 years old separate maintenance on the basis of a marriage which had endured only so short a time.

Mrs. Picard, who had been receiving $7 a week under the separate maintenance decree, was granted $250 for alimony arrears which had accumulated, but was denied further alimony. At the request of her husband the court directed that she resume her maiden name of Louise Juke.

15,000 WORKERS LOSE CWA JOBS; WAGES REDUCED

Economy Measure Affects Downstate, Too.

Fifteen thousand workers on CWA projects in Cook county were laid off yesterday and the weekly wages of the remaining 100,000 workers were cut twenty per cent in an economy program instituted by Frank D. Chase, Illinois director for the Civil Works administration, acting on orders from Washington.

In all downstate counties the local representatives of the state Civil Works administration were carrying out orders sent out by Mr. Chase to reduce the number of men on their pay rolls by 11 per cent, in a manner that will work the least hardship. This cut will reduce the number of CWA workers in downstate counties from 112,374 to 100,000. The men who retain their CWA jobs downstate took a fifty per cent wage cut.

15,000 Cut in County.

In Cook county 15,000 were laid off. Work was halted on state and county road projects employing 5,000 men. Ten thousand other workers were taken off the pay rolls yesterday because they were absent from their jobs without leave.

The exact manner of reducing the number of men employed in each downstate county was left to the county civil works representatives, Mr. Chase said, in the belief that they will know best what men to discharge. Each county must reduce its number of workers by 11 per cent.

The wage reductions were put into effect by reducing the number of hours workers will be allowed to put in each week. In all cities of 2,500 population or more the weekly work hours of CWA workers were cut from 30 to 24, or, one six hour day was cut from the five day week. In all smaller towns and in rural districts the weekly work hours were reduced from 30 to 15. How the fifteen hours will be distributed has been left to the decision of county CWA representatives, Mr. Chase said.

Tells Reduction Method.

"In determining how to reduce the number of CWA workers in Cook county from about 113,000 to 100,000 in accordance with orders from Harry L. Hopkins, federal civil works administrator, I first terminated such projects as we considered the least desirable," Mr. Chase said. "That took 5,000 men off of the pay roll. Most of those men assigned to those projects came from the relief rolls. Next we sought to make a reduction of about 10,000 men in as fair a manner as possible. We did that by taking all of the men absent without leave from the pay roll, on the theory that if they were not interested in their work they should not have it."

Mr. Chase pointed out that the discharge of 10,000 men for being absent without leave will not affect any men who were ill, nor will it allow any political discrimination to be employed in the reduction of the pay roll.

Clerical, supervisory, and professional workers were reduced to a maximum of thirty hours of work a week with a "proportionate wage adjustment." The reduction of working hours does not apply, however, to administrative workers in administrators' offices.

WANT UNCLE SAM TO MAKE PARK OF OLD POSTAL SITE

Suggested as a Job for the CWA.

Suggestions were advanced yesterday to the effect that the United States government might well spend some of the funds it is disbursing through the CWA or PWA for the improvement of the square block it owns southwest of the new United States postoffice.

This property was purchased from the Marshall Field estate several years ago to be used as the postoffice site. Later, however, the land the huge building now occupies was purchased. The former Field property is now mainly a vacant lot, and not a very sightly one. The United States appraisers' stores, a new building, occupies only a small part of the block, which is bounded by Harrison, Polk, Clinton, and Canal streets.

Suggest Use as a Park.

The specific suggestion is that the lot be converted into a small park, beautified with grass, shrubbery, and trees. Besides furnishing a bit of free space for the residents of a section that has no nearby parks, it is held that postal employés would find it a pleasant spot in which to rest and that the appraisers' stores would have a setting more in keeping with their architectural beauty.

Mayor Kelly gave his approval to the suggested project.

"There are no small parks as near the loop as this one would be," he said. "It would be particularly valuable if a small fieldhouse could be placed on the land, and I believe if the government would build it the city would be able to find the money for maintenance."

Walter Wright, superintendent of the city's bureau of parks and recreation, said last night the suggestion was a welcome one and that he hoped it would be carried out.

"Some thousands of dollars would have to be expended for black soil and grading and for installation of drainage," he said. "The cost of trees and shrubbery would be comparatively small."

Believes CWA Has Power.

Jacob L. Crane Jr., consultant for the national planning board, said that he believed the CWA had authority to spend for the purpose.

The next step, it was indicated, will be for those favoring the project to formulate a petition to Washington authorities to have this work done.

French Deputy Strikes Editor in Row Over Stavisky Scandal

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 19.—Revival of the duel as a prominent feature of French parliamentary life is forecast. Following the encounter yesterday in the chamber of deputies between Minister of Education Anatole de Monzie and Deputy Philippe Henriot, a fist fight occurred in the lobby of the chamber this morning between Desire Farry, publisher of the opposition paper, La Liberte, and Joseph S. La Grossilliere, Negro deputy from Martinique.

The fiery Martinican, who is at large under bail in a perjury case, resented the action of La Liberte in calling attention to him yesterday as one of the deputies who opposed appointing a parliamentary investigating committee in the $60,000,000 Bayonne pawnshop scandal. This morning he walked up to Ferry and asked him if he was responsible for the article. When Ferry rpelled, "Yes," La Grossilliere struck him in the face.

Threatens to Shoot Publisher.

Sergeants at arms pulled the antagonists apart. A few minutes later the pair met again and the Martinican, announcing that he was going to perforate his enemy, reached for his hip pocket. He was seized before he could pull a gun.

Ferry immediately chose seconds, but a few moments later decided that in view of La Grossilliere's police record, a duel would be undignified. He went to the police station instead and filed a complaint of assault and battery.

Meantime excitement over the De Monzie-Henriot set-to increased. De Monzie issued a statement denying he had even seen Mme. Stavisky, widow of the pawnshop owner who precipitated the scandal, in a prison infirmary, as the deputy had charged, and calling on Henriot to apologize or meet on the field of honor.

An interview between pairs of seconds to try to clear up the affair was inconclusive, and former Finance Minister Francois Pietri, one of France's ace swordsmen, was appointed umpire. The duel will depend on his decision regarding the point of honor involved.

Mud Slinging Grows.

A whole new series of duels is predicted for Tuesday, when the chamber will again discuss the Stavisky scandal.

Not content with calling each other crooks and liars, which is considered part of the game, political enemies have started to bring in the names of their womenfolk. Gossip concerning diamond necklaces which Stavisky is supposed to have given the wives of some of his prominent acquaintances threatens to materialize into concrete charges. According to the French code of gallantry, this almost certainly involves gunplay.

In view of the rising storm of political passions, a number of deputies today suggested that the long abandoned fencing room of the chamber be reopened so the boys could limber up a bit. Others viewed the epidemic of dueling spirit with alarm and announced the intention of seeking to stiffen the legislation against dueling.

Paul-Boncour Explains.

Dueling is by no means extinct in France, but it is practiced chiefly in military circles. It has been a long time since any deputy has challenged another, although fist fights, inkpot tossing and other forms of assault are fairly common.

Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour, who was named by Henriot yesterday as having visited Mme. Stavisky in the infirmary with De Monzie, today issued a statement at Geneva admitting the fact, but explaining that Mme. Stavisky, who was then under arrest for belonging to a gang of burglars, was the daughter of an old neighbor.

CHICAGO HEIGHTS MAN ACCUSED OF HOME LOAN FRAUD

Wilmer Meyers, 1512 Schilling avenue, Chicago Heights, was arrested yesterday in the offices of the Home Owners' Loan corporation, 134 North La Salle street, on a charge of impersonating a government official. Meyers was pointed out by Opal Wilkerson of Chicago Heights as the man who told her that he was an official of the HOLC and could get her a loan on her home for a fee of $75. Officials said Meyers apparently had made his headquarters in the office in order to get names of intended victims.

Government officials also revealed that Vernon Walter Hardtke, 23 years old, 2907 North Kedzie avenue, is sought on the same charge. Agents said that they planned to arrest him on Jan. 30 when he is scheduled to appear in a state court to answer a charge of passing fraudulent checks.

Mrs. J. Dolce, 519 North May street, and Andrew Gorniak, 6148 Fletcher street, charged that Hardtke had represented himself as an HOLC official and collected "fees" of $28 on the representation that he could obtain HOLC loans for them.

CWA OFFICIAL OUSTED; CHARGE HE TOOK A FEE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Civil Works Administrator Hopkins announced tonight the dismissal of C. E. Meyers of Philadelphia, chief engineer of the Pennsylvania CWA, on a charge of approving a project f· which he received a fee as a consulting engineer.

At the same time Hopkins announced differences between himself and Erick H. Biddle, Pennsylvania civil works administrator, had been smoothed over and that Biddle would remain in office.

In connection with the Meyers case Hopkins said all information in the case is being turned over to the department of justice for investigation. He said the inquiry which resulted in Meyers' dismissal was completed late today and that Biddle ordered Meyers' discharge as soon as the information was placed in his hands.

NEW 151 MILLION SUPERHIGHWAY PLAN SUBMITTED

Provides Loop Quadrangle, Parking Towers.

BY HAL FOUST.

A new elevated highway proposal for Chicago was made public yesterday. It calls for an expenditure of $151,500,000, to be obtained in a federal loan and grant, the loan to be amortized by tolls.

The plan was conceived by John Ickes, chief clerk of special assessments in the board of local improvements. A report indorsing the scheme was submitted yesterday to William W. Link, president of the board, by the department's engineers, Arthur Engh, John B. Hittell, and Albert J. Schafmayer. Mr. Ickes, incidentally, is a brother of Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

Calls for Loop Quadrangle.

The project is a modification of proposals recommended a few years ago by the Chicago Plan commission. It calls for a quadrangle of elevated highways around the central business district and similar superhighways to be built west, northwest, and southwest, abutting existing railroad embankments.

An innovation in the scheme calls for the construction, with federal "easy money," of twenty-four multistoried parking garages in the central business district. These towers are listed at $42,338,000 in the estimated $151,500,000 cost of the project. Highway structures, including bridges, are placed at $61,472,000; building condemnation at $24,545,000, and land condemnation, $23,145,000.

The engineers estimate that a toll of 10 cents for passenger cars and 25 cents for trucks and buses, and a graduated parking fee beginning at 25 cents and averaging 35 cents would retire the necessary federal loan in thirty-five years. This calculation is based on a presumption that the PWA, with a further appropriation from the present session of congress, would make an outright grant of 30 per cent of the cost of materials and labor.

Urge Enabling Legislation.

Mr. Link's engineers urge him to have Gov. Horner call a special session of legislature to authorize the board of local improvements to apply for the government loan and grant, providing construction of the traffic and parking facilities, and to operate the system, including the collection of tolls.

The quadrangle around the loop would consist of elevated structures in Jefferson street, Roosevelt road, Illinois street and the outer drive. These would be equipped with plazas, to facilitate expeditious collection of tolls, as well as with ramps to connect with surface streets.

Plan Austin-Kinzie Route.

The highway to the west would be over the so-called Austin Kinzie route abutting the embankment of the Galena division of the Chicago and North Western railway and terminating on the west at Lake street and Menard avenue, 6.6 miles from the quadrangle.

The westbound route would consist of four lanes, each ten feet wide, with exit and entrance ramps at Ashland, Western, Kedzie, Crawford, and Cicero avenues.

The route to the northwest would follow the Avondale elevated highway proposal of the Chicago Plan commission, abutting the existing embankment of the Chicago and North Western railway to Milwaukee avenue and the Northwest highway, 8.4 miles from the quadrangle. It, too, would have forty feet of pavement, with ramps at Ashland, Western, Kedzie, Crawford, and Cicero avenues.

The Southwest Route.

The southwestern toll road would follow the Chicago and Alton railroad from Roosevelt road west of Clark street to approximately Cicero avenue and 43d street, a distance of 7.4 miles. Its 40 feet of elevated pavement would connect with grade at or near Ashland, Western, Kedzie, and Crawford avenues.

The twenty-four parking towers in the loop would have a capacity of 60,000 automobiles. They would be distributed throughout the central business district and eventually would connect with the elevated quadrangle by a system of one way streets at grade.

Six Lane Loop Traffic.

The quadrangle around the loop, having a total length of 6.1 miles, would have six traffic lanes of ten feet each.

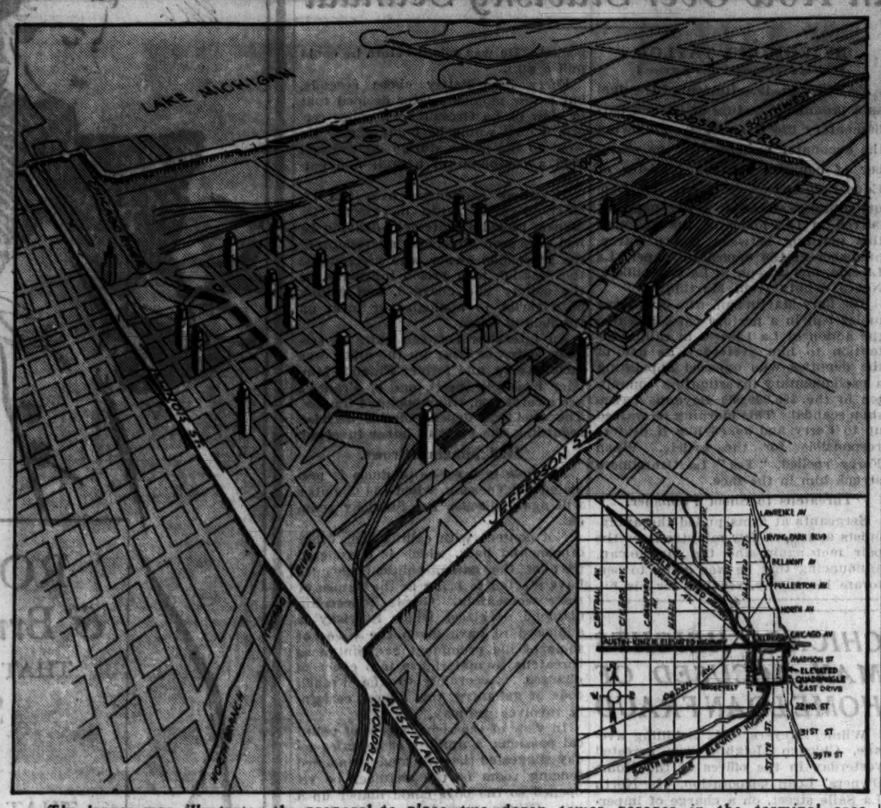
The engineers estimate that the construction of the system would require five years. Thereafter for the next thirty years the average annual revenue from tolls and parking fees would be 11 million dollars, it is estimated, sufficient to operate the system and to retire the federal loan with 4 per cent interest, providing automobiles are still in general use at the end of the next thirty-five years.

The three board of local improvement engineers, in agreement with every other serious student of Chicago's traffic problems, found that no treatment of surface streets offers material relief from the delays and hazards of vehicular congestion. They describe the Ickes plan as "the best offered so far."

HEADS POLICE AID SOCIETY.

Sergt. Patrick Dwyer, secretary of the police pension board, was elected president yesterday of the Police Annuity and Benefit Protective association. He succeeds Capt. Charles Larkin.

PROPOSE ELEVATED HIGHWAYS AROUND LOOP



The larger map illustrates the proposal to place two dozen tower garages in the terminal area served by a new system of toll elevated highways. The garages, financed with government "easy money," would be distributed through the loop and be sufficiently large to accommodate 60,000 automobiles. Inset at the lower right hand is a map of the routes of the proposed highway system. The elementary design would consist of a four lane pavement on a fill abutting existing railroad embankments.

ROB DENTAL OFFICE OF $5,000 IN GOLD IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Dental gold worth $5,000 was stolen, half a dozen dentists, nurses, and others were held up and threatened with death, a restaurant keeper was blackjacked and a policeman kicked in the stomach today by four youthful desperadoes who staged an audacious holdup at the dental laboratory of Dr. Julius Lunenfeld.

The four, at their leisure, robbed all who came into the place after they had overpowered and gagged Stephen Miller, Negro porter, and thrown his apron over his head.

Threatening Morris Lunenfeld, 72 year old father of the laboratory proprietor, with death unless he told them the combination of the safe, the robbers were calmly defied by the aged man, who told them he had lived long enough anyway.

Miller was stationed at the door under guard of a bandit and ordered to admit whoever rang the buzzer. One of the first to arrive was Miss Esta Paul, a nurse. She was ordered to sit down.

"You're a prety cute kid," the bandit said.

Sam Acker, a tenant of the building, was the next visitor. Hyman Deiglin, manager of the laboratory, which was described as one of the largest dental supply houses in the state, entered and was robbed of his watch and chain and $9 in cash.

Others tied up and robbed were Drs. I. Solomon and S. Becker, Jack Rubin, and Dr. Louis Wald. The robbers took about $40 cash and several watches and chains.

When ready to leave the bandits calmly sent one of their number for a taxicab. Henry Turk, restaurant keeper in the building, saw them, and was about to raise an outcry when he was blackjacked unconscious.

At Allen and Delancey streets Patrolman Stephen Donnelly saw the men escaping and leaped aboard a truck.

The truck caught up and Donnelly stepped onto the cab's running board. One of the bandits flung open the door of the cab and sent Donnelly sprawling.

Later Joseph Oloff reported to police that he had driven the robbers at the point of a gun.

U. S. PROSECUTOR IS WITNESS IN STONE CO. TRIAL

Attorney Dwight P. Green, called yesterday as a government witness in the trial of five officials of H. O. Stone & Co., defunct real estate investment concern, testified that he had warned three of the defendants not to sell bonds on the Lawsonia development, a Stone enterprise, as first mortgage bonds.

The government charges that the defendants, who are on trial before a jury in Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan's court on charges of using the mails to defraud, sold approximately $500,000 worth of junior bonds on the development by representing them as first mortgage bonds.

Green said the three defendants whom he warned were Harold D. Bennett, Russell A. Needham, and W. Scott Carroll.

KING INTERCEDES FOR CLAIMANT TO ROYAL KINSHIP

Accused Blackmailer Freed in London.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Clarence Guy Gordon Haddon, who claimed that he was the illegitimate son of King George's elder brother, the late duke of Clarence, today pleaded guilty in Old Bailey court to "menacing the king." At King George's request, as expressed through the attorney general, the accused blackmailer was let off with a light penalty. The defendant was placed under bond to keep the peace and not repeat statements that he is the monarch's nephew.

Haddon, a 43 year old unemployed engineer, had been writing threatening letters to the king demanding money. His assertion was that the duke of Clarence met his mother while she was on a trip to India in 1889-'90 and that he was born in September, 1890.

Evidence Contradicts Claim.

The attorney general produced evidence in the defendant's own handwriting in the shape of declarations at the time he enlisted in the army and in applications for jobs that he was born in 1887. It was also shown that in 1889 and 1890 his mother was living with a young officer in India.

Haddon's counsel, Lloyd Jones, attempted to excuse the defendant on the ground that he had led a hard life and that the legend of royal birth, which was imparted to him by his mother, had become an obsession. In binding Haddon to keep the peace Justice Charles said:

"You know I am taking this course for two reasons. One is that the person against whom these intolerable threats have been made has, through the attorney general, expressed a desire to be in no way vindictive. The second is that by taking this course I am not simply sending you to prison, but putting you on what I believe you possess, your honor.

Judge's Advice to Defendant.

"May I, perhaps, dropping the judge for a minute and as one man to another, appeal to you to put that maggot out of your brain and try to be a happy fellow. You are man enough to do it. If you let that maggot remain in your brain working, there will only be one dismal end, I am sure. So try to use your strength and put it aside and crush it."

"Yes, my lord," Haddon replied.

The defendant left the court with friends after two sureties of $500 each were signed. One of the signers was a woman. Her name was not made public.

Feeding His Pet Pigeons Costs Life of Boy, 10

Feeding his pet pigeons cost the life of 10 year old Steve Lagona, 1942 Division street, last night. With his brother, Edward, 19 years old, the boy went upon the roof of the four story building where they live. While feeding the pigeons Steve ventured too close to the edge of the roof, lost his balance, and fell. He was killed instantly.

SCULLYS ADJUST RENT ON FARMS; TENANTS WILL SAVE $100,000

Lincoln, Ill., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Adjustment on 1933 rentals on 35,000 acres of Scully farm lands in Logan and Sangamon counties which means a saving of $100,000 to 255 tenants was announced today by Thomas A. Scully.

The adjustment in rents is in keeping with the program of Mr. Scully and his brother, Frederick A. Scully, proprietors of more than 200,000 acres, the Scully estates being the largest holdings in the United States devoted to agricultural purposes, begun in 1930 to help their tenants to weather the depression. During the last four years the Scullys have made adjustments to their tenants of more than $500,000.

The 1933 adjustment runs from 60 cents to $4.18 per acre on the Logan and Sangamon county holdings, or an average of about $2.30 per acre. The rental was $5 net an acre to the tenant.

In making the adjustments Mr. Scully based them on his judgment of what was a fair rent paid out of the crops raised in 1933 on each individual farm. Everything was taken into consideration, extreme wet lands, drought, flood damage, damage from chinch bugs and hail.

Nothing definite has been decided upon yet as to the Grundy county farm lands owned by Thomas A. Scully. Reductions have also been made on 128,000 acres of farming lands owned by Frederick Scully in Kansas and Nebraska.

British Prince Sails for 17,000 Mile Tour of Africa

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Replacing the prince of Wales as ambassador of the empire, Prince George sailed today on the liner Carnarvon Castle for South Africa on a 17,000 mile tour as the king's representative. He will return in April and is due to visit Australia in September.

COMPLETE JURY TO HEAR RACKET CONSPIRACY CASE

Trial of Nelson and 17 to Reopen Monday.

After questioning veniremen for 14 days, defense and prosecution attorneys yesterday completed a jury to hear the so-called racket conspiracy case in the Criminal court of Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan. Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th] and 17 other defendants are charged with conspiracy to stifle trade by bombings, strikes, intimidation, and other terroristic methods.

A total of 215 veniremen, including the 12 finally chosen, were questioned during the tedious business of selecting a jury. The state used 60 of the 180 peremptory challenges allowed each side, the defense 43. One hundred prospective jurors were excused for cause.

After the jury was completed the case was continued until Monday to allow Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber, his aids, and the eleven defense attorneys to prepare their opening statements.

First Politico-Crime Trial.

The case, which has drawn a great deal of public interest, is the first in which the state has endeavored to bring out the combination of politics, racketeering labor leaders, and gangland preying upon legitimate business.

The state charges that the defendants engineered a conspiracy to exact tribute from the cleaning and dyeing, carbonated beverage, and linen supply industries.

Principal among the defendants, with Ald. Nelson, are Benjamin F. Squires, economist and one time czar of the cleaning and dyeing industry in Chicago; Aaron Sapiro, New York attorney and trade organizer, and Morris I. Kaplan, counsel for several Chicago trade organizations.

List of Jurors.

The jury agreed upon by the attorneys is made up of the following:

WILLIAM L. HUNSINGER, 1357 Hood avenue.
JOHN SHEPHARD, 2431 78th court, Elmwood Park.
ALVIN H. MICHAELS, 1858 Burling street.
THOMAS A. ANDERSON, 4945 West Ohio street.
JOHN BLIZEK, 2119 South 60th court, Cicero.
JOSEPH BOHNE, 9419 52d avenue, Oak Lawn.
HARRY E. LA PLANT, 8739 Parnell avenue.
JOSEPH A. CROKE, 127 North Fairfield avenue.
EMIL VYSA, 4016 West 25th street.
WALLACE L. WATES, 7033 Stony Island avenue.
ARTHUR B. HOLDSWORTH, 3519 South 59th avenue, Cicero.
WILLIAM F. CULLENBINE, 3833 Wilcox street.

The jurors were sworn in by Judge Finnegan and instructed not to discuss the trial among themselves during its anticipated six week's duration.

List of Other Defendants.

The other defendants to face trial in the case are:

AL BORIS, secretary and business agent of the Retail Cleaners' union.
JAMES F. GORMAN, president of the Retail Cleaners and Dyers' union and former labor commissioner of the Cleaners and Dyers' institute under Dr. Squires.
JOSEPH BUSH IWANIEC, president of the Laundry and Rye House Drivers' union, local 712.
GEORGE BENDELL, secretary and treasurer of the same union.
GEORGE KNOTZ, vice president of the union.
ROBERT RADO, business agent of the union.
CHARLES GOLDSTEIN, another business agent of the union.
WALTER CROWLEY, president of the City Dye works, a private concern.
T. HENRY KLEIN, president of the Chicago Laundry Owners' association.
A. L. CANFIELD, president of the Canfield Beverage company.
JERRY DONOVAN, head of the Beverage Drivers' union.
JEAN FRANKS, business agent for the Retail Cleaners and Dyers' union.
BEN ABRAMS, business agent for the Inside Dye House Workers' union.
MICHAEL ROSE, field secretary of the Cook County Hand Laundry association.

BOTH INDICTED AS GOLD HOARDERS, LAWYER OFFERS AID TO WOMAN

Denver, Colo., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Frederick Barber Campbell, New York, who is accused by the federal government of hoarding $200,000 in gold, has offered legal aid to Miss Edith M. Thomas, Denver, who has been similarly indicted.

George K. Thomas, Denver attorney and a brother of Miss Thomas, said today Campbell had voluntarily sent all the briefs in his case to the daughter of former United States Senator Charles S. Thomas, who also challenged the government to take his gold.

Miss Thomas was indicted for failing to report to the government the ownership of $2,000 in gold. She has said she will fight the indictment to the limit.

Campbell's case is pending before the United States Supreme court.

DE VALERA BANS DUBLIN PAPER AS 'TOO CRITICAL'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Jan. 19.—Trouble continued to develop today between the government of Eamon de Valera and advanced republicans, including the Irish Republican army. The republicans complained that President de Valera, having deserted their cause, is now harassing republican organizations and individuals.

Police suppressed this week's issue of the newspaper Phoblacht for violently criticizing De Valera and the government. The newspaper, however, issued a typewritten edition today in Dublin. It was uncensored. An editorial explains that the paper had been and probably again will be suppressed because it "exposes the De Valera government's failure, its yielding to moneyed interests, and its imprisonment of good republicans." The editorial also says the government is unable to cope with fascism and favors industrialists against workers."

It demands restoration of the republic and alleges that an opposition journal, presumably the weekly paper of Gen. Owen O'Duffy, leader of the United Ireland party, is flaunted in Dublin streets.

$800,000 FORTUNE WASTED BY MATE, WIFE TESTIFIES

Mrs. Florence Bulger, 5200 Blackstone avenue, testified yesterday before Circuit Judge Walter J. LaBuy that J. Francis Bulger, a member of the Board of Trade living at the Medinah-Michigan Avenue club, dissipated a fortune of $800,000 which she gave him to invest.

Mrs. Bulger is suing for separate maintenance on a charge of cruelty. Her husband seeks a divorce on the same grounds. On cross-examination Attorney Frank E. Cantwell, representing Bulger, asked Mrs. Bulger if she had not neglected her husband at a party held in the home of friends on May 6, 1932.

"Yes," said Mrs. Bulger. "Some one at the party told me I ought to pay some attention to my husband, and I went and found him embracing another woman."

"Did you call him a dirty rat and slap him?" asked the attorney.

"I don't remember calling him that name, but I do remember slapping him," said Mrs. Bulger.

Her husband will present his testimony on Wednesday.

INSURANCE CASH TRACED BY STATE IN FRAUD TRIAL

Money Used in Promotion; Auditor Testifies.

Clarence C. Walker, auditor for the state's attorney's office, took the stand in Judge Benjamin Epstein's court yesterday as the last prosecution witness in the trial of seven men charged with conspiracy to loot the Security Life Insurance company and its affiliate, the Northern States Life Insurance company.

Walker told the jury that large payments were made, mostly from the Northern States treasury, to settle debts of the Keystone Holding company, of which Harry S. Tressel, one of the men indicted, was secretary and treasurer. Tressel was granted a separate trial because his attorney is now engaged in another case.

Tells Payments to Dorsey.

Walker also testified that the books showed that Machir J. Dorsey, one time wealthy insurance promoter and former owner of the Northern States company, paid his debts with Northern States company money. Dorsey and Attorney John H. S. Lee are the chief defendants now on trial.

Assistant State's Attorney Wright asked the auditor if the company owed Dorsey the money.

"The books show the company was not obligated," Walker replied.

Q.—What was the money given to Dorsey for? A.—It was given to him to pay interest on his notes and for insurance premiums.

Q.—You mean the company paid for insuring his life? A.—Yes, that is what the books show.

The sums paid out for the Keystone company and Dorsey were not totaled by the auditor. The Keystone company was formed, the state charges, by Dorsey and his associates to handle some of the intricate financing in which they participated.

Other Spending Told.

The state has introduced previous testimony to show that $1,900,000 mortgages were laid on a 30 acre industrial tract near Waukegan which, it is claimed, is not worth more than $500,000, and that these mortgages were sold to the two insurance companies as a result of the defendants' conspiracy. Walker testified that about $100,000 was paid by the companies to Charles R. Surface, who has turned state's evidence, who was to use the money to fix up the tract and presentable for the $1,900,000 loans.

Ald. John Massen, receiver for the Security Life company, testified during the day that among the assets he found listed in this company were 25 notes for $25,000 each from Surface. It is admitted that Surface never was wealthy. Massen also said he found approximately $1,000,000 worth of the Waukegan property mortgages in the Security company's portfolio.

Woman Invalid Watches Over Dead Son 12 Hours

Temple, Tex., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Mrs Amanda Hopkins, 95 year old Temple invalid who is unable to move from her chair, held a solitary watch over her dead son's body for 12 hours until relatives came to visit her.

HOLD GEORGIA G. O. P. COMMITTEEMAN IN KILLING OF FARMER

Athens, Ga., Jan. 19.—(AP)—James V. Arnold, Republican national committeeman from Georgia, today was arrested on a charge of murder and placed in jail here in the shooting to death of George Hawks, tenant farmer on Arnold's Oconee county plantation, late yesterday.

A coroner's jury earlier in the day charged the committeeman with the killing. Sheriff Crowley of Oconee county said Arnold would be kept in the jail here pending the grand jury session Monday.

In a signed statement Arnold asserted Hawks attacked him with an ax handle and that he fired one shot from his pistol.

Fourth Wife to File Suit Against Harry C. Moir Jr.

Attorney Murphy O. Tate went before Judge Denis E. Sullivan yesterday in the Superior court and asked leave to file a bill for separate maintenance for Mrs. Verda Weir Moir, 21 years old, fourth wife of Harry C. Moir Jr. Moir is the son of the former owner of the Morrison hotel, who died recently. Judge Sullivan ordered that Mrs. Moir appear Monday before him. Her bill, the attorney said, will charge cruelty. She was married to Moir May 7, 1932, in Highland Park and left him a few days ago.

INSULL TO LOSE APPEAL, GREEK COUNCIL HINTS

Plea of Fugitive Assailed at Athens Hearing.

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Jan. 19.—Samuel Insull, through his three attorneys, presented his appeal against expulsion from Greece to the state council today. The fugitive Chicago utilities magnate was not present. He is ill in bed.

Close observers of Greek affairs declared Insull was almost certain to be denied his appeal. The reporter of the court, George Angelopoulos, recommended at the very beginning that the appeal be disallowed. It was known tonight that three of the nine councilors who will vote on the plea already are against him.

"It is inconceivable that he should appeal to us against the government," one of the members of the court said. After the hearing closed another councilor leaned over the bench, shook a finger at Christos Ladas, one of Insull's lawyers, and told him: "You have lost your own case."

Base Plea on Constitution.

Each of Insull's three attorneys spoke for nearly forty-five minutes. Their entire plea was based on articles 7 and 10 of the Greek constitution, which deal with aliens, and the contention that Minister of Interior John Moundjourides' notification to Insull that he could not stay in Greece was an administrative act rather than one of the government, which could not be opposed.

At the last minute they learned that if Moundjourides' notification should be considered administrative, then guaranteed governmental expulsion would be forthcoming. With this in front of them the lawyers had to shift ground partially and claim that if Moundjourides were acting for the government, he did so without cause and, therefore, illegally.

It was this shift which brought the impromptu opinion delivered to Ladas after the hearing closed. The councilor intimated that the council will not interfere where state decisions are involved.

Defends Government Action.

Angelopoulos, the council's reporter, held at the beginning that the Greek constitution does not restrain the government from dealing with aliens as it likes. He said Moundjourides' notification was not a deportation order, for Insull is free to go where he likes.

Denis Lazarimos, another Insull attorney, contended that the government cannot interfere with the liberty of an alien, who, according to the Greek constitution, he said, is granted the same privileges as a native. A Greek cannot be deported, reasoned Lazarimos; therefore a foreigner cannot. There he tripped himself up and was caught by the court.

"Once Insull is allowed to enter he cannot be deported without cause," Lazarimos asserted. "The law says that, once a permit has expired, an alien is considered to enter Greece anew. Can a minister issue papers, 'I send away this one and that one,' without giving reasons?"

Court Hits Defense.

A member of the bench pointed out that Insull might just as well be outside the country by the end of the month, since his permit de sejour expires then, and indicated plainly that the answer to Lazarimos' question was in the affirmative, because Greeks have to be approved when they go into other countries.

Pericles Rhallis, the third Insull lawyer, who is a member of the government party, accused the foreign office of having bowed before "pressure" by the United States government.

"If you ask for the file of the foreign minister," he said, "you will find that the act of the minister of the interior is simply gratification of a wish of the American government. We ask for a committee to examine the substance of the foreign minister's file.

"An administrative act, even if made for diplomatic reasons, is not a governmental act, and even if it is the reasons should be given. Aliens are deported from Greece according to provisions of law, not according to whims of the minister of the interior. It is like a man taking refuge in a house with five doors, of which only one is open, and the host asking the fugitive to leave by that open door while a gunman is waiting outside."

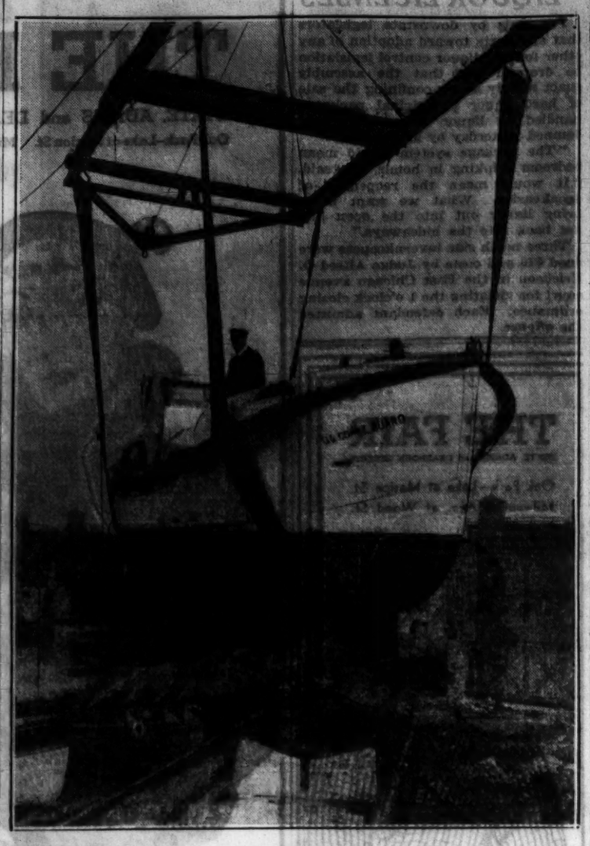
Warns of World Opinion.

Ladas warned the council that world opinion would chastise it if Insull's appeal is rejected.

"Is Insull a public menace or a danger to public morals?" he asked. "He is aged and rich. It is evident he is rich, since he is able to hire three lawyers. Insull wants to develop Greek industry. Why does not the government expel other foreigners who are really undesirable?"

It is understood that the council will deliver its decision Tuesday.

New Type Coast Guard Boat Launched



Chief Boatswain John O. Anderson of the coast guard in new motor lifeboat when it was transferred from railway car to water at Keith boatyard yesterday. The boat will be used on the southern end of Lake Michigan.

Capacity of 50 Men

One of the latest type of self-bailing motor life boats for the U. S. coast guard service was launched yesterday at Keith's shipyard, 2420 South Halsted street, by Mr. Anderson and a crew of four men. The boat, which has a 100 horse power gasoline engine, was shipped by rail from the coast guard depot at Curtiss Bay, Md. The boat will carry 50 men. Mr. Anderson said that the craft was intended for the coast guard station at Michigan City.

SENTENCES TWO ELECTION JUDGES FOR POLL FRAUD

Two judges of election who served in the 11th precinct of the 27th ward in the election of Nov. 4, 1930, were sentenced to jail yesterday for making a false canvass of returns, by Judge Charles T. Allen of Woodstock, sitting in the County court. The frauds were disclosed by the Kunz-Granata congressional recount of two years ago.

Louis Crise, 660 West Madison street, was sentenced to serve 60 days. The maximum sentence of one year was imposed on William Tray, who failed to appear in court yesterday after having been given a continuance on Jan. 5 in order that he might present proof of a world war record which he had offered in mitigation of his offense.

Mrs. Mamie W. Howard, 5536 South Park way, and Mrs. Agatha Goldsmith, 328 East Garfield boulevard, Negro judges of election in the 2d precinct of the Fifth ward, were fined $100 each by Judge Allen for making a false canvass in the election of Nov. 8, 1932. Their frauds were uncovered in the Heller-Hasten Municipal court recount.

LLEWELLYN MUST PRODUCE ESTATE RECORD IN COURT

Paul Parke Llewellyn of Rectortown, Va., whom Mrs. Mary C. Llewellyn of Downers Grove, a breeder and exhibitor of show horses, divorced in 1924, was ordered yesterday to produce records of a trust fund created by his late father, Silas Llewellyn, next Friday before Judge Rudolph F. Desort of the Superior court. Mrs. Llewellyn will appear at the same time to press her motion for an increase in alimony of $500 a month.

Llewellyn, now proprietor of the Pen-y-Bryn estate at Rectortown, was former head of the Interstate Steel company. He has stated that he has an income only of $17,000 yearly from his father's estate.

In her petition Mrs. Llewellyn declared that her former husband is now receiving additional money from the estate of his mother, and has been able to build a new house, a swimming pool, and maintain stables and kennels on the estate, where he lives with his present wife.

FIVE BANDITS BATTLE 250, BUT GIVE UP

200 Mile Chase Follows $5,000 Raid.

Quincy, Ill., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Five youthful bandits who robbed the State Bank of Girard of $5,000 were captured late today near Basco, Ill., by a posse of 250 following a chase through five counties, during which there was a spirited exchange of shots. When surrounded in a patch of woods the bandits, although armed with rifles, revolvers, machine guns, and tear gas bombs, did not fire a shot.

Four of the five marched out of the wood with their hands raised when they became convinced further resistance was futile. The fifth, following the methods of the James boys and other noted outlaws of bygone days, leaped on a horse and tried to gallop away. He was overtaken and made captive about a mile from the spot where his confederates gave up.

The prisoners, all of whom said they came from Chicago, were placed in the jail at Carthage.

Basco, south of Carthage, is between 75 and 100 miles from the scene of the robbery. The chase of the bandits, however, led over five midstate counties, and the small black car with red wheels in which the five men were fleeing is estimated to have covered 200 miles. In the bullet-marked car officers found $3,460 of the $5,000 taken from the bank. The auto bore a 1933 license issued to Jacob Mecloskey, 410 Hamlin avenue, Chicago.

Desperate During Pursuit.

All the while the chase was in progress the posse grew, with deputy sheriffs, police from Quincy and other towns, and officers from nearby Missouri joining in hour by hour.

Several times before the final round-up the robbers were almost surrounded, but escaped by desperate expedients. They shot their way out of a house near West Point, in Hancock county, shortly after noon. Their apparent intention was to cross the Mississippi into Iowa, but the bridges were all heavily guarded and the pursuit was organized on such a scale that there were no outlets for them.

Phone Calls Plot Route.

The gang wasted little time in the bank holdup. Four of the men, all armed, entered the Girard institution, terrorized the employés, and took the money from the cages. They struck down with pistol butts a youth named Boston who was in their way as they left to join the fifth man in a small car.

It was only a short time later that Sheriff Frank Fries of Macoupin county started the pursuit. The fugitives drove through Greene, Pike, and Adams counties and into West Point. After the skirmish there they abandoned the small car and took to the woods on foot.

Through the day gasoline filling station operators and farmers kept the authorities informed of the progress of the bandits by telephone. This enabled the law's forces to concentrate on the Basco section after they arrived there. Lawrence P. Bonfoey of Quincy, chairman of the state aviation commission, used a plane equipped with radio in the chase.

Two of Bandits Wounded.

The youthful bandits gave their names as Harlan Mascatrella, 20, and his brother, Howard, both of 1526 Washburne avenue; Vincent Digger, 19, and his brother, Emil, 20, of 1530 Washburne avenue, and Jesse Sunimerman, 20, 1957 Cicero avenue. Harlan Mascatrella was shot through the hand and Emil Digger suffered a face wound. Neither was wounded seriously.

READY TO LAND FEED FOR CATTLE ON LAKE ISLAND

Grand Haven, Mich., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The coast guard cutter Escanaba stood ready tonight to transport hay and grain for underfed cattle on isolated Beaver island in Lake Michigan.

The island, which is in the northern portion of the lake, about 32 miles northwest of the mouth of Little Traverse bay, is annually cut off from the mainland by ice floes. State and federal authorities tonight lacked details as to the number of head of cattle on the island or their plight.

Gov. William A. Comstock has asked federal emergency welfare administration authorities for $2,000 with which to purchase hay and feed for the cattle.

PLEADS FOR FUNDS TO MOVE 10,000 ASSYRIAN EXILES

GENEVA, Jan. 19.—(AP)—An appeal to governments and private organizations to contribute to the cost of moving 10,000 Iraquian Assyrian Christians from one side of the world to the other was issued today by the council of the league of nations.

The Assyrians, refugees in Iraq from Syria, will be transferred to Brazil. The council appropriated 20,000 Swiss francs [approximately $6,000] toward the task.

Disturbances in Iraq last summer in which several hundred Assyrians were killed resulted in the decision to move them.

VALLEE MOVES TO BLOCK WIFE'S CALIFORNIA SUIT

Asks New York Court for Injunction.

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—An effort to blast Fay Webb Vallee's separate maintenance suit out of the California courts was begun at this end of the continent today by her baton wielding husband, Rudy.

Vallee's lawyer, Samuel Gottlieb, said Rudy had applied to the Supreme court for an injunction restraining his wife from proceeding with her suit, in which she accuses him of misconduct with Alice Faye, blues singer, and other unidentified women.

Rudy's petition was set down for argument on Monday. Gottlieb said a restraining order would be sought on the ground Mrs. Vallee is not legally a resident of California, and that her action there conflicts with a pending New York suit in which she seeks to have a separation agreement set aside.

Just how Mrs. Vallee could be restrained by a New York court from carrying on an action in California was not explained by Gottlieb, but it was assumed that if Rudy's petition is successful it would void any judgment granted on the coast as far as its effect in New York is concerned.

Her Suit Termed "a Big Stickup."

Vallee has contended he is the wronged party, rather than the wrongdoer, and his attorneys have described his wife's separation suit as "a big stickup."

In bringing suit here to have the separation agreement voided, Mrs. Vallee contended her husband misrepresented his financial status so convincingly that she agreed to accept $100 a week. That was last April.

Since then, she declared, she has learned that his earnings exceed $250,000 a year and that his fortune amounts to more than $3,000,000. Vallee, in rebuttal, claims his income has shrunk to $30,000 a year.

Ex-Secretary to Aid His Wife.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 19.—(AP)—A heretofore unnamed witness, brought by airplane from New York for the trial of Fay Webb Vallee's separate maintenance suit against Rudy Vallee, was identified tonight by her attorney as Johnson Hurd, former secretary to Vallee.

Ben C. Cohen, attorney for Mrs. Vallee, disclosed the identity of the man and promised that "sensational testimony" would be offered at the trial. He declined to go into details.

U. S. May Recognize Cuba Soon if Mendieta Holds On?

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—If Carlos Mendieta can hold the presidency of Cuba and keep the pestiferous people of that island quiet for the next ten days, he will be rewarded with the coveted diplomatic recognition by the United States government.

It was learned authoratively today that President Roosevelt looks with high favor upon the Mendieta government and while it is not possible to gauge the extent of his hold on the people in 24 or 48 hours, he has high hopes that the newest president of Cuba will make a go of things.

On top of the reward of recognition, President Roosevelt has a program by which he will bestow greater and material favors upon Cuba, through President Mendieta, and thus to lift the new government high in the popular esteem of the people.

Would Scrap Platt Amendment.

These favors, it was learned today, are first the scrapping of the Platt amendment, by which the Cuban constitution gives to the United States the right to intervene in the maintenance of law and order upon the island, and, second, the granting to Cuba of a major preferential in the American sugar tariff.

President Roosevelt, it was learned, is hopeful for the realization of two points in the Cuban imbroglio which he had set as the price of American recognition. The first is that the Cuban executive should have the substantial backing of the Cuban people. Reports to the state department and the President indicate that Mendieta has his backing, which includes the important support of Col. Fulgencio Batista, leader of the Cuban army.

The second point is that the Cuban president shall have the strength and ability to maintain law and order, and on this point Mr. Roosevelt is giving Mendieta 10 days to show his mettle.

Plans Parley with Europe.

After that period has elapsed, and if no new insurrection or disorders have occurred in the interim, the President plans to call to the White House the ambassadors and ministers from other Latin American republics for an interchange of ideas on the question of recognizing the Mendieta regime. Mr. Roosevelt does not intend to enter into any formal agreement with the other countries, but since on another emergency occasion he consulted the Latin American diplomats, and found it a valuable guide to him, he intends to pursue the same course in this situation.

It was announced that the American warships standing off Cuban ports would not be withdrawn for the present, although the President's hope is to get them out of Cuba at the first possible opportunity.

Sugar Tariff May Be Cut.

The Roosevelt patronage by which the President hopes to make Mendieta a popular idol among his people and a strong personal leader such as was the dethroner Machado, would first bring about a reduction in the tariff on Cuban sugar. Cuba's chief industry, the raising of sugar, has suffered severely during the last five years, to a point where great privation and want has come upon the peasant classes who toil upon the sugar plantations. At present the tariff on Cuban sugar is $2 per hundredweight, and there are reports Mr. Roosevelt intends to ask congress to reduce this tax to $1 on at least one million tons of the import.

The Platt amendment has long been a thorn in the side of patriotic Cubans and if the President goes through with his purpose of scrapping it, thus restoring complete political freedom to the island, there is no doubt the Cubans would flock in great numbers to the leader who had brought it about.

Prospects Bright, Hull Says.

Key West, Fla., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Prospects appear bright for early recognition by the United States of the new Mendieta government in Cuba, Secretary Hull said here late today following upon his arrival aboard the cruiser Richmond from Latin-American waters.

Returning from the Pan-American conference at Montevideo, Secretary Hull conferred at length aboard the Richmond with Jefferson Caffery, President Roosevelt's personal representative to Cuba, who arrived here aboard the destroyer Cole from Havana.

After their discussion, which took place aboard the Richmond some distance off shore, the secretary and Mr. Caffery came into port on a launch and expressed optimism over present conditions in Cuba.

10,000 Doctors Strike.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Jan. 19.—President Carlos Mendieta faced a wave of strikes today just as he was turning attention on his first full day in office to completing his cabinet.

About 10,000 physicians of the National Medical federation went on strike this morning. They presented 23 demands to Col. Mendieta, including one for a 35 per cent salary increase and another for abandonment of the government's operation of hospitals, clinics, and first aid stations. Drug stores joined the strike and no medicines were available.

The National Federation of Labor called a railroad strike against "restoration of the old type of political administration."

A partial railroad strike today tied up the central railroad from Guane, through Pinar del Rio, Matanzas, and Santa Clara provinces to Santa Clara city.

Workers of the American owned Cuban Electric company returned to duty today, restoring gas, electric, and water services. Col. Mendieta promised to continue the government confiscation of the company which was decreed last Sunday until a final settlement is possible.

PRUSSIA EXPELS U. S. ATTORNEY AS 'ENEMY OF STATE'

Ordered to Get Out in 3 Days' Time.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—Leo Gallagher, a Los Angeles attorney, was ordered today to leave Prussia within three days as "an undesirable alien." The lawyer has been taking care of the legal interests of Georgi Dimitroff, Bulgarian, who was acquitted in the reichstag fire trial along with three other communists.

The American was awakened in his hotel room at 7:30 o'clock this morning by two members of the Prussian secret police. He was taken to a police station and grilled for three hours.

"I was questioned as to why I had come to Germany, who paid my expenses, and the like, but no charge was made against me," Gallagher said tonight. "Then I was taken to police headquarters, where I was kept another two hours. There I was handed a document stating that I must leave Prussia within three days in accordance with the laws of April 27, 1932."

Appears at Consulate Today.

Authorities announced the lawyer was being expelled because of his "anti-state activities." Gallagher said he would appear at the American consulate tomorrow. He added he intended to go to Leipzig in the state of Saxony.

Gallagher was not permitted to take an active part in the reichstag fire trial, but attended the sessions in Berlin and Leipzig as an observer. However, he was active in the unofficial international "jury" that met in London and laid the blame for the fire at the door of the Nazi leaders themselves.

[Dispatches from Los Angeles last night said that Gallagher is chief counsel for the communist party there.]

Meanwhile, police at Leipzig ordered the interpreter for Dimitroff's 72 year old mother, a Bulgarian named Danewsky, to leave Saxony within 24 hours. Danewsky left for Berlin at once. It is believed the joint action taken against Gallagher and Danewsky is because they told foreign newspaper correspondents of the details of an interview between Dimitroff's mother and a Nazi official.

Though Dimitroff, two compatriots and Ernst Torgler, German communist leader, were acquitted, they are still being held in custody. Marinus van der Lubbe, a fifth defendant, was convicted and beheaded.

A special court in Berlin today sentenced Jacob Schweigert, a citizen of Jugo-Slavia, to prison for one year. He was convicted of failing to report his private holdings abroad, which the Nazi government requires of all foreigners. The Jugo-Slavian neglected to report to tax authorities deposit of $150 in a Swiss bank.

Catholic Priest Arrested.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STUTTGART, Germany, Jan. 19.—Father Leissle, a Catholic priest, of Eichingen, was "protectively arrested" today because he threatened to bring before the Vatican the question of the recent arrests of two priests, Fathers Sturm of Waldhausen and Dangelmaier of Metzingen. The priests were accused of "anti-state activities." Police say Father Leissle incited agitation for the priests' release.

4 IN U. S. WHO MADE AT LEAST 5 MILLION IN 1931; ONE ILLINOISIAN

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—An Illinoisan was one of four persons in the United States with an income of more than five million dollars in 1931, the treasury department announced today.

Identity of the single Illinois resident was closely guarded. The treasury refused to reveal his net income, his income tax, or deductions, lest these figures disclose him.

Of the other three multimillionaires with incomes over five millions, two live in New York and one in Pennsylvania, the treasury announced. Their incomes and taxes also were suppressed.

Illinois, having seven citizens who reported net taxable incomes of more than a million dollars in 1931, ranked fourth among states having persons with incomes over a million dollars. New York claimed 26, Pennsylvania 10, Michigan 9, and Illinois 7. Only 15 states had any resident with an income over a million dollars.

Seven out of every 200 people in Illinois filed income tax returns with the federal government on the basis of their 1931 income, according to the treasury. They reported net taxable incomes aggregating more than 1 billion 182 million dollars, the third largest total of state income for the country.

SINCLAIR HEARING SCHEDULED FOR FEBRUARY FIFTH

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Harry F. Sinclair, international oil figure, and Frank Haskell, retired New York oil magnate, today were relieved of any possibility of actual arrest on fugitive warrants in connection with the Exchange Trust company embezzlement case.

Judge Bradford Williams agreed to let attorneys for out of town defendants notify their clients to come to Tulsa and be arraigned.

He set February 5 for the preliminary trial of the 25 defendants.

Five more appeared today, pleaded not guilty and were freed under $4,000 bond each. They were H. V. Foster of Bartlesville, Okla.; J. A. Hull, R. K. Huey, C. B. Peters, and F. L. Kennedy, all of Tulsa.

Sinclair is on vacation in Florida, and Haskell is reported to be in New York City.

JAPAN PROTESTS DUCE'S ARTICLE ON 'YELLOW PERIL'

TOKIO, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Koki Hirota, Japanese foreign minister, today instructed Hajime Matsushima, ambassador to Italy, to call Premier Mussolini's attention to "the possible harmful effects to Italo-Japanese amity" of an article which appeared recently in some American publications.

The article quoted Il Duce as calling Japan the "yellow peril."

The foreign office spokesman said the criticism especially wounded Japanese sensibilities because of the universal admiration in this country of Mussolini as a great dictator.

Broker Flees from Court to Avoid Fraud Warrant

John H. Dreyer, a former employé of J. L. Marks & Co., La Salle street brokerage firm, who was acquitted on on embezzlement charge in Judge James F. Fardy's court on Thursday, was sought yesterday on a warrant charging him with operating a confidence game. Sergt. Frank Walsh said Dreyer fled from the courtroom Thursday without his coat and hat to escape service of the warrant. At the trial Dreyer was charged with having embezzled $14,000 from Edith and Ida Walbank, 1021 West Garfield boulevard, in a stock deal. Sergt. Walsh refused to say who had signed the latest warrant.

7 FLEE KANSAS PRISON; KIDNAP TEACHER IN CAR

Leavenworth, Kas., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Seven desperate convicts, who broke from the Lansing state prison today, including Bob Brady and Jim Clark who escaped from the same penitentiary in the big Memorial day prison break, still were free tonight. No trace had been found of a rural school teacher kidnaped by a part of the fugitive group, which was believed to be making for the Oklahoma line in the school teacher's coupé.

Three persons saw Louis Dresser, teacher at Mission school near Wallula, Kas., a short distance from the Lansing penitentiary, with the convicts, two inside the car, one on the running board. The car, wrecked, was found near Victory Junction, on U. S. highway 40, leading toward Oklahoma, later in the day.

Without firearms and with apparent ease, the convicts, climbed over the wall at the Lansing prison at 6:30 o'clock this morning, taking things calmly and even tarrying to build a ladder of materials they found in their cell house.

Quickly Elude Pursuit.

The convicts fled in scattering formation, disappearing with a nimbleness that defied groups of possemen and several units of National Guard.

Army airplanes had joined the search and National Guard officers were cooperating with prison officials. Gov. Landon ordered out four companies of the guard to patrol the Oklahoma border.

Besides Clark and Brady, the men who fled are:

Fred Cody, serving ten to fifty years from Morton county for bank robbery.

Frank Delmar, serving twenty years from Leavenworth county for second degree murder of a filling station operator at Tonganoxie.

Tommy McMahan, serving from twenty to 42 years from Douglas county for first degree robbery.

Charley Clifton McArthur., serving from five to ten years from Wyandotte county for second degree burglarly.

Charley Clifton McArthur, serving five to ten years from Wyandotte county for second degree burgary.

Benjamin Young, serving two to four years from Harvey county for jail breaking.

Overpower Lone Guard.

According to Warden Lacey, Simpson, the men started their break for freedom by overpowering Clyde Deer, a 230 pound guard.

Deer said he let Brady and Clark out of their cells immediately upon arriving this morning. They began to prepare breakfast in the kitchen of the cell house.

When breakfast was ready, about 5:50 o'clock, Deer's story continuel, he sat down at the table with the three trusties.

"I just started to lift a cup of coffee," Deer continued, "when I noticed Brady standing over me with a club.

"'Don't move, you ——,' he warned me, 'or I will kill you. Give me your keys.'"

Then the seven all went out and calmly climbed over the wall with an improvised ladder.

Cheers, Falls, Dies.

Word through "grapevine" channels that seven convicts had escaped from the Kansas penitentiary at Lansing resulted today in the death of a prisoner. Louis B. Durant, 41, of New Orleans, was standing on the eighth tier of a cell block when informed of thte Lansing break. Leaping into the air with a cheer, he became unbalanced and plunged to the concrete floor. His neck was broken.

NAVY APPROVES PLAN TO SEND 113 SHIPS ON PACIFIC TO ATLANTIC

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations, approved today the plans of Admiral David F. Sellers for the return of 113 ships from the Pacific to the Atlantic in April, to conform with President Roosevelt's orders.

The vessels are to depart from the San Pedro-San Diego area April 9 for the east coast, and will hold maneuvers in the Caribbean sea after coming through the Panama canal.

The vessels to return, most of which will participate in the review of the fleet by President Roosevelt at New York May 31 or June 1, will include the battleships Pennsylvania, California, West Virginia, Tennessee, Colorado, Maryland, Nevada, Texas, and New York; the aircraft carriers Saratoga, Lexington, and Langley.

Under present plans the entire fleet will be back in the Pacific in the fall.

DESCRIBES UNION COLLEGE'S NEW EDUCATION PLAN

Entrance Simplified; Study Unified.

Dr. Harold A. Larrabee, professor of philosophy at Union college, Schenectady, N. Y., last night described a new plan of education which will be placed in effect at the college next fall at the annual dinner of the college's Chicago alumni, at the Harvard-Yale-Princeton club.

The plan embodies revised entrance requirements and new study divisions in the college curricula.

Avoids Undue Specialization.

"The essentials of the Union plan are simple and easily grasped," he said. "The former eighteen departments of the college are now organized in four natural divisions: language and literature, social studies, mathematics and natural sciences, and engineering. In this plan we hope to abolish the evils of excessive departmentalism, undue specialization, and overlapping.

"Under the plan a boy entering college selects the general field of knowledge in which his interests and abilities are centered, and throughout his course he is offered a unified curriculum centered about his major interest. The faculty members of his particular division advise him throughout, and aid him in vocational placement after graduation. Students in any division are by no means restricted, however, from taking courses in any other division.

Revises Entrance Rules.

"As to entrance requirements, once and for all Union college has abandoned the century-old practice of dictating to the secondary schools a uniform list of specified subjects to be offered by all candidates for admission. Henceforth, a student need offer only the specific subjects deemed essential for successful work in his chosen division. The general entrance requirements are fifteen units, including four years of English, a principal's recommendation, and a personal interview."

Dr. Larrabee said that the Union plan is not an experiment, but a carefully worked out educational program that has received considerable attention in educational circles. However, he said, it is not a hard and fast plan, but is subject to change and revision.

Woman Ends Her Life in a Second Attempt

Miss Genevieve Hyler, 39 years old, was successful yesterday in her second attempt to commit suicide. Her body was found in her home at 3246 Elm avenue, Brookfield, after she had taken poison. Police were told that she had been despondent over ill health. A pulmotor squad revived Miss Hyler after she took an overdose of sleeping powder last Sunday.

KELLY OPPOSES LIMITATION OF LIQUOR LICENSES

Proposals by downstate legislators that all efforts toward adoption of any other form of liquor control legislation be dropped and that the assembly enact merely a law confining the sale of hard liquor to original packages handled by liquor stores were condemned yesterday by Mayor Kelly.

"The package system would mean bedroom drinking in hotels," he said. "It would mean the reopening of speakeasies. What we want is to bring liquor out into the open and not back into the hideaways."

Three north side tavernkeepers were fined $10 and costs by Judge Alfred O. Erickson in the East Chicago avenue court for violating the 1 o'clock closing ordinance. Each defendant admitted the offense.

NOTED DOCTORS TO SURVEY GAINS IN WAR ON AMEBA

Meet Monday on Call by Mayor and Bundesen.

In the Graphic Sunday

The first complete story of Chicago's heroic war on the epidemic of amebic dysentery is told in the Graphic Section of tomorrow's Tribune in a double page story and pictures.

The knowledge acquired in stamping out the recent epidemic of amebic dysentery and plans for the protection of the entire country against such outbreaks in the future will be discussed at a conference of noted medical authorities in Chicago next week. The conference, called by Mayor Kelly and Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, will begin on Monday.

Never before have so many experts in the various phases of the cause, treatment, and prevention of this deadly disease gathered in conference for the common exchange of facts and ideas, according to Dr. Bundesen. The significance of the meeting was stated in this manner by Dr. Frank W. O'Connor of Columbia university, a world authority on parasitic diseases: "It probably will result in one of the greatest contributions to medical science in many years."

Bundesen to Present Facts.

All the facts gathered by Dr. Bundesen in tracing the source of the epidemic, the measures of control that were put into effect and the treatment of afflicted individuals will be placed before this impartial body of scientists from widely separated sections of the country, so that they may determine and the world know the true facts of how Chicago met this emergency. The knowledge thus gathered will be invaluable to medical science in the future, for amebic dysentery is always prevalent, though its prevalence may not be known, and may break out anywhere at any time, according to Dr. O'Connor.

"This is the preparation for a big warning," said Dr. O'Connor. "We must tell the world to be ready for enlightenment. This disease has been prevalent everywhere without being recognized. Craig [professor of tropical medicine at Tulane university] has been crying out like a prophet in the wilderness, telling them what was going to happen. Heretofore amebic dysentery has not been recognized as a part of American medicine, but hereafter it will become one of the most vital parts."

Value of Drug Treatment.

One of the subjects of the conference will be the relative value of drugs used in the treatment of the disease. Here Dr. Bundesen's experience will be of vast importance, for he traced more than 650 cases to 185 cities in the United States, communicated with the victims and prescribed the specific to be used. Physicians in the various cities were warned against the danger of operations, which are sometimes performed in cases improperly diagnosed, and which usually prove fatal.

Many drugs in use are ineffective and some, in addition, are dangerous, affecting the heart. But other preparations give a safe prospect of complete cure in about 99 per cent of the cases, Dr. O'Connor said.

"If the right drugs are used the curative effects are sudden and spectacular, becoming apparent in 24 hours," he said.

Experts Here in Consultations.

Dr. Bundesen has reason to be certain that his handling of the amebic dysentery epidemic will receive the fullest approval of these experts, for most of them have been here, at his request, for consultation and coöperation from time to time since the outbreak occurred. But they have been here individually, and now they will meet together as a sort of supreme court of medicine. From their verdict the world may judge whether there is any reason to fear coming to Chicago for the 1934 World's Fair. The experts are:

Americans Ordered Jailed in Mallorca

SPANISH COURT ORDERS 4 YANKS BACK TO PRISON

Fifth Acquitted; U. S. Envoy Intervenes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Jan. 19.—Unless the Spanish government intervenes, four of the five American citizens who spent seven weeks in prison at Palma, Mallorca, last summer on a charge of having insulted a member of Spain's stern civil guard, will have to go back to the Palma dungeon to serve a sentence of six months and one day.

According to an unofficial but trustworthy report, the sixth tribunal of the Supreme court, which last week heard the appeal of the Palma military authorities against the acquittal of the five Americans, today made known to the cabinet its decision. The decision acquits Rutherford B. Fullerton of Columbus, O., and sentences Mr. and Mrs. Clinton B. Lockwood of Springfield, Mass.; Roderick F. Mead of New York, and Walter F. Blodgett of Stamford, Conn., to six months and one day in prison.

U. S. Envoy Takes Up Case.

Ambassador Claude Bowers hastened to take up the case of his luckless countrymen this evening. He was received by Leandro Pito Romero, minister of foreign affairs.

It is likely that the Spanish foreign minister assured the ambassador that the government will intervene with an order that the four Americans do not need to return to prison.

Fullerton, who was only a witness to the original disturbance, said tonight:

"I have heard of the unofficial report of my acquittal and that sentence was passed on my four friends. I am optimistic, however, that the government will arrange to prevent their return to prison."

It is not clear, however, how the government will avoid the sentence of the Supreme court taking effect. Remission of a Supreme court sentence can only be obtained by passing a bill of amnesty in parliament.

May Declare General Amnesty.

At the present time several political parties are pressing heavily for a general amnesty, and if the cabinet decides to present such a measure to parliament it will be possible to include the four Americans in it.

Meanwhile, it is presumably possible to reserve official publication of the sentence until parliament gets around to the amnesty question. Thus, Mrs. Lockwood and the three men would not have to return to the bitterly cold and comfortless cells of the Palma prison, which they first visited last summer after a mild escapade in which a civil guard got his face slapped. The Americans are still in Palma under heavy bail.

'FENCE' SUSPECTS FIGHT REMOVAL OF MAIL THEFT TRIAL

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Defense attorneys contended at a hearing before a United States commissioner today that Z. D. Bonner and John H. Cunningham could be tried as easily in San Antonio as in Chicago on federal indictments in connection with a mail robbery there.

The hearing was a continuation of the legal fight over removal of the men to Chicago for trial there.

Bonner, former president of the Commercial National bank here, and Cunningham, an attorney, face charges of conspiring to receive, possess, transfer, and sell bonds stolen in a mail robbery in Chicago's loop Dec. 6, 1932.

G. O. P. HARMONY MOVE IS KNOCKED INTO COCKED HAT

Barrett Group to Protest Slate Making.

Harmony within the Republican county committee seemed knocked into a couple of cocked hats last night as pacificators [at the risk of mixed metaphors] wandered through the loop seeking to lure back the dove of peace. It sounded like a duck marsh in hunting season.

Slate making for the April primaries was the source of the disturbance, and rival Republican groups are to hold meetings today and Monday. Both groups claim a majority. One lineup led by George F. Barrett is to meet at 11 o'clock this morning at the Hotel La Salle. Barrett said yesterday the call for this gathering had been signed by 26 ward committeemen in protest against the slate making methods of the officers of the county committee. The 26 are a majority of the ward committeemen.

Meeting Is Postponed.

County Chairman William H. Weber and Secretary Edward F. Moore called off a meeting of the slate making body originally set for last night and issued a call for a regular meeting of the county committee at Hotel La Salle Monday evening. They predicted a large attendance and declared that a substantial majority of the county committee is upholding the efforts to put up a harmony slate.

Meanwhile the Deneen group, which has been courted by the others, withheld decision as to whether they would participate in the harmony movement until it is demonstrated that there is to be harmony. The Deneenites yesterday conferred with Chairman Weber and Secretary Moore and others on the nominating committee of the county organization and left the impression that they were for harmony if possible.

The insurgency was held by the politicians to have had its source in resentment at the activities of the advisory Republican citizens committee which has headquarters at 231 South La Salle street. It has Orville J. Taylor as chairman, and among other names on its letterhead are those of Silas Strawn, Fred W. Sargent, E. L. Ryerson, B. E. Sunny, Sheldon Clark, George F. Getz, Amos Miller, and Frank J. Loesch.

Then the Trouble Begins.

The trouble began when Secretary Moore, as one of the slate makers, announced tentative selection of five candidates. They were: James H. Douglas for congressman at large; William J. Stratton for state treasurer; George F. Nixon for president of the county board; James P. Ringley for sheriff, and Ald. James C. Moreland for assessor.

The Weber-Moore entente has been holding that the way to rejuvenate the Republican party is to go outside the ranks of the old time politicians for some of the candidates on the ticket. The Barrett groups holds that among the five candidates tentatively chosen some are not well enough known to get anywhere in a race. In addition, personal jealousies are held to have crept in, some of the committeemen nursing hopes of getting on the slate. Several had the lightning rod up for sheriff.

The slate making committee is composed of Weber, Moore, Barrett, Congressman Oscar De Priest, John L. East, Felix Kucharski, William H. Reid, William V. Pacelli, E. T. Brekke, Daniel A. Roberts, Oscar F. Nelson, Charles E. Peace, and William Busse. Four or five of these members are said to have raised objections that the tentative slate was forced through.

Call Harding Real Leader.

The insurgents have been declaiming that Committeeman East, Reid, and Brekke have been a dominant influence in the slate making body, and that this is by way of making George F. Harding the real leader in the party. Mr. Barrett is regarded as having been receptive toward the nomination for assessor, while some of the insurgents have been for ex-Ald. Arthur F. Albert for president of the county board. Committemen Patrick Sheridan Smith, John J. Hoellen, and William A. Burmeister have been regarded as candidates for sheriff.

Meanwhile the Democratic organization continued to receive names presented by ward committeemen. The name of Ald. William A. Rowan for county clerk, a place left open by the aspirations of County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer to run for county treasurer, was presented. Ald. John Toman is among the leading candidates for sheriff, and Ald. John S. Clark was brought out for county clerk.

PARK CONSOLIDATION PROGRAM IS INDORSED BY CITIZENS' GROUP

An indorsement of the park consolidation proposal which will appear on a small ballot at the April election was issued yesterday by the directors of the Citizens' Association of Chicago.

"The law," the statement read in part, "provides for the consolidation of all park districts entirely or partly within Chicago, the consolidation to be governed by a board of five commissioners appointed by the mayor of Chicago for varying initial terms ranging from one to five years, and subject to confirmation by the city council. The act has many admirable features, including careful budget provisions.

"As it will place the appointment of the park commissioners in the hands of a local elective official, it is a home rule measure. The merger would result in more efficient management, as well as a considerable saving to the taxpayers. In the opinion of the Citizens' association the proposed unification of park management is highly desirable and should be adopted."

Italian Court Frees Accused Spy for Lack of Evidence

ROME, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Commendatore Donato Battelli, who was arrested last September on charges of participating in a spy plot, was released today by a special tribunal for lack of evidence. It was widely reported at the time of the arrest that Premier Mussolini was Battelli's friend and former schoolmate, but this was officially denied. The trial of eight other persons still held in the espionage case was scheduled for March 3.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

CHICAGO A. OF C. PLANS CAMPAIGN FOR INDUSTRIES

Geo. W. Young Installed as New President.

An effort to bring new industries and large business concerns to Chicago will be the major undertaking of the Chicago Association of Commerce during 1934. Also, the association will urge upon those already here the advantages of remaining in "America's great central market."

George W. Young, vice president of Marshall Field & Co., wholesale, announced this campaign at the Palmer house yesterday noon when he was installed as president of the association to succeed George W. Rossetter.

The Illinois law makes it financially advantageous for corporations to locate in Chicago, Mr. Young said. There is no corporation income tax here and no state income tax as there is in New York. These advantages are cited in continuation of a campaign begun a few months ago to induce leading corporations to list their securites on the Chicago exchanges to escape taxes which New York City planned to impose at that time.

Encourage New Industries.

"Chicago's position as the natural industrial center of the country must be protected," said Mr. Young. "With business showing a marked improvement this is the time to encourage the location in this district of new factories and industries and to correct conditions that might prompt institutions already native to Chicago to consider transfers elsewhere. Chicago has been blessed by nature with unique transportation advantages. It is up to us to make the most of them."

Mr. Young said he believed no period in the 30 year history of the association has offered greater opportunities than that just ahead. Events of recent months, he said, have demonstrated that "as a city and a nation we can make progress only as we keep busy and enjoy a fair measure of prosperity.

"It is my duty, as well as that of every Chicagoan, to use all legitimate means of rehabilitating Chicago's trade and industry," he continued.

City Has Competition.

"Any great market center such as ours is bound to have competition. Its ability to meet such competition successfully depends upon its own strength and ingenuity."

He said A Century of Progress Exposition was an example of what enterprise can accomplish in reversing business trends. He spoke of the city's good fortune in having the World's Fair to look forward to this summer.

"Chicago's commerce must grow," Mr. Young declared. "Through trade shows and educational programs we shall demonstrate the quality and quantity of the Chicago market and endeavor to strengthen our position as America's great central market."

The Interstate Merchants' council, founded by the association, was praised for bringing thousands of American and Canadian retailers to Chicago for their commodities. Mr. Young promised an expansion of this program.

Preserve Rate Relations.

A militant attitude must be continued to protect Chicago's freight rate relationship with competing markets, the speaker declared. Efforts must be made to consolidate already proved advantages in aviation and other forms of transportation.

Mr. Young said Chicago's reputation is important in its relations with the rest of the world. He promised to help eliminate misunderstandings with other cities and localities. He asserted the association would back "to the limit" every public servant who is conducting his duties conscientiously.

"It might appear, perhaps," said Mr. Young, "that in the promotion of the commercial we are overlooking some of the other phases of our community life. Such is not the case. I do feel, however, that unless our business institutions are busy and our millions of wage earners employed and happy, few of our so-called civic and cultural efforts can attain success."

Mr. Young said the association membership of 3,500 was "ridiculously low," and announced a campaign to bring the group "back to full strength." There were 7,000 association members at one time.

Rossetter Reviews 1933.

Mr. Rossetter, the retiring president, reviewed the association's accomplishments last year. These included achieving store-door pickup and delivery service by rail carriers serving eastern territory after more than a year of negotiation—the first complete transportation service furnished Chicago shippers.

The association helped obtain direct allocation of a share of the state gasoline tax fund for improvement of city streets. This will relieve property owners of $5,000,000 a year in special assessments, he said. The association also joined in the fight for progressive signal control on Michigan avenue.

The association set a record in bringing conventions to Chicago, Mr. Rossetter said. There were 1,478 conventions in 1933, with an estimated attendance of 1,596,000 and expenditures of nearly $100,000,000.

DU PAGE COUNTY FARMERS ASK U. S. FOR CONCILIATOR

Petition for a conciliation commissioner, the first in this district since the new bankruptcy law paved the way for suuh action last June, was filed yesterday in the United States District court. The petition, filed by H. C. Bilter, an insurance agent at 175 West Jackson boulevard in behalf of 15 farmers, asked a commissioner by appointed for Du Page county.

The petition was brought under the agricultural compositions and extensions act. Under the provisions of this measure the conciliator has general supervision over the property of the farmers without actual bankruptcy proceedings. The farmers are protected by the law against judgments and sale of their farms because of defaulted mortgages until they can arrange a settlement with their creditors. Before the present action is made official each of the 15 farmers named in the petition must come into court and file an individual petition.

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

Many Writers Turn to Authors for Their Topics

'Modern' Tone Is Missing in All of Them.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

THE publication of Stephen Leacock's "Charles Dickens, His Life and Work" [Doubleday-Doran] lures us into hippity-hoppity among the many books which have been published lately about authors. On my desk is a towering pile of books about the men who write books, all beyond the average in interest and skill, and some brilliant in their own right. There are none, oddly enough, written in the so-called "modern" tone, the kind of literary plaguing that finds whatever is good in the worst of the scoundrels and whatever is bad in the best of heroes.

"Charles Dickens" is an out and out old fashioned life of a hero by a hero worshiper. To Stephen Leacock, Charles Dickens is not only vastly underrated, but he is a genius of the stature at least of Shakespeare. After much biographical muck-raking it is refreshing to find such frank hero worshiping in a biography of such integrity as Mr. Leacock's. To the hundreds of thousands who annually joyously read Dickens, Mr. Leacock's interpretation and critical evaluation will be a delight, and those who have not thus far agreed with Mr. Leacock's enthusiasm will have a difficult time retaining their coldness. I know because I am one of those who read passionately "David Copperfield" at the age of nine and in my methodical way went pretty much straight through him [illegible] have never been able to look Dickens in the binding since then. Revivalist Leacock almost converted me.

A Book on Lawrence.

Likewise almost was I persuaded by Horace Gregory in his "Pilgrim of the Apocalypse" [Viking] that D. H. Lawrence really has a fundamental philosophical concept in his obsession with sex. Mr. Gregory writes here a study as nearly purely critical as is possible in writing of a man whose deeply tragic life was certainly at the root of his yearning to escape through his pen.

Rascoe Writes on Authors.

D. H. Lawrence is the only modern English writer to be considered by Burton Rascoe in his new volume of critical-biographical essays on great writers, "Prometheans" [Putnam's]. "Prometheans," following that intriguing and stimulating "Titans of Literature," is a disappointment, since it has neither the consistency of form nor of matter which its predecessor had. There are lengthy and carefully critical essays on Saint Mark and Lucian [the finest part of the book] and not such long nor carefully critical ones on Petronius, Apuleius, and Aretino of the ancients, Nietzsche [the only modern European], and Theodore Dreiser and James Branch Cabell of modern Americans. The choice of subjects is not rounded as it was in "Titans of Literature," which was SO good that it seems a shame that its author should have followed it with a volume which even in some of its essays gives the impression of haste.

Portraits of Lawgivers.

One of Mr. Rascoe's Prometheans, Aretino, is one of the four "lawgivers" whose composite portrait characterizes "The Man of the Renaissance" [Viking], Ralph Roeder's subtle re-creation of a vivid period. The other three are Savonarola, Machiavelli, and Castiglione. While Mr. Roeder does not consider his lawgivers in the focus of literature, "Man of the Renaissance" is in itself such a brilliant piece of period reconstruction that my mind leaped to it at the mention of Aretino.

Story of Samuel Pepys.

Another recreation of a period is Arthur Bryant's delightful "Samuel Pepys, the Man in the Making" [Macmillan]. No man ever left a more intimate account of himself than did Samuel Pepys. No "Diary" is more famous than his, and yet to this day the world has not known all of it. Mr. Bryant, with access to the papers of the most famous Pepysian scholars, has done the world a supreme service in telling the life story of the premier diarist of England. He has approached likewise his readers and his subject in what seems exactly the right spirit. He has done a scholarly task with brilliance, wit, and charm. He delineates the youth of Pepys and his days until at the age of thirty-six, when his Elizabeth died, "leaving Pepys . . . shaken and alone, with the world to begin anew."

Recreation of a Period.

"Heine," by Ludwig Marcuse [Farrar & Rinehart], is likewise the recreation of a period . . . so much so that the re-creation of the poet seems a trifle lost in the embroidery of his background.

An Influence on Longfellow.

If Heine was never at home in his homeland the American poet, Longfellow, was. James Taft Hatfield of Northwestern university in his "New Light on Longfellow" [Houghton-Mifflin] tells of the young poet's choice of Germany instead of France [the popular literary forcing ground of his day] for the continuation of his studies and of the tremendous influence which that choice had not only upon the poet but upon his work and obversely on German literature. It is indeed "new light," a more vivid, stethoscopic light on the man and his writing.

Letters of Romain Rolland.

A profound German influence on another young man is evident in "The Letters of Romain Rolland and Malwida von Meysenbug" [Holt]. Rolland, running away from school teaching, convinced that he must write, went to Rome. There he met a "slender little lady, so gentle and calm and so clear eyed," who was a friend of Nietzsche, Wagner, Liszt, Mazzini, and who became the close, tender friend of the eager young man. He was twenty-four. She was seventy-four. The relationship between them, crystallized in the letters which they wrote to each other, record a unique relationship and throw a "new light" on the stormy author of "Jean Christophe."

"English Poetry in French."

"Alfred de Vigny," by Arnold Whitridge [Oxford], tells of another profound national influence on a writer, the young French poet, temperamentally more British than Gallic, who wrote, the author intimates, practically English poetry in French.

Book on Thomas More.

"Thomas More," by Daniel Sargent [Sheed & Ward] is a full and rounded life of "the one continuously glowing figure in the bleak Tudor period" and a carefully detailed record of that bleakness.

Autobiography of John Keats, by Earle Vonard Weller [Stanford University Press], is compiled from his letters and essays.

Reference Book on Authors.

"Authors," edited by Stanley J. Kunitz [Wilson], is a reference book, "a biographical and autobiographical guide to modern world literature." There is more actual thrill in reading the hundreds of revealing short biographies and in looking into the faces of each of the biographed than in any other survey book of authors that I know, unless it is "Living Authors," to which "Authors Today and Yesterday" is a companion volume.

Work About Hugh Walpole.

If I started this olio with praising Stephen Leacock's adulation of his hero, I will close it with a few words of spleen against Marguerite Steen, whose "Hugh Walpole" [Doubleday-Doran] starts with the sentence, "God is the Great Romantic," and who writes 287 pages, concluding that Hugh Walpole himself is literarily practically omnipotent.

While one finds charity in both "Charles Dickens" and "Hugh Walpole," we might call the former a paeon of faith and the latter one of hope!

British Group Launches New Story Journal

Follows Lines of Magazine in America.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—The small pioneer periodical, New Verse, which, in spite of its scorn for stumblers in other paths than its own, has entirely justified its publication, now completes its first year of life. It goes on.

Another new journal appealing to the limited audience interested in good work for its own sake is projected—by a different band of workers, quite unconnected with the sponsors of New Verse. This is to be called New Stories, and it will be on the lines of the American experimental magazine, Story.

At first, owing to the fact that it is a coöperative effort unbacked by wealth, it will be published in the form of facsimile typescript.

Its editors will be E. J. O'Brien, long known for his anthologies; Hamish Miles, a first rate man who is less well known than he should be owing to the fact that he has done much excellent translation and much "reading" for publishers instead of concentrating upon original work; H. E. Bates, greatly admired for his quiet but restricted novels and tales; Geoffrey West, the biographer of Wells and a regular contributor to the Times Literary Supplement; L. A. Pavey, and Arthur Calder-Marshall.

The names of the editors suggest a certain rigor in the stories to be printed, but they are a guarantee against pretentiousness.

A book for sophisticated readers is "More Kicks than Pricks" [Chatto]. Its author is Samuel Beckett, who won the first prize in the competition instituted for modern poetry by Richard Aldington and Nancy Cunard. Mr. Beckett, who for a time taught in the Ecole Normale and who is well known in Paris, now lives in Dublin, and his work is in the mock-heroic vein. It tells the story of a young man's life amid hectic conditions, describes the inevitable party, pictures love-making with gusto, and very mock-heroically analyzes an abortive suicide pact.

A book that is likely to be less sophisticated, but which I am told is very good indeed, is to be published by Dents in the early spring. It is a first novel, the author is Philip Keeley, and the book is called "Corner Shop." From what I am told I gather that there is a flavor of "Riceyman Steps" about "Corner Shop," for it is the tale of a woman miser written "with a touch of grandeur." It should be interesting.

Blames Outside Forces in Many Marriage Wrecks

"Innocent Bystander," by Faith Baldwin [Farrar & Rinehart], proclaims a new theory about wrecked marriages . . . that the young husband and wife are often innocent bystanders while outside forces bombard and shatter.

The Editor's Note Book

Janet Ayer Fairbank received a fan letter yesterday that offered the farthest east in suggestions for next summer's attractions at the World's Fair . . . a glass lined room inside which, far from the madding crowd [!], the famous writers of Chicago could sit and compose their immortal works while the visitors to the Fair, at 25 cents a head, watched! It was a perfectly serious proposal, not to say a business proposition.

All my wiles turned on, never elicited from John Erskine day before yesterday what he's doing besides being one of the world's most successful lecturers. I sat next him at Pundit Nitze's charming luncheon, made a date with him for dinner at his favorite restaurant in Paris [where we met for the first time five years ago], listened to his famous brilliant conversation and got out of him about his lit'ry efforts only, "O, I'm playing around with a novel."

He had just finished "Uncle Sam" when I first met him, and recalling our enthusiasm for that smart satire, he said that for some inexplicable reason "Uncle Sam" had suddenly become extremely popular abroad recently. . . .

"Nothing inexplicable about anybody's trying to learn the boss' vagaries," says I.

Among the New Books

End Papers, by A. Edward Newton [Little-Brown], gives short sketches of many prominent literary figures.

Story of China Oil Trade Wins Critic's Praise

Sales Agent Is Hero in Dramatic Tale.

"Oil for the Lamps of China," by Alice Tisdale Hobart. [Bobbs Merrill.]

In surveying this year's fiction for 1933 I said that "Oil for the Lamps of China" was the best novel of the year about that intriguing scene, which has been so vastly popular with readers during the last few years—with "The Good Earth" as its peak.

Mrs. Hobart's latest novel is more than a mere background interracial study. Its first interest, perhaps, is that of a white man and a white woman, dramatically married, adjusting themselves to a strange and fascinating new culture. But its other theme, stated in its title, is something much more modern, more socially important. Much has been written during the centuries since Marco Polo first wrote about the Chinese and their strange—to us—ways. [By the way, there has just been published by Leo Hart a perfectly beautiful new edition of "The Travels of Marco Polo" in the Marsden translation revised and edited with an introduction by Manuel Komroff and decorated by W. A. Dwiggins.]

That the Chinese are difficult for westerners to understand is not news to any one.

But no one has written before this the story of carrying oil to China, the story of a great western corporation and its relations not only with the Chinese but with the men who are sent to represent them. "Oil for the Lamps of China" is a rather bitter tale of the cold-bloodedness and cold-heartedness of a corporation in its relations to individuals, who, by their very remoteness from central control must make their own decisions and suffer for their mistakes if they do not profit by their successes.

The hero of Mrs. Hobart's book is a young man sent out to sell oil to the Chinese. He conceives the idea of at first giving away and then selling tiny lamps to lure the millions of indigent buyers who have only "cash" to spend. The lamps prove to be an enormous success, but he is never thanked for suggesting them, and in the end, after having attained honor in the company by being amenable, is punished for having used his own judgment in a crisis which proved disastrous.

The drama of the individual and his relations with a vast corporation, played beside the drama of a strange marriage, and all against the background of a land and a culture remote and intriguingly strange to western readers, made of "Oil for the Lamps of China" one of the most interesting novels of the fall. It has been a best seller ever since it was published. No one who reads it is surprised, for quite apart from its social and economic inferences, it is an exciting and dramatic tale.—F. B.

TAX REVALUATION UPSETS CITY'S '34 BUDGET ESTIMATE

Means Less Spending or New Revenues.

City Controller Upham yesterday transmitted to Mayor Kelly and members of the city council his estimates for 1934 appropriations, which form the foundation on which the city budget is built.

Upham's estimates, however, were already out of date when the aldermen received them. While the estimates were in the hands of the printers, the board of tax appeals announced its reductions of 1932 personal property tax valuations, which for the city of Chicago totaled approximately $113,069,984.

Revenue Loss Tripled.

The loss of revenue through the assessment reductions is virtually tripled by the fact that the 1932 assessment figures, under the law, must form a basis for 1933 and 1934 tax levies until the assessing officials offer something better. As a result, the amount available for appropriations this year will be reduced by a total of $4,059,337, after deductions for the loss and cost of tax collections.

Controller Upham had estimated the resources available for appropriation from the corporate fund, from which the operating expenses of all of the city's principal services are paid, at $43,767,518, and had submitted estimated expenditures to the full amount of this sum. Loss of revenue occasioned by the personal property tax reductions will make it necessary for the council and its finance committee either to reduce the controller's estimated expenditures to $39,708,181 or to find some new sources of revenue.

Fund Lower Than Last Year.

As compared with Controller Upham's estimated appropriations of $43,764,871, the corporate fund budget last year totaled $47,883,195. For 1934 various department heads had requested appropriations totaling $50,164,362.

The principal economies which the controller recommended, in the form of reductions of 1934 expenditures, were a cut of $1,486,017 in the bureau of streets; one of $684,565 in the department of public works; one of $213,289 for all council committees other than finance, which this year are allocated a lump sum of $100,000 by the controller, in place of individual appropriations, and a cut of $140,000 in the board of health.

The reduction in the amount of tax warrants outstanding also reduced debt service requirements to $1,350,000, which is $1,199,200 below the 1933 appropriation.

Only 11 Increases.

In only eleven of the 84 departments and accounting classifications of the corporate fund budget did the controller recommend increases over 1933 appropriations, and all but two of these increases were for only a few thousand dollars. Added personnel for the police department increased its recommended appropriation by $91,371 and the appropriation for the office of Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court was increased by $84,296. The council has little control over this item, being governed by the demands of the chief justice.

Cites Gradual Reduction.

"The functions of the city of Chicago's corporate fund are essentially the most important functions of local government payable from taxes," Controller Upham stated in his letter of transmittal. "We find that the corporate fund's portion of the taxpayers' dollar has been gradually reduced from former years' total of 28 cents, to below 19 cents. This, despite the tremendous increase in population and the necessary increase of services which should now be rendered.

"The controller's conclusions are that to carry on the functions of the corporate fund of the city, it will be necessary for the forthcoming special session of the legislature to have presented to it a program of legislation to provide for the needs of the corporate fund for future years, and at the same time to rectify the financial difficulties which now exist."

EDITH M'CORMICK ESTATE EFFECTS ON SALE TODAY

The throng of visitors who yesterday inspected the grounds and furnishings of Villa Turicum, the Lake Forest home of the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, numbered about 3,500. On the previous day the total was 14,000. The decrease in number was attributed to the fact that admission was free on Thursday, while a charge of 50 cents per person was in effect yesterday.

The remainder of the personal effects of the onetime "richest woman in the world" are to be offered at auction beginning at 2 p. m. today. The furnishings of Mrs. McCormick's home at 1000 Lake Shore drive and her art treasures and jewelry already have been disposed of. Proceeds of the auctions are to be used in paying claims against the estate.

ACT TO PAY OFF $20,000,000 IN SCHOOL BONDS

Plan Warrant Sale and Refunding.

The board of education at a meeting yesterday took action to avert a default on its bond obligations and the serious impairment of its credit that would follow. Through a refunding arrangement and a purchase of $5,200,000 worth of school warrants the city and school board will be able to meet $20,300,000 in bond principal and interest payments falling due Jan. 1 and Feb. 1 of this year.

The measures adopted by the board provided for a sale to the loop banks of $4,100,000 in 1932 bond redemption fund tax anticipation warrants, $800,000 worth of 1933 educational fund warrants and $300,000 worth of 1931 bond redemption warrants. The remaining amount of the obligation of the two governments will be handled by refunding.

Plan Refunding Operation.

This refunding will be accomplished by an exchange of the city's bonds, heading 5½ per cent interest, for $15,000,000 worth of outstanding bonds and interest.

James B. McCahey, president of the school board, and City Controller Robert Upham declared that the entire matter will be cleared up within a week.

The refunding bonds will be redeemed from the collection of taxes and the officials expressed the hope that they would be paid up by the end of 1935, although they are not callable until Jan. 1, 1940.

Limit on Warrant Sales.

Another resolution adopted by the board provided that no more educational fund warrants beyond $29,952,500 would be issued against the 1933 tax levy. In addition the board pledged itself not to allow more than $17,437,500 worth of these securities in the hands of the public.

Had the two governments been unable to work out an agreement with the bankers' committee their bonds would be ineligible as investments in many states for many years to come. The bankers' committee was headed by Frank McNair, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank.

On the motion of Trustee Joseph P. Savage the school board voted to instruct Supt. William J. Bogan to have military training classes carried on in the schools under the direction of the physical education teachers. Nearly all the army officers assigned to this work have been transferred to civilian conservation corps encampments.

JUDGES REFER COUNTY'S PLEA TO COMMITTEE

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $161,215, making a total of $102,004,227 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

	1928.	1929.

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $1,223.

The Circuit court judges at a meeting yesterday referred the request of the county board for the assignment of a judge to hear delinquent personal property tax suits to the executive committee, composed of Hugo Friend, John R. Caverly, and Chief Justice Denis J. Normoyle. At present no judge is hearing the suits which are being filed daily by State's Attorney Courtney. Before the county board budget committee yesterday the state's attorney urged the commissioners to continue their efforts to have a judge assigned to the tax cases.

RETURN MURDER VERDICT.

A verdict of murder by persons unknown was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury in the case of Wat Moy, 64 years old, a Chinese, who was found shot to death Jan. 2 in his laundry at 2432 West Van Buren street.

TEACHERS SEND CONGRESS PLEA FOR FEDERAL AID

Drive Backs Kelly Plan to Raise Fund.

An appeal for federal aid for the Chicago schools and downstate school districts was sent yesterday to Illinois members of congress by the Chicago division of the Illinois State Teachers' association.

The teachers pointed out that the banker, the farmer, the cotton planter, the manufacturer and persons in nearly every walk of life had obtained help from Uncle Sam, and asked why a part of the federal flow of money could not be diverted to the restoration of public education.

Supports Kelly Plan.

The plea supports Mayor Kelly's plan for selling a Chicago school board $40,000,000 bond issue to the federal government in order to pay up all back salaries. This proposal would mean the pledging of school property in the city, which is not used for educational purposes, as additional security for the purchase.

"If industry could not live without federal credit even though its operating expenses were drastically cut by lack of demand for its product, how can the schools exist without credit when their business is doubled by the ousting of adolescents from employment?" asked the teachers' group. "If the farmer and the home owner could not survive without federal funds, how can education survive without such help, especially when these same farmers, home owners and industries cannot and do not pay taxes?"

Points to Disparity.

The teachers' organization, of which Susan Scully is president, declared that it would be a strange theory indeed that founds government upon banks, roads, hogs, and sewers, but ignores education.

"The schools of Chicago and the schools of a great part of Illinois have been supported for the last three years on credit extended by the teachers," read the appeal.

"For similar support bankers would have exacted millions of dollars in interest.

"The present administration is to a large degree responsible for the greatly increased school population. But with the abolition of child labor, enforced by the stringent regulations of the NRA, thousands of youths have been forced out of employment. Where shall they go if not to the schools? Adult education becomes imperative for leisure time, for growth, improvement, and for safeguarding the principles of our country."

Show Beneficial Effects.

The teachers declared that the only pittance thrown to education was a PWA grant to complete school buildings. This project was worthy enough in itself, they said, but sound education is dependent on unharassed teachers, free from the specter of want, rather than mortar, boards, and nails.

"No better means could be found for supporting the President," read the communication, "and achieving the prime purpose of the recovery program—to get money out to the people, to increase purchasing power. Probably no other one measure would distribute money more rapidly in the state of Illinois than the payment of the millions of dollars of back salaries owed to teachers—for three years in some counties, in Chicago for over eight months.

Benefit to All.

"This cash would almost immediately find its way to the landlord, the doctor, the grocer, the clothing merchant, and others to whom, in turn, it has long been owed."

In conclusion the teachers stated that the convening of congress "wipes the slate clean," and what is needed is a combined, relentless drive by the entire Illinois delegation in conjunction with members from other states.

Plan World Tour

The duchess of Northumberland and her two daughters, Lady Elizabeth and Lady Diana Percy, spent an hour between trains in Chicago yesterday. The party arrived on the Broadway limited from New York and left for Pasadena on the Santa Fé Chief. The duchess explained that she and her daughters are seeing America on a hurried tour before joining her son, the ninth duke of Northumberland, in New Zealand for a world cruise.

150 MILLION RFC CASH FOR SCHOOLS IS ASKED IN CONGRESS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Senator George [Dem., Ga.] today introduced a bill authorizing the Reconstruction Finance corporation to "make available" $150,000,000 as school aid to states.

One-third of the amount would be for the present fiscal year and the remainder for the year ending June 30, 1935. Three-fourths of the 1934 fund would be paid out to state treasuries at once and the remainder at monthly intervals.

The aid would be limited to primary and secondary schools.

J. W. HARRIMAN SANE, ALIENIST AVERS IN COURT

Further Delay of Trial Is Opposed.

New York, Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Joseph W. Harriman's "insanity" was branded a sham today by a witness in federal court. The testimony was offered in opposition to further delay in Harriman's trial on charges of juggling the funds of the Harriman National Bank and Trust company.

Harriman, looking in fair health, but somewhat bewildered, sat in the courtroom and heard Dr. Manas S. Gregory, chief psychiatrist at Bellevue, describe him as "coherent and capable of sustained, connected conversation."

It was Dr. Gregory's opinion and that of all his fellow alienists at Bellevue that the former head of the Harriman bank had "no psychosis," the psychiatrist said. His mental state showed "keenness and discrimination."

The banker's mental trouble, the physician added, was "merely human weakness—a desire to avoid suffering."

The conflicting stories of his wanderings that Harriman told last summer when he returned from his second escape from an uptown nursing home were branded as "confabulation" by the alienist.

Federal Attorney Martin Conboy wanted to know if "confabulation" meant "plain lying."

Dr. Gregory said it was something like that, but the banker's physical condition has improved, too, he said.

At the time of Harriman's collapse in court last July, the physician said, the banker's heart was in very bad condition; he had been suffering from hardening of the arteries with traces of diabetes, and had been under an intense nervous train.

But at present his diabetic condition has all but disappeared, while his arteries are in much better shape, the physician said, although the heart trouble—angina pectoris—persists.

TREND TO CHICAGO TRIBUNE GROWS STEADILY STRONGER!

25% gain in food product and grocery advertising in 1933

MORE and more manufacturers and retailers are turning to the Tribune to maintain sales, or to increase their share of the business out.

With the result . . . that in 1933 the Tribune carried 21.4% of all food product and grocery advertising run in Chicago newspapers compared to 17.4% in 1932.

The reason for this pronounced greater dependence on the Tribune is not hard to find.

The Tribune delivers 620,000 city and suburban circulation daily—59% more than that delivered by any other Chicago daily newspaper. And on Sunday the Tribune reaches 243,000 additional families of the same prosperous type living in cities and towns adjacent to metropolitan Chicago.

These able-to-buy responsive families who form the backbone of this market are the first objective of Jello, Hills Bros. Coffee, Kellogg, Bab-O, Lux, American Family Flakes, Rinso, Chase & Sanborn, Miracle Whip, Post Toasties and other leading manufacturers who spend more money in the Tribune than in any other Chicago paper.

These families should be your first consideration if you are planning to enter this market or are determined to increase sales in it.

Let a Tribune representative give you the complete facts. Write, wire or phone for him.

SECURED WITHOUT PREMIUM or cut price, delivered by official carriers, the Tribune's home delivered circulation is far greater than that of any other Chicago newspaper.

BIRTH CONTROL BILL ATTACKED AND DEFENDED

Church and Medical Men Present Views.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Religion and medicine jockeyed for prime position in today's debate over the birth control bill in hearings before the house judiciary committee.

The Roman Catholic church, through priest and layman, denounced as "disgusting and degrading" the bill's provisions for making contraceptive advice available to all upon consultation with a physician or a clinic and charged that its provision to permit the interstate mailing of literature and devices was the result, possibly, of a "commercial racket" with the manufacturers of those devices.

American Medical association members on opposite sides of the controversy got into a little private quarrel among themselves.

And Mrs. Margaret Sanger, pioneer proponent of the bill, waited until everybody had had his say and then had hers. She spoke more tartly than she had ever spoken at the three previous congressional hearings on similar bills and was in turn more sharply interrogated by hostile committee members than ever before.

Assails "Arrogance."

Declaring that what is needed is not birth control, but self-control, Congresswoman Mary T. Norton [Dem., N. J.], looked over at the women in favor of the bill as she said: "Their arrogance is astonishing. They set themselves up as champions of womanhood and they dub us of the opposition as the ignorant minority."

Then she looked as Mrs. Sanger, and remarked:

"Mrs. Sanger may some time succeed in her commercial enterprise. But when she does, God help the children of that age whose beauty of mind and soul will be contaminated by the filth carried through the mails regarding the most profound mystery of life."

Mrs. Thomas A. McGoldrick, representing the International Association of Catholic Alumnae, said that "Of course we are opposed to birth control, as Catholics; but we are also opposed to it as intelligent citizens."

Introduces Word "Racket."

It was she who used the word "racket," adding that she had seen several manufacturers of contraceptive devices present at the hearings, and she was sure they weren't there "in the interest of the down trodden mother."

Referring to Mrs. Sanger's argument that birth control is necessary to speed national recovery, the Rev. John A. Ryan, professor of industrial ethics at Catholic university, called it fantastic.

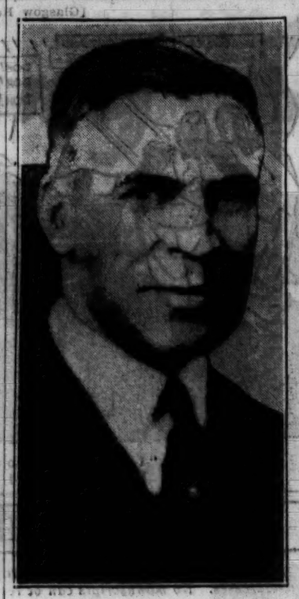
Dr. H. J. Crossen, speaking as the personal representative of Dr. William Gerry Morgan, past president of the American Medical association, but not speaking officially for that body, pointed to the fact that the association had declined to endorse a resolution to study birth control.

When the proponents got a chance at rebuttal, Dr. Prentiss Willson, president of the District of Columbia Medical association and himself a member of the A. M. A., declared that "the American Medical association comes to this hearing with unclean hands."

He explained his charge this way. The association's section on obstetrics and gynecology, having made a study of maternal welfare, had reported that birth control was one of the four major factors in the problem, and at the association's convention in Milwaukee last night had reported a resolution asking the body to make a study of birth control.

"But the association, it must be understood," said Dr. Willson, "is both a political and a scientific body. So they tabled the resolution. In other words, as a political body, they declined even to study a subject which, as a scientific body, they had listed as one of the four main causes in the diseases of women."

GETS U. S. POST



JOHN ASTOR DIENNER.

John Astor Dienner, a patent lawyer living at 1034 Sheridan road, Evanston, received an appointment yesterday from President Roosevelt commissioning him as a member of the American delegation to the international convention for the protection of industrial property, which will open in London on May 1.

The convention will consider the international patent treaty of 1925, which deals largely with the foreign property rights of citizens of the various countries. Every important nation will be represented at the London gathering. In addition to Mr. Diehner the American delegation will include Conway P. Coe of Chevy Chase, Md., United States patent commissioner, and Thomas Ewing of New York City, patent commissioner under President Wilson.

"Naturally I am honored by this appointment from the President," said Attorney Dienner. "It was wholly unexpected."

Mr. Dienner has been a patent attorney since 1913. From 1910 to 1914 he was an assistant patent examiner at Washington. Last spring Secretary of Commerce Roper appointed him a member of a committee of eight to revise the procedure in and before the patent office in Washington. Mr. Dienner is a member of the firm of Brown, Jackson, Boettcher & Dienner, 53 West Jackson boulevard.

MISSING AIR MAIL FILES FOUND BY WALTER BROWN

Farley Receives Records from Hoover Aid.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Former Postmaster General Walter F. Brown returned to the postoffice department today a file of official correspondence regarding air mail which he said he had found unexpectedly among his personal papers.

In a letter he personally delivered to Postmaster General Farley along with the file Brown indicated he thought the correspondence was that which James Mahrer, a department stenographer, told a senate committee he burned at the order of Brown's secretary.

"I am delighted to be able to return the official files relating to air mail and ocean mail unscathed by their fantastic experience in the fiery furnace, as were Shadrach and his companions of old," Brown's letter concluded.

Wants to Testify.

Brown told reporters he thought it would be "only fair" of the senate committee probing air and ocean mail contracts to ask him to testify.

Brown said he also returned to Farley a small file of letters from former President Hoover which he had found at the same time. He asked that Farley return them if they were found to be of no further service to the department.

Farley, soon after the visit, issued the following statement:

"Former Postmaster General Brown delivered to me personally files which he said contained official postoffice department correspondence. I delivered the files to Chief Inspector K. P. Aldrich, so that they may be inventoried and placed in the files of the postoffice department."

Black Is "Delighted."

Chairman Black of the senate air mail investigating committee expressed himself as "delighted" that Brown had found the files.

"I hope there will be more miraculous discoveries," he added. "It is regrettable that we cannot find the correspondence that was burned."

Black indicated that he had no intention of calling Brown to testify before the committee.

The former postmaster general said he found the files, to his amazement, in a large chest containing copies of documents and personal correspondence he had accumulated while in Washington. He discovered them, his letter said, last Tuesday while searching for several congressional documents.

Charge Distributor Sold Handbills for Waste Paper

The indictment of Horace J. Claremont, 38 years old, 400 Deming place, head of the Claremont Distributing company, 1500 Belmont avenue, on charges of conspiracy to defraud several large business houses, was revealed yesterday when a similar charge was nol prossed in the Felony court because the indictment had made the preliminary hearing unnecessary. The state charged that Claremont, after contracting to deliver handbills for stores, would deliver one-third of the bills and sell the rest as waste paper.

TROOPS NEAR BY AS EPITHETS FLY AT NEW ORLEANS

City Tense, Awaiting Election.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—The three-cornered municipal mayoralty campaign remained tense on all fronts today, with several squads of state troopers, armed and accoutred, resting in Jackson barracks, just outside the city limits. They awaited orders from Raymond H. Fleming, adjutant general, Louisiana National Guard, who now is in charge of all state boards and offices located in New Orleans.

Sheriffs of three parishes [counties] in the Sixth Congressional district, where Huey P. Long was burned in effigy in the recent congressional election, notified Mayor Walmsley's headquarters that they would be willing to send as many deputies to aid in any clash with state troops as might be needed.

Snipe with Epithets.

Leaders of the three factions continued to snipe at one another with epithets bitterly denunciatory, and with accusations that are sensational. The culmination will be the election for a mayor, commission council of five and various parochial [county] offices next Tuesday.

Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, seeking reëlection, principal opponent of the ticket personally selected by Senator Huey P. Long, in his public addresses was boldly defiant of Gov. O. K. Allen's order commanding Gen. Fleming to seal up all state records.

The mayor accused the governor of taking the step to prevent District Attorney Eugene Stanley from investigating alleged outrageous expenditure of public funds to elect Senator Long's ticket. Mr. Stanley inaugurated this investigation several days ago, and if he insists on continuing the probe, as is expected, it will entail a clash between city authorities and state guardsmen.

Long's Bodyguard Arrested.

Paul Voitier, one of Senator Long's numerous bodyguards, today was arrested and charged with perjury on three counts in connection with his testimony in the court probing fraudulent registration. His bond of $3,000 was signed by Abe Shushan, one of Senator Long's larger financial managers.

About fifty other citizens also were charged today with perjury in connection with alleged fraudulent registration.

Canadian Judge Dies on Bench as He Hears Case

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 19.—Justice A. Brossard, 62, a new judge on the Montreal Superior court bench, collapsed today while hearing a civil case and died almost immediately. He was a widely known leader of the Conservative party.

CANADA READY TO BUILD SEAWAY, SAYS ROOSEVELT

Tells Railmen Dominion Can Go It Alone.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—A St. Lawrence seaway, built by Canada entirely within Canadian territory, was foreseen by President Roosevelt today if the United States senate does not ratify the treaty now before it providing for international construction of the waterway.

Meeting a group of railroad labor leaders for a discussion of the continued 10 per cent pay reduction facing rail workers, the President, toward the close of the talk, turned from wages to conversation concerning the waterway. The carriers have been among the foremost in opposing the expenditure of federal millions to build this competing form of transportation.

No Dams Required.

The President informed the railroad men that he believed Canada was ready to handle the project alone if the United States refused to cooperate. It was presumed that he referred to a route which has been discussed and which would connect Georgian bay with the Ottawa river and thence lead to the St. Lawrence. Such a route would lie entirely within Canadian territory. The President said that this plan would require no dams to be constructed; that the construction of locks would suffice.

Meanwhile senate debate on the treaty continued. Answering the arguments of proponents of the compact, Senator J. Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.], leader of the opposition, gave notice of a reservation on which opponents of the treaty will insist if the agreement with Canada is to be ratified. The reservation would state the intention of the United States to see that nothing in the treaty should be construed as internationalizing Lake Michigan.

The Lewis resolution read as follows:

Seek Lake Protection.

"In the matter of a consideration of the treaty designated as the treaty for the ratification of the St. Lawrence waterway, the United States senate hereby declares that the body of water designated and known as Lake Michigan is not now and since the establishment of the United States of America has not been an international boundary water. Said Lake Michigan cannot now by any form of contract, treaty, undertaking or obligation be rightfully declared or treated as an international water.

"It is hereby declared that the said Lake Michigan is now, and at all times during the existence of the United States of America has been, an American lake, wholly within the jurisdiction of the United States of America and in no wise within the jurisdiction of any foreign or international government."

MAE WEST THEFT SUSPECT CLAIMS POLICE BEAT HIM

Threat Rumors Enter Robbery Trial.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Charges that police kicked and beat him into making statements they interpreted as a confession in the $20,000 holdup of Mae West, movie and stage actress, were made by Edward Friedman in his robbery trial today.

More than a dozen guards were sprinkled about the courtroom. Vague threats and rumors of possible violence at the trial were recounted, but there was no plausible information of what turn such violence might take.

A report attributed to police that "two Chicago gangsters" were in town, presumably "interested in the Friedman case," was relayed to Superior Judge Harry Sewell. There was a report that Miss West, who was not in the courtroom today, had received another telephone call interpreted as a threat. On the other hand there was a rumor that some attempt might be made on Friedman himself.

Fear Violence.

The guards were assigned as the result of telephone calls Judge Sewell said he received yesterday warning him that some sort of violence might arise in the courtroom.

It was all very mysterious, but Judge Sewell was not inclined to take it very seriously.

Testifying in a low, dull voice, Friedman said police told him "we'll beat you to a pulp if you don't tell all we've told you to say," and that they manhandled him, while voicing this warning.

Resists Extradition.

The blonde actress testified on the first day of the trial that Friedman, brought by police to her presence, told her he was "sorry" about the robbery. She said he accused Harry Voller of planning it. Voller, who, as an old friend of Miss West, sat with her in her automobile when she was robbed, was indicted in the case and is in Illinois resisting extradition.

The police gangster squad reported to the district attorney today that one of the supposed Chicago gangsters here is believed to be a relative of Voller.

SHE RAISED BID, HUSBAND RAISED CAIN, WIFE AVERS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Every time she raised her husband's bid during a bridge game he would violently kick her shins, Mrs. Alice Skolla of Harmarville testified today in her divorce suit against John Skolla.

"If I made a mistake in my bidding or wouldn't let him have his bid he would kick my legs under the bridge table," she told Judge Harry Rowand in Common Pleas court. She asked a divorce on grounds of cruelty.

THE CODE AND THE MILK STRIKE.

The upshot of all the disorders of the milk strike is that the Chicago consumer gets top hand of the AAA and its milk code for the time being, at least. The farmers of the Chicago milk shed dumped milk, destroyed property, blocked roads and stopped trains in alleged dissatisfaction with the price they were receiving. If they abide by their decision to accept the price fixed by arbitration they will get less. The milk code administrators came in to increase the dissatisfaction of both the farmer and the buyer of milk and went out just ahead of a strike, in which every interest was represented except that of the consumer until Mayor Kelly and the city council took over the situation, restored the supply, and brought about the agreement which results in a lower price.

The only unorganized and unrepresented persons in the whole controversy, until the mayor and council took hold, were the people who buy milk, and yet they proved that they have the ultimate power against which administrators, codes, planners and producers trying to profit from what the planners do will contend in vain. As a necessity, milk has a limited range. Many consumers can escape from an exorbitant price and will. If milk is too expensive they will use something else. The AAA can't force milk on them. It has discovered that it can't force pork and meat products on them. In the long run, the milk producers and distributors will find that their profit is in encouraging by every means possible the increased use of milk and not in driving the users to other things. Decreased consumption followed the efforts of the planners to boost the price, limit the method of distribution and sale, and fix the quality. It was responsible for the recapture of the rights by the consumer.

It is not to be forgotten that the municipality of Chicago, which has and should have the interest of the consumer as its chief concern, possesses more effective authority over the milk supply than any other governmental body. It exercises this through its inspection. The inspection creates the Chicago milk shed, which in turn gives monopoly privileges in the Chicago market to dairy farmers within a hundred miles. Back of that barrier is a flood of milk which would seek the Chicago market and which could be inspected. People who have watched the milk code blow up in a violent strike and come to this strange end may wonder what it was all about. It was another illustration of the futility and damage of trying to fix a price on the assumption that the consumer must pay it and must buy, an assumption coupled with the theory that the way to make an industry prosperous is to discourage the use of its products and destroy the market for them by imposing upon the consumer.

THE DEFENSE OF THE SECURITIES ACT.

The federal securities act was passed last June. In the intervening months relatively few securities have been issued except those of the government, which do not come under the act. As there can be no genuine recovery of business until there is a resumption of investment in private enterprise, a prima facie case against the act has been made. The law seems to be preventing investment and, therefore, preventing recovery.

The act has been attacked repeatedly along these lines, but it is only now that it has found an able defender in Attorney General Bernard Flexner, whose argument appears in the February number of the Atlantic Monthly. Mr. Flexner thinks that it is not the securities act which is preventing new flotations, but the unwillingness of prospective borrowers to borrow or of the public to lend. Railroads and municipalities have also been unable to do any public borrowing, even when their credit rating was relatively high, he finds. The act cannot be blamed for their difficulties, because they are exempt from its operations. The act has not prevented the issuance of distillery and mining securities, for which there has been a ready sale in recent months, he observes, though these securities must be registered. Mr. Flexner concludes that directors of borrowing corporations and bankers will not hesitate to assume their liabilities under the act when an opportunity for a fair profit presents itself. A partial confirmation of this view was found the other day when it was announced that a 15 million dollar utility refunding issue is about to be registered, the first of its kind since the law was enacted.

Mr. Flexner speaks of a "well subsidized campaign of propaganda" against the act to destroy its usefulness under the guise of amending it. He contends that the act in its present form offers a lawyer-proof protection to the investor against misrepresentation and the deliberate withholding of vital information by those who sell securities. Any amendments, he believes, are likely to break down the act at vital points.

Mr. Flexner's article is a remarkable bit of pamphleteering. It has transferred the burden of proof from the defenders of the act to its opponents. They must make a better argument for amendment than has yet been made. At the same time it should be pointed out, for the benefit of congressmen and others, that more than once in legislative history the effort to abolish the abuses of a business has resulted in a law which abolished the business itself.

The managers of any enterprise must have a considerable freedom of action if their enterprise is to grow in usefulness. The freedom they must have will generally be sufficient to permit abuses to develop. That is a risk which society cannot avoid taking. We want the security business to be conducted with as many safeguards for the inexperienced investor as can be provided without destroying the investment business itself. Mr. Flexner says long term borrowing can proceed satisfactorily under the act. It remains for the opponents of the law, if they can, to prove—not merely to assert—that the contrary is true.

WHAT IS THE SECRET?

It is known that a slush fund of over half a million dollars was raised to put over the St. Lawrence seaway treaty. Senator Clark of Missouri wants a senatorial investigation to find where the money went. The seaway senators refuse the investigation. Why? What is the secret?

HOW TO AVOID A POSTAL DEFICIT.

A recent test of the postal service between Chicago and New York revealed that a letter mailed in either city might be delivered in the other in something over 20 hours under most favorable circumstances or in 63 hours under most unfavorable circumstances. Within these extreme limits the variations in time required for delivery were considerable.

As the speed of trains varies and as the trains and deliveries are not evenly distributed around the clock, a certain amount of variance in the time required to deliver a letter must be expected, but it should be the aim of the postal department to reduce the variations to a minimum and at the same time to speed delivery as much as possible. The way to avoid the postal deficit is to offer a service improved in speed and reliability. There is ample room for betterment in both particulars, as the recent tests have disclosed.

COLONIAL TRADE.

American exporters are at the mercy of an international combination of ship owners who set arbitrary rates and enforce them by penalties against any business man who dares to use an independent. Thus a manufacturer in the Chicago region who should venture to place a cargo aboard one of the ocean going ships which enter the Chicago harbor during the summer months would have to pay penalty rates on every other shipment he made. European exporters have no such combination to buck in their efforts to find markets. The ship owners are forced to compete for the business to the great advantage of the continental business man.

We declared our independence in 1776, but it has not yet been established. So far as Europe is concerned, this continent is still a colony which exists primarily for the enrichment of the mother country.

THE AGE OF BANK DIRECTORS.

The average age of the directors of two large banks was shown recently to be 59 years. The similarity in the age-groupings of the two boards was striking. About a fifth of the directors of each bank were under 50; about two-fifths were between 50 and 60 and the remaining two-fifths were over 60.

Every well balanced bank board should contain a certain number of elderly and old men. Their experience and counsel can be of great value. But if the age composition of these two boards is typical, as we suspect, it seems pretty clear that our banks ought to be seeking some younger directors who can look forward rather than backward to an extended career in banking and business. While it is impossible, of course, to lay down an absolute rule it can be said with some assurance that a bank board should include as many men under 50 as over 60.

Editorial of the Day

HOLDERS OF OLD BONDS TO BE FOOLED AGAIN.

[Des Moines Register.]

By setting up a separate federal mortgage company to issue the new farm credit bonds, of which the government is to guarantee both interest and principal, the treasury will neatly avoid complications which might well have arisen with regard to federal land bank and Home Owners Loan corporation bonds already outstanding in the hands of the public, in an aggregate amount well over a billion dollars. The refusal of the government to accept responsibility for the old federal and joint stock land bank issues has long been a sore point with investors.

When these bonds were issued they were commonly described as "instrumentalities" of the government; this phrase was used by the attorney general's office and by the federal bench, including the Supreme court. Many investors drew the inference that the government was assuming responsibility for eventual payment of the bonds.

The history of these issues is well known. Many joint stock banks and at least one or two federal land banks have been wholly unable to meet payments, and investors who looked to Washington for discharge of these defaulted obligations have discovered that their hope was illusory.

There has apparently never been a positive official denial of the existence of a moral obligation, at least, to assume these losses. But this would be a particularly inopportune time to make the definite admission. The federal deficit is already enormous. The machinery to be set up to take care of these new bonds will enable the government again to sidestep the question.

Old federal land bank issues and Home Owners Loan corporation bonds advanced several points while this new project was under discussion, but the legislation itself in the form now proposed seems to offer little reason for that advance.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. H. T. E.

THAT BIG DIAMOND just discovered in South Africa has been sold for $350,000. But what's the use of owning a diamond like that these days? Anyhow, in these United States. Announcement that anybody owned that diamond and the following parade would form line at once and march in search of the man with the $350,000 diamonds:

Massed Bandits' Silver Cornet band.
Second Division Gangsters' Light infantry.
First, Second, and Third Battalions Veteran Gunmen Storm troops.
First Independent Bandits' Light artillery.
Third Corps Gangster Heavy dragoons.
Bandits' Machine Gun companies.
Gangsters' Siege Gun batteries.
Bandits on foot.
Bandits on horseback.
Bandits in autos.

Gangsters on bicycles, roller skates, and on foot.

THE EARNEST CHAMPIONS of birth control appearing before the congressional committee in Washington insist that unless their bill is made a law the New Deal will be a fizzle. The situation is really serious. The NRA gives birth to a new alphabetical child every day or two, and one day mamma had twins—quaintly named CWA and CCC. Shoo, stork, shoo! Don't bring any more children to NRA. Land's sake! She can't count the ones she's got already!

CONGRESS.

PHILADELPHIA—1776.

The door is thrown wide to the heat-burdened breeze;
Noon in July, and abroad
Hardly a bird is astir in the trees,
The nation and nature are awed.
Picture those patriots, stern and intense—
Come, we shall stand at the sill:
"When in the course of human events,"
Hark to the scratch of the quill.
Can they not vision the red-coated hosts,
The veng'ance their treason will bring?
"He has plundered our seas and ravaged our coasts"—
God! They are baiting the king.
"We mutually pledge to each other our lives,"
Here is no fear of the rope;
Here is conviction that justice survives,
And here is the dawning of hope.

WASHINGTON—1934.

Hushed are the halls where the lawmakers brood;
Hushed are the throngs in the street;
The structure our forefathers raised has withstood
No menace more real nor complete.
Millions are hungry and millions are cold,
Scourged by the whiplash of dread;
Speak not to these of the value of gold
Whose need is of shelter and bread.
God of our fathers, give to the great
The courage of Hancock and Paine,
Help them forget the rules of debate
And make us a nation again.

PAT PATTEN.

THE RETURN OF LIKKER ought to banish such terrible nightmares as "Foodie Shoppes" and "Eattie and Runnie Lunchie Roomies" and other horrible things like 'em. Restaurant people said they couldn't do fine cooking without wine and that, besides, the only money in serving food during the dry plague was to get as many eaters in as possible and then get 'em out as soon as possible to let in another hungry set. But now restaurateurs won't insist on their customers bolting their food and clearing out right away, because if the customers linger they won't merely be wasting space by sitting in their chairs; they'll be ordering wines and liquors and they're welcome to stick around as long as they like. And, besides, now the old wail that good cooking can't be done without wine will no longer prevail.

There can be rum omelets with the lovely flames dancing all over the platter, and there can be a real plum pudding, which they said they couldn't make before because they couldn't get brandy. And the Italian restaurants can serve all the Chianti that anybody could ask, and the French waiters can serve roast chicken without breaking down and crying like children because they cannot serve an old cobwebby bottle of Château Lafitte or Château Margaux with it. What is roast chicken without Château Lafitte or Château Margaux? Ah, quelle horreur! C'est impossible! Abas la Bastille!

Yes, and lobster à la Newburg! Voila! At last the succulent lobster can be cooked in white wine. And likewise now we should be able to get a proper green turtle soup and mince pie, and Russian restaurants ought to bring forth flaming lamb (the cognac is what makes it flame). And in other places we ought to be able to get poulet à la crême with marsala and brandy poured liberally in the sauce, and pancakes with rum batter and tripe à la mode de Caen and calf's liver Suissesse and café brulée! Yes, and a pike en matelote. A grand fine pike cooking in a brimming pan of red Medoc! Wonder if one would get boisterous and go driving through a red light if he had two helpings of pike en matelote? It's hard to say. It's been so long since I had any food with anything in it except buttermilk or—near beer.

NO BARGAIN.

However costs go up and down,
However values vary,
The price of love—an aching heart—
Is fixed and stationary.

TESTS FOR AMEBIC DYSENTERY.

THIS epidemic of tropical dysentery radiating from Chicago, beginning in May, 1933, and lasting well into the early winter, has caused considerable interest in the disease. It is an old disease and one that has been well known for a long time, but while the inhabitants of the tropics know much about it those who live in temperate zones seldom think of it as one of their disorders.

It is caused by an ameba, a small, one-celled animal that lives well in the large intestine. It has been estimated that one person out of every ten harbors this parasite. Certainly the proportion is not less than one in fifty. The great majority of those who harbor it are free from dysentery and diarrheas caused by it. Possibly most of them have never had any attacks or symptoms which could have been reasonably suspected as being amebic in origin.

So widespread is it that we must find some test by which the harmless carriers can be distinguished from those that are dangerous. For this purpose it has been proposed that the complement fixation test proposed by Col. C. F. Craig be used instead of the laboratory test now employed. This complement fixation test as a means of diagnosis may be superior to the laboratory examination, but we will have to clear up some points before we can say that it is.

Zoologists recognize at least four kinds of ameba coli. In addition they say the disease should not be termed amebic unless the ameba can be seen to move when a fresh specimen is examined on a warm stage and unless the organism contains blood and conforms to some other standards.

There are half a dozen remedies, each of which has considerable reputation as a cure for the disease. The California authorities think carbasone is the most efficient of these and also much the safest. Rogers of India proposed the use of an extract of ipecac called emetin. This is the best of the remedies in amebic abscess of the liver, secondary to amebic dysentery. But, for the routine treatment of the disease, it is too dangerous. It is safe only in the hands of men of great experience with the disease.

About six years ago Dr. Frank Smithies, one of the first physicians in the north to write about amebic dysentery, gave it as his opinion that one of the best remedies was powdered ipecac. He used several procedures, but one of the most efficient was the old standby in dysentery, powdered ipecac.

There are several other remedies that have their followers. Among them are acetarsone, vioform, chinioform, Kurchi alkaloids, and some of the bismuth salts. James of Panama, who knows the disease as well as does Craig of New Orleans, after trying chinioform extensively, went back to very large doses of bismuth salts.

There is therefore a fair number of drugs from which physicians can choose. It is a reasonably curable disease. Overcoming the carrier state may not be such an easy problem to solve, but doubtless some practicable way can be found.

Health authorities are not alarmed over the outlook. The epidemic was not a bad one and the number of cases was not great. Its existence so late in the circumstances that prevail. The number of deaths was far less than the numbers resulting from diseases of which we have no fear. While the disease is contagious through pollution of food, it is not violently so. Otherwise it could not have smoldered in those hotels for so many years, doing so little harm.

We need simpler, cheaper, less troublesome, and better laboratory tests, but they will be worked out. We need a few laws and rules for food handlers and kitchen workers. These we should have in a short while.

IT IS A SYMPTOM.

Mrs. A. N. L. writes:

1. Is heartburn a symptom or a disease?
2. If a symptom, what of?
3. What is the treatment for it?
4. Do you have a booklet on the menopause?
5. What is a fibroid uterus?
6. Could a person with fibroid uterus become pregnant?
7. Do you approve of yeast for constipation?

REPLY.

1. Symptom.
2. Of gallstones, infected gall bladder, ulcer, cancer, nervous indigestion, secondary indigestion, or dyspepsia.
3. Depends on the cause. Sometimes eating a cracker eases it, or taking a few mint tablets or mint in some other form. Often drinking a carbonated water gives relief temporarily. But the treatment otherwise should be based on the cause.
4. Yes. Send a stamped and addressed envelope with request.
5. A fibroid tumor in that organ.
6. Yes.
7. It sometimes helps.

WEIGHT TOO MUCH.

Billie writes:

1. I am 15 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall, and my weight is about 210 pounds. What is my correct weight?
2. My gym teacher, who is an authority on such cases, told me that hard exercising and faithfulness to gym work, plus school sports, would make me lose weight by hardening the flabby fat with the newly made muscle. Is this information true?

REPLY.

1. About 134 to 139 pounds.
2. Ordinarily it is. However, you probably are obese because of some ductless gland disorder. If so, have your physician treat you.

JAUNDICE.

Mrs. F. J. writes: Kindly write about yellow jaundice. My little girl was born with it.

REPLY.

Nearly every baby has some jaundice when a few days of age. It is caused by shift in the blood route and in the quantity and quality of the blood. That kind of jaundice calls for no treatment. In addition babies are subject to other kinds of jaundice due to other causes. Some kinds of jaundice are serious.

APPLICATION FOR CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—[Friend of the People.]—I would like to know the limit of time allowed a Canadian entering the United States before applying for citizen papers? A. W. McC.

There is no limit. Acquisition of citizenship is a matter of volition and compliance with naturalization laws.

STOCK PURCHASE.

Chicago, Jan. 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am writing concerning stock. If an employé of an insurance company buys stock, paying for it by the week, or if said company deducts any stipulated amount each week until he has paid $500 or more, and then said employé leaves the company's service, [1] when can he or she get the money so invested? 2. Is it legal for the company to hold out said employé's money indefinitely, [3] or is there any legal procedure to get the money back? Stock in question is not listed. S. A. W.

1. Depends on the agreement. It seems probable a written contract was signed, and, if so, its wording would control. If the employé agreed to pay a specified price, then the mere fact that he quit the employment would not relieve him from his agreement.
2 and 3. See 1.

CORPORATION STOCK.

Aurora, Ill., Jan. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—An old man invested $9,000 in a chain store scheme fostered by a manufacturing firm in Ohio. The stores selling this firm's goods were in various cities. They ceased paying dividends two or more years ago. Lately they have gone out of business without any notice to stockholders. Inquiries by letter are ignored. The person who sold the stock makes no answer to questions except that the stores have quit. 1. Is there any way in which the officers of that company could be compelled to give an accounting of the business? 2. Could officers be held accountable for loss of stock? 3. Is there any way in which one could get any of the money? F. T. B.

1. In general, corporate officers are not oblized to give financial statements to the stockholders, but the stockholders would be entitled to examine the books for themselves.
2. Not on the bare facts stated.
3. You would have to show that fraud was involved. In view of the substantial amount of money involved, it would seem worth while to go over all your facts in a personal interview with an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

From Across the Sea

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—The British admiralty has promulgated another scheme for the voluntary retirement of a number of naval officers. Details have just been issued of a measure designed to encourage lieutenant commanders and lieutenants to retire. Lieutenant commanders under 40 years of age and who volunteer to retire will receive a cash payment of $12,500, with an extra $1,000 for each year's seniority in the rank.

Lieutenants—confirmed in the rank on June 30, 1934—will receive $5,000 for less than three years' seniority, $6,000 on attaining three years' seniority, and $1,000 for each extra year.

The need for this special effort to rid the navy of the younger officers is that only about one in seventeen holding the ranks of lieutenant and lieutenant commander has any chance, under present conditions, of staying in service after he reaches the age of 38.

There are about 700 lieutenant commanders in the British navy. The half yearly promotion list just issued shows that only 25 of them have been promoted to commanders. The senior officer promoted has been on the list since 1927, but there are nearly 220 lieutenant commanders senior to him. Consequently his chance of further promotion is nil. Some of them have remained in the rank for 14 years, not from any fault of their own but simply because in a reduced navy there is not enough work for senior men.

The gratuities offered are not particularly generous. Any young lieutenant retiring under the scheme would receive about $35,000 less than his parents paid out for his training as a naval officer. Whether the number of those who take advantage of this plan will be large enough to dispose of the present surplus of officers and thus bring prospects of promotion back to normal is a question.

CODES AND THE PUBLIC.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 11.—THE TRIBUNE takes the right view of the code problem in its editorial, "Codes and the Public." My experience with codes has been limited to those controlling two branches of the building trade in which I have done business for almost forty years in this city. It appears that the intent of the codes is to eliminate competition altogether. It creates a trust and would soon centralize each industry in a few of the larger firms such as are located in the large cities.

Regulation would be vested in a commission. Each firm would have a number of votes depending on the amount of business carried and the percentage paid in. The voting power of a small firm would be negligible. The large firms have shown a disposition to resort to unfair competition in the past. They have in many cases prevented goods and material from being shipped into territory controlled by them. It looks like the story of the wolf and the lamb; very hard on the lamb.

My business was not a competitive business. I gave an expensive quality of service and workmanship, charging two and sometimes three times the market price. The highest wages were paid to the few workmen who could qualify for our work. The limited number of available helpers and the unusual quality of the work and service provided for our patrons made it difficult to extend the firm. The firms that would hold the controlling interest in the code committee often induced our employés to quit. This was done for the purpose of preventing our development. It is hardly necessary to say what would happen under a code system like that I have described. I could not carry on my business under such a system as that which has been proposed to me. But after listening to the radio broadcast from St. Louis featuring W. H. Davis of the compliance board, I would not want to continue. I am sure that I never could get used to being bullied by "a top sergeant," as described by Mr. Davis. The idea of being lockstepped, lined up, and put to bed by a political straw boss seems almost as ludicrous as it is, to me, impossible. But that is what Mr. Davis proposes to do to us if we are ovine enough to stand for it.

I was born in a free country. During the 69 years of my life I have lived under conditions of freedom. If the people of the United States are so supine as to stand for such humiliating conditions as those proposed by Mr. Davis and others I am glad that in the natural order of things I won't have to stand it very long. S.

CONGRESSIONAL PENSIONS.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Congress is giving $150,000 of the people's money to families of senators and representatives who died in the last year. This is the most barefaced robbery I ever heard of. How about veterans' pensions, which were taken away and thrown on county relief? EUGENE HARDING.

COMPLAINT.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—As a married world war veteran, stationed at one of the CCC camps in Illinois, I write in protest that I must continue to live separated from my family. Other men who have no dependents can live at home, working for the CWA at twice the salary I must work for. VET.

McGUFFEY'S COLLABORATOR.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—In the issue of Jan. 10, 1934, appears an article headed, "Famed McGuffey's Readers Written by Two." I wish to say there seems to be an error.

Dr. W. H. McGuffey compiled the first three or four, but the others were compiled by T. S. Pinneo, A. M., M. D. I was a member of Dr. Pinneo's family from January, 1857, to June, 1859, when I was preparing for college. He lived in Walnut Hills, then a suburb of Cincinnati, O., on the property north of the home of Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe when Dr. C. E. Stowe, her husband, was a professor in Lane Theological seminary. I read some of the proof of the "Sixth Reader."

Dr. Pinneo was the author of "Pinneo's Grammars" and "Heman's Young Ladies' Readers." These books were published by W. B. Smith & Co., Cincinnati, O. JOHN R. BLACKBURN.

A CORRECT FORECAST.

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 15.—In your issue of Dec. 29, 1933, you carried an editorial entitled "The Boys on Capitol Hill."

This editorial quoted from a college commencement address delivered by Justice Brewer just after the 1894 income tax law had been held unconstitutional. Justice Brewer then prophesied when an income tax law was passed, as he was sure some time it would be pursuant to constitutional amendment, "it will turn out to be the greatest incentive to extravagance the world has ever seen." When the income tax amendment to the constitution was adopted I was making some speeches myself and I advanced that same prophecy. It was therefore mighty gratifying to have your great newspaper carrying information that as learned an authority as Justice Brewer predicted what did happen, and that I was not altogether wrong in my own ideas about it.

I remember in a speech to the Schoolmasters group, the oldest schoolmasters' organization in Illinois, I made the same statement in substance and do not think there were very many in the audience who agreed with me.

Your editorial will certainly give thoughtful people something to think about with respect to the income tax amendment to the federal constitution. HENRY I. GREEN.

SURPRISE!

Dwight, Ill., Jan. 13.—In the cartoon by Mr. Orr of Jan. 13 a comparison was presented of the average American, with his home and all his comforts, and the uncivilized Negroes of Zululand. Does Mr. Orr wish to illustrate here that we would be much happier without "this curse of machinery" of which he speaks? Does he wish to point out to us that the Zulu people are enjoying life more than we are? If he does, let me advise him that the people of America are satisfied with their country and do not prefer to go back to primitive life in order to be happy. LEONARD HOFFMAN.

CONTINENTAL ERROR.

Clinton, N. Y., Jan. 15.—I noticed in the radio column of Saturday's TRIBUNE that the Metropolitan Opera company was broadcasting Giacomo Meyerbeer's "L'Americana," heretofore known as "L'Africana." I approve heartily of the nationally spirited "America First" movement, but isn't this carrying things a bit too far? KIMBALL RENWICK.

SIXTH FLOOR, SOUTH, STATE

THIS IS WHAT TEN BRIGHT YOUNG SENIORS SAY ON THE SUBJECT of Our New "Young Chicago" Fashions

$8.95 $12.95

Ten prominent members of ten of the leading "Highs" came down to Field's. They saw these new dresses and they liked them so much, we named them "Young Chicago." What did they say about the fashions? Was it the sparkle of sophistication and the sort of coming-of-age spirit about the dresses they liked best? Was it the thrill of finding just what they crave for so small a sum that won them over? Oh, yes—they raved about these things. But, secretly, we think it's because these fashions are just as vibrant and fresh as the bright, young Chicago they're designed for—that make them such favorites.

Think of the nicest colors you know—persimmon, lake blue, dusty rose, aqua—now look at this dress. Can you see it? 11-17. $8.95.

"FOUR" THAT SPEAK FOR THE SPORTS ROOM

"Geometry"—anyhow, you'll love it on this print. The collar is white and large. 11-17. $12.95.

ARTIST FISHER DEAD AT 57 IN NEW YORK CITY

Famous for Drawings of Beautiful Girls.

New York, Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Harrison Fisher, the artist whose drawings of beautiful girls have adorned magazine covers for years, died unexpectedly today in Doctors' hospital. He underwent an emergency operation last night. He was 57 years old.

Ill for about four months he was taken to the hospital yesterday and appeared to be rallying for a time, but death resulted from a relapse today.

Fisher was one of the foremost illustrators and the type of girl he so frequently drew became recognizable as a "Fisher Girl" in the same way that the "Gibson Girl" was always recognizable.

He was born in Brooklyn on July 27, 1877, and was educated in San Francisco, England, and France. His father, Hugo A. Fisher, was an artist, and as a child the younger Fisher took lessons at home, afterward studying art in the Mark Hopkins Institute of Art in San Francisco.

Begins Drawing at 16.

At the age of 16 he began his career by making drawings for a San Francisco paper. Later he joined the art staff of Puck, and as his vogue began to be established "Fisher Girls" were to be found in many magazines and books.

The artist once confessed that his first magazine cover of a pretty girl wearing a gay ribbon around her heard was inspired by a peasant girl he saw in France. The girl—by no means pretty—had been ill with typhoid fever and had lost all of her hair. Her mother, in order to hide her bald head, tied a gay colored scarf around it. Fisher found the effect striking and pleasant, and frequently made use of the ribbon in his illustrations.

Although he was always ready to champion American girls as the most beautiful in the world, Fisher never married.

"I've seen too much of them," he used to say. "Besides, I'm too busy drawing them."

Tires of Drawing Girls.

He appeared to have tired of the latter, however, for only last year he remarked on one occasion that while he still believed American girls have no peer for beauty, he was "tired of drawing the same faces." He would like, he said, to put drawings of cows or even sea lions on magazine covers, just for a change.

"But it wasn't any use talking to editors about it," he said. "The public wants pretty girls, and that's what I must give 'em."

Much of his work was seen on the covers, or as illustrations for stories in the Saturday Evening Post, Scribners, the Ladies' Home Journal, McClure's, Life, Puck, and Cosmopolitan. He prepared one book of drawings called the Harrison Fisher Book.

The only surviving member of his family is a brother, Hugo Fisher, who lives in Paris.

Artist friends were not able to say this afternoon when the funeral would be held, but they said it would probably be a simple one, because "Harrison never liked publicity."

HAROLD TEEN—HAROLD IS CONVERTED

LORD HALIFAX DIES IN LONDON AT THE AGE OF 95

Leader in Anglo-Catholic Church Movement.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Viscount Halifax, long a leader in the Anglo-Catholic church movement, died today at the age of 95 years.

He was for more than 60 years one of the mainsprings of the movement to unite the Catholic church and the Church of England.

In 1895 he went to Rome with two Church of England clergymen to try to bring the projected union closer. The failure of the mission did not discourage him.

Friend of Cardinal Mercier.

More than 20 years later he was the prime mover in initiation of the famous Malines conversations. These led to the establishment of a unique friendship, for five years later Lord Halifax was called to the bedside of the dying Cardinal Mercier and received from him a ring in token of their friendship.

In early youth Prince Albert, the husband of Queen Victoria, chose Lord Halifax to be the companion of the prince of Wales, later King Edward VII. They were together at Eton and Christ Church college.

Title to Lord Irwin.

Lord Halifax was born in 1839. His father was Sir Charles Wood, the third baronet, and was raised to the peerage in 1866 and died in 1885.

Viscount Halifax is succeeded in the title by Lord Irwin, his son, a former viceroy of India.

CALLS IT CRIME TO BAR AUTOPSY ON HUMAN BRAIN

Hampers Science, Says Noted Psychiatrist.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 19.—(AP)—It is "a crime against civilization that we fail to let any brain pass unexamined when it has done its life work," said Dr. Adolf Meyer, psychiatrist in chief of the Johns Hopkins hospital and internationally known authority on brain research, today.

Dr. Meyer recently dissected and studied the brain of Giuseppe Zangara, the man who shot at President Roosevelt and fatally wounded Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago. The reluctance of many Americans to allow their own brains to undergo a similar postmortem study is, said Dr. Meyer, "such a foolish idea."

All Types Needed.

"We have a great deal to learn about the brain and we can learn it only through the study of brains in connection with what we know about the life and the condition of the person at the time of death," he said.

All types are needed, he asserted—bishops, wrestlers, senators, criminals, everybody.

Dr. Meyer was asked what science expects to learn from the laboratory examination of the brain and what it already has learned.

"The public may first expect from science that it will strive to know consistent differences between the brilliant man and the dullard, the scholar and the professional wrestler," he answered. "It will strive to know whether the brain can show what has to be born; and how much the brain we are born with can be expected to develop by use as well as suffer from misuse and disease.

Much to Be Learned.

"We must learn what we may dare to do in brain surgery. We must know more about changes under drugs and complexities of function; more about the nutritional support the brain depends upon to do its best. We must know more about the brain, as the body, to control the work of the physician.

"The greatest gain in these directions lies in the diversity of the problems the student is led to attack. Not merely corrections on what one already knows or has reason to assume but especially questions of the best use and nutrition that favor sound growth and maintenance and that guide one in creative experimentation."

DR. LEROY HEDGES, PHYSICIAN HERE FOR YEARS, DIES

Dr. Le Roy Hedges, 74 years old, 6726 Oxford avenue, who for many years practiced medicine in the Edison Park neighborhood, died yesterday after a long illness at the Arlington Rest home. He suffered a paralytic stroke two years ago and had been an invalid since.

Dr. Hedges was born in Iowa and was brought to Chicago as a boy. His father, William H. Hedges, was city engineer at the time of the Chicago fire and furnished the data on which the city was rebuilt. The family later removed to North Dakota. Returning to Chicago, Dr. Hedges studied at the Chicago Homeopathic Medical college, from which he was graduated in 1891. He practiced here and in Janesville, Wis., later moving to Colorado, where he became president of the state board of medical examiners. He returned to Chicago in 1914.

Surviving Dr. Hedges are his wife and five sons. Funeral services will be held at the Edison Park Methodist church at 1:30 p. m. today. Burial will be in Acacia cemetery.

MANY FETES TO MARK ROOSEVELT BIRTHDAY JAN. 30

Plans for additional parties on Jan. 30 in honor of President Roosevelt's birthday were announced yesterday from the Hotel Sherman headquarters of the organization directing Chicago's participation in the nationwide celebration.

Mrs. William F. Ferrell president of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, embracing ten districts and 250 clubs, said that a general committee of the organization will cooperate in the commemorative affair. Every council of the Knights of Columbus in Chicago and adjoining suburbs plans to participate in the birthday party, according to James Donahoe, supreme director, and Martin H. Carmody, supreme knight. Scores of American Legion posts are planning parties.

Demand is growing for tickets for the Auditorium theater party, the largest single event planned in Chicago, where stars of the radio, stage, opera, and screen will appear. The net proceeds of this entertainment and many others will go to the Georgia Warm Springs foundation for sufferers of infantile paralysis, which is sponsored by the President.

In Glencoe, following a vote of the village council, a benefit tag day for the foundation will be held. Mrs. D. W. Jasper is in charge of the committee.

DELAY MANDEL RITES AWAITING SON'S ARRIVAL

It was announced by the family yesterday that funeral services for Mrs. Blanche Rosenbaum Mandel, widow of Frederick Leon Mandel, former chairman of Mandel Brothers' store, will be postponed until the arrival of her son, Leon Mandel II., from Guatemala. Mrs. Mandel died on Thursday night of a heart attack. She was 54 years old.

Word of his mother's death was dispatched immediately to Mr. Mandel. A return message stated he would fly to Chicago, but up to last night he had not determined when he could arrive here.

Mrs. Mandel, who lived at 20 Cedar street, was stricken while attending a loop theater in company with another son, Frederick L. Mandel Jr. Her husband died three years ago.

Bury Theodore Ellis, News Official, Monday

The body of Theodore T. Ellis, vice president of the Chicago Daily News, arrived in New York yesterday aboard the steamer Bremen. Mr. Ellis, who was 66 years old, died of heart disease Jan. 6 in London. Private funeral services will be held Monday morning in his home in Worcester, Mass. Burial will be in the same city.

G. W. Monroe, Bloomington Masonic Leader, Dies

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—George W. Monroe, 33d degree Mason and past commander in chief of the Bloomington consistory, died suddenly here last night. He was 78 years old.

Mrs. Florence T. Moody, Ex-Teacher Here, Dies

Mrs. Florence Thompsan Moody, 78 years old, a teacher in the Chicago public schools for 25 years, died Thursday at her home in Elgin. Funeral services will be held in Elgin at two o'clock this afternoon.

Max Fisher, 62 years old, 1618 South Trumbull avenue. Died in St. Anthony's hospital from injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile in front of 3318 Ogden avenue.

SENTRY'S DIARY TELLS OF "HALT" TO GEN. GRANT

Pana, Ill., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—The civil war memoirs of Robert J. McAfee, Rosamond, west of Pana, who died Jan. 8, made public for the first time today, disclosed that McAfee on one occasion halted his commander in chief, Gen. Ulysses S. Grant.

"One night," Mr. McAfee wrote, "while I was on guard duty and my orders were very strict, three officers approached the lines on their mounts. I commanded each to approach singly and afoot and give the password. When they had obeyed my command. I was startled to learn one was Commander in Chief Gen. Ulysses S Grant. He later commended me for my observance to the letter of orders."

Alliance Tea to Be Farewell for President

Robert Hall McCormick to Enjoy Cruise.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE tea that the Alliance Francaise is giving for its president, Robert Hall McCormick, tomorrow afternoon in the Alliance library in the Fine Arts building will be almost a farewell party for Mr. McCormick. He has yielded to the travel bug which seems to have infested most of the other members of his family and is sailing the 31st for a month's cruise to such fascinating places as Windward island and Trinidad.

Mrs. Ballard Moore will give a monologue in French at the Alliance tea, and afterwards while tea is being served, every one will wish Mr. McCormick "bon voyage."

Three of his sisters and one niece are leaving shortly on varied and much longer trips than Mr. McCormick is undertaking. Miss Elsie McCormick, who has been staying quietly at the Pearson hotel for the last few weeks, will leave within ten days for New York, where she will visit her sister, Mrs. Nelson B. Williams, until she sails for Europe between Feb. 8 and Feb. 15. Miss McCormick plans to remain abroad until next October, and very likely she will collect some more lovely costumes, objets d'art and tapestries, for, as she says, the rare and beautiful things are picked up so quickly that it is just as well to watch for them and bring the articles back to this country so stay-at-home Americans can enjoy past European splendors.

Miss Mildred McCormick is arriving in Chicago Monday to make last minute preparations for the voyage she is taking with her sister, Mrs. Walter Ayer, and her niece, Miss Janet Ayer, who are sailing next Thursday from Vancouver for the orient.

Miss Mildred McCormick and the Ayers will return next June after exploring Bali, French Indo-China, the Dutch East Indies and India as well as China and Japan. Next summer, of course, they will join Mr. Ayer and the son of the family, Robert McCormick Ayer, in their Bar Harbor, Me., home.

John Alden Carpenters Are Going to Africa

Mr. and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter are busy saying au revoir to their friends and being wished bon voyage by those who are remaining at home, for the Carpenters are leaving next Wednesday for the east to sail on Saturday for Africa. They will visit Mrs. Carpenter's aunt, Mrs. Kingsley Porter, before they sail. An attractive villa just outside Algiers is the Carpenters' destination, and they do not plan to return home until early April.

Lutherans Ask Temperance for Era of Repeal

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Representatives of 1,500,000 Lutherans in the United States yesterday adopted a temperance declaration to meet the new liquor situation resulting from the repeal of the 18th amendment. The representatives form the National Lutheran council which closed a two day session at the Union League club last night.

The council declined to commit itself to any particular method of liquor control, but warned against the "shameful argument in favor of an increased liquor consumption" based upon the necessity for "additional tax revenue."

The pronouncement reasserts the ancient right of the church to educate for temperance and to lift a finger of warning against all forms of intemperance.

"With the repeal of federal prohibition the nation is confronted with new dangers," the declaration reads. "Moved by greed, dispensers of alcoholic liquors are putting forth every effort to increase the number of drinkers, especially among the young, and to make drinking attractive and popular. In this crucial situation it is the duty of the church to educate, warn, and admonish concerning the dangers involved in the use of alcoholic liquors."

The pronouncement condemns the attempt to obscure the moral evils of intemperance because of economic pressure. It also asks that all Lutherans support "any honest effort which will reduce the dangers inherent in the use of alcoholic liquors."

The declaration will be transmitted to the seven Lutheran groups represented on the council for action by their synods and conferences.

The council received a report of the committee on the church and social trends, but sent it back for further study. The report is understood to deal with the growth of state and national paternalism into social domain of the churches. Several Lutherans, among them Dr. C. E. Krumbholz of Pittsburgh and Dr. G. H. Bechtold of Philadelphia, spoke of "the coming conflict" between church and state as to priority of claim on instruments of influence over child life.

"The church has always maintained that the home is the foundation of society and that the child's first allegiance is to the home," said Dr. Bechtold. "Next is the church and the third is the state. The trend today is toward making the state first, and this must be resisted."

Museum to Give Lecture Tour on Mammal Collecting

The Field Museum of Natural History will present "Systematic Collection of Mammals" at 3 o'clock Monday as the first of next week's guide-lecture tours. At the same time on other days the tours will be: Tuesday, "Plants and Animals of Long Ago"; Wednesday, "Primitive Costumes"; Thursday, a general tour of anthropological, botanical, geological, and zoological exhibits; and Friday, "Looms and Textiles."

Wedding at Highland Park Today

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Thomas Galt and Miss Marjorie Sinclair, who are to be married in Highland Park today.

Bridal Dinner

Miss Marjorie Sinclair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Sinclair of Toronto, and Thomas Galt, son of the Hubert Galts of Arroyo ranch, Santa Fé, N. M., are to be married in Highland Park today. Ever since they arrived in town, Miss Sinclair with her mother and father, on Wednesday, they have been showered with telephone calls and invitations by the old Chicago friends and relatives of the Galt family.

The service is to be read by Dr. Christoph Keller at 2 o'clock this afternoon in Trinity church in Highland Park. Only the bride's family, the relatives of Mr. Galt living here, and a few intimate friends will be present. Mr. and Mrs. Galt were unable to come from Santa Fé for the wedding because of the serious illness of Mr. Galt. That illness is the reason Miss Sinclair and Mr. Galt are being married here instead of waiting to have a large spring wedding in Toronto.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. Ernest High Noyes, uncle and aunt of Mr. Galt, entertained the young couple at a bridal dinner at their home. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. John H. Noyes, Mr. and Mrs. George Senseney [Florence Noyes], and Mrs. Stanley Field, an old friend of Mrs. Galt. Before her marriage Mrs. Galt was Madeleine Noyes. She is a sister of Ernest Noyes.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. Galt and his bride will leave by motor [the car is a wedding present from the Sinclairs] for Santa Fé, where they are to make their home in a lovely Spanish house completely furnished that the Galts have given them.

PEOPLE hurrying up and down Michigan avenue yesterday at noon suddenly dropped their grim, businesslike expressions and turned to stare, delighted. What caused this rapid change in expression was the sight of a man followed by two Scotties. One of the Scotties was properly on a leash, but the other, a sturdy little fellow only about eight inches long, trotted after his mother much as a calf does. Probably everybody who saw them worried because the puppy was not on a leash, but he stayed close to his mother's heels, with never a look at the pedestrians or the tall buildings.

Long Sleeves Are Stylish in Night Gowns

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Sleeping beauties, no more, no less! And if you think long sleeved nightgowns are practically prehistoric, be sure and shop for the clever new affairs. Long sleeves are quite the most decorative things you could wear. It really isn't so sensational after all, for the most fascinating evening gowns this winter were and are the delightful long sleeved variety. Until you have seen what can be done with a long sleeve you will have missed a lot of education.

For instance, Aunt Sarah probably wore them because of some idea of modesty or propriety . . . but you, her most frivolous descendant, will wear these fresh new ideas because they are smart and different.

Flesh colored smooth crêpe models are made with the sleeves tied childishly at the wrist with powder blue shoestring ties . . . or you can cuddle up in a copy of Aunt Sarah's flannel atrocity copied in thin silk with the same discreetly decorative high neckline and round babyish collar and long rather full sleeves gathered most circumspectly into narrow cuffs . . . a row of tiny pearl buttons and sometimes a bit of fine embroidery are all you can discover in the way of trimmings. Some exciting models à la Garbo have wide folds of chiffon for cuffs and collar, as well as the long sleeves.

And like all smart high fashion evening gowns, the newest nightgowns have high necklines in front and next to nothing at the backline. They are fashioned, cut and sewed with all the intricate allure of the most fashionable evening gown.

Bongos, Rare Antelopes of Africa, Added to Field Museum Exhibit

Specimens of five bongos, said to be the only museum group of these animals in the world, will be placed on display tomorrow at the Field museum, it was announced yesterday by Stephen C. Simms, director.

The bongo is a large and rare antelope of Africa. Big game hunters rarely see the bongo as it lurks in the thick forests, and probably not more than half a dozen white men have ever obtained a specimen, according to Dr. Wilfred H. Osgood, curator of zoology at the museum.

The five bongos are the gift of Capt. Harold A. White of New York, and the late Maj. John Coats of Ayrshire, Scotland. The two men financed and led the expedition to Africa which collected them. In addition to shooting the animals, the two men obtained the first motion pictures ever taken of the living bongo.

The full-grown bongo ranges from 400 to 600 pounds in weight, Dr. Osgood said, and is the only large antelope which shuns the open plains and lives entirely in the deep forest.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"——and the villain still pursued her . . .!"

"Over hill, over dale, through bush, through brier; over park, over pale, through flood, through fire——" or, in plain prose—clear across the country from New York to Los Angeles on a transcontinental bus, "Legs," the notorious gangster, trails Letty, the pretty chorine, who will have none of him. ONLY to lose her at last to—well, Robert Montgomery's in the picture, isn't he?

Here's one film in which the bookoo Robert gets no chance either to crack wise or dress up pretty. As an escaped convict, he goes through the picture, unshaven for the most part, and in borrowed clothes. True, he proves himself a man for a' that—but it IS a "different" rôle for Robert.

"Fugitive Lovers" is high tempoed, modern melodrama that bases its big situation on a real life episode that occurred in the mountains of Colorado. Remember the bus load of school children who became stalled in a blizzard? In this number the "fugitive lovers" come to the aid of just such a terrified little assortment of youngsters.

Bright idea: If scenario departments employed astute newspaper readers to watch for, clip and paste up stories or items on odd and unusual incidents that actually happen, the screen would be richer in fresh material.

The story starts with the gangster's seizing of Letty while she's working in a show he's just bought. He's decided she shall go with him to Atlantic City. She's determined she won't.

The girl runs away and takes refuge on a transcontinental bus bound for Los Angeles. "Legs" boards it, too. Later on as the machine passes a penitentiary in pandemonium, so does the man the pandemonium's all about. And then the fun starts——

Madge Evans, Mr. Montgomery and Nat Pendleton are all in excellent form. Ted Healy and his stooges make you laugh. Minor rôles are capably handled and the suspense is splendidly maintained.

I think I shall take a bus ride some day. A LONG bus ride. Anything COULD happen—and who knows what might? [It's another B. I.]

See you tomorrow!

Eleanor Gould Bride of Ludlow W. Stevens in New York Ceremony

New York, Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Eleanor Gould was married today in the chantry of St. Thomas' church to Ludlow Whitaker Stevens. Dr. Roelif H. Brooks, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony and was assisted by Dr. Endicott Peabody of the Groton school.

Anne Douglas Gould, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, while the bridegroom's best man was his brother, A. Pelham Stevens.

Miss Gould is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Gould and a great granddaughter of the late Jay Gould, financier. Mr. Stevens is the son of Joseph Earle Stevens of this city and Tuxedo Park. The couple's engagement was announced last September.

Potter Palmer Again Heads Board of Art Institute

The reëlection of Potter Palmer as president of the Art Institute board of trustees was announced yesterday. All other officers were also reëlected for a one year term. Included among these are Robert B. Harshe, who is in New York arranging an exhibit for next year's World's Fair, as director and Robert Allerton, Percy B. Eckhart, Charles H. Worcester, and Chauncey McCormick as vice presidents. It was announced that admissions for the year at the Art institute were 2,600,104 of which 1,538,104 attended the World's Fair exhibition. A new museum record was established when 44,432 people attended the exhibition in one day.

Arts Club Tea Opens Exhibit of Two Painters

That delicious feeling of spring which was in the air outdoors yesterday penetrated to the Arts club, mainly because Mrs. James Ward Thorne was wearing a bunch of freesia, the fragrance of which was so entrancing that it made every other woman wish she, too, had such a lovely corsage pinned to her winter coat or frock.

About 325 people, mostly women, were at the tea that opened an exhibition of water colors and drawings by Maurice Boutet de Monvel and one of paintings by Georges Papazoff. They were there not only to see the exhibitions but to meet or to renew acquaintance with the attractive and handsome son of the older Boutet de Monvel, Bernard Boutet de Monvel, who also is a painter and who was here some years ago and painted some of Chicago's loveliest ladies, including Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed and Mrs. Howard Linn, both of whom were there yesterday.

A few of the others present were Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, Miss Eleanor Holden, Mrs. John H. Winterbotham, Mrs. Helen Walker Szukalska, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bischof, Mrs. Harold Pynchon, Mrs. Frederick T. Vaux, out for the first time in many months after her long illness; the Benjamin F. Affleckx, Miss Clara Lake, Mrs. William A. Nitze, Mrs. John Storrs, Russell Tyson, Miss Alice Roullier, Mrs. Gardiner Van Ness, Mrs. Louis Boysen, Miss Theodora Shaw, Mrs. George A. Poole, Mrs. Clair E. More, Mrs. Edward A. Leight, and Mrs. Jefferson Jackson.

Two costume parties will divert society from everyday life tonight, one a private affair at which Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed will be the host and hostess and the other a mysterious ball to which some 250 of those bidden to it have responded with checks for $10, thus indicating their desire to be present. Or rather 125 checks have been sent to the Bal Comique committee at the Racquet club, for the $10 admits a couple.

The Bal Comique is to be at the Saddle and Cycle club, which is gayly decorated with the same balloons and crêpe paper that were put up for the New Year's eve festivities. The identity of the individual or committee who planned the party still is a secret, although Lucian Williams is given credit for it by many of those who are going. The ball is scheduled to start at 10 o'clock, but since there are to be a number of dinner parties before, it probably will be much later than that before the party is well started.

The Charles Wimans of Moline, who keep an apartment at 900 North Michigan avenue so that they can visit Chicago often, are giving a large dinner at the Casino tonight, later taking their guests on to the Bal Comique.

The Goodspeeds' party, which is being given for M. Boutet de Monvel, is to be at the Arts club and it is a dinner dance. The guests were asked to wear rococo costumes, although the invitations stated that fancy dress was not obligatory, as it is for the Bal Comique. There will be between 75 and 100 at this party.

Monvel Charms; Papazoff Hard to Understand

Two Exhibitions on View at Arts Club.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Arts club yesterday opened two exhibitions of contrasting values. Drawings and a few water colors by Maurice Boutet de Monvel are in the smaller gallery and the larger room is hung with the abstract paintings of Papazoff. These last are hard nuts to crack, more particularly as Papazoff has forgotten to add anything in the way of a nut cracker. He delights in cones and cubes, tipped sideways or laid at careless angles in space. They are in dull, heavy colors chiefly, although now and again a brilliant red, a gleaming cerise, lightens his palette.

There is something of the mechanic about Papazoff. The one or two canvases in which figures may be disdently restored; joints and artificial mechanical men, the bronze age suddenly restored, joints and artificial limbs complete, stiff, uncompromising, impersonal. A chef might be one of these studies, but the other decidedly is the man of machinery.

Boutet de Monvel relaxes one pleasantly by means of his sensitive and charming drawings after a steady round of the Russian. One associates his name at once with that of his son, Bernard, who in the last few years has made many a delightful portrait of Chicago women. Maurice, of course, is the father. He is well known for his work in murals and in illustration. These drawings and water colors increase our knowledge of the flexibility of his line and the poetry of his imagination. They are delightful, intimate, and very French.

The week-end has several other new exhibits to offer. The Palette and Chisel club, 1012 North Dearborn street, opens today an exhibit of pen and pencil sketches of industrial scenes and city streets by Frank T. M. Beatty.

The Allerton gallery opens an exhibit of recent paintings in oil by James Eccles, a member of the Business Men's Art club and the Palette and Chisel club. They are spontaneous, vivid in spirit and brisk in color, a pleasant group. Paintings by Sam Ostrowsky are a point of interest in the Jewish People's institute, 3500 Douglas boulevard. These are clever interpretations of landscape and street scenes here and abroad. Able work.

Is This Too Good for Your Cough?

Creomulsion may be a better help than you need. It combines seven major helps in one—the best helps known to science. It is made for quick relief, for safety.

Mild coughs often yield to lesser helps. No one can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough. So careful people, more and more, are using Creomulsion for any cough that starts.

The cost is a little more than a single help. But your druggist guarantees it, so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are danger signals. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known.

THE WILD BIRD

By OWEN JOHNSON

SYNOPSIS.

Barbara Brawne, aged 22, is completely dominated by a jealous father, who is against every modern idea and improvement. Their home is in the prim and proper village of Oxbridge, a place of intellectual sanctity. Barbara seems predestined to join the ranks of the village spinsters. Leaving a meeting of the committee on the poorhouse, Barbara contemplates rebellion. While waiting for her father at the railroad station Barbara meets Gregory Rance, a noted novelist. He mistakes her for the sister of his host, Laurie Chiswick. There is a mutual attraction. Walking along the river path that night, Barbara, unseen, listens to Rance asking Laurie Chiswick about her. He says she is the sort of girl he'd want to marry.

INSTALLMENT VI.

AN EAVESDROPPER.

"You want to know about Barbara?" said Chiswick, surprised. "She's my cousin. We had a boy and girl affair before I went overseas that almost drove that old Turk, her father, out of his senses. Poor Barbara!"

"Why poor Barbara,"

"Because she is predestined to be just one more of what Ed Chippinway calls the Sad Virgins of Oxbridge. To understand Barbara, after you understand her mother and her grandmother, you've got to understand her father. And in the terms of the 20th century, he is incredible. Brawne stopped living in the 1890's."

"Well, we all do that some time or other!"

"But here is a magnificently functioning brain—he is one of the most brilliant corporation lawyers in the country—and outside of that brain, nothing. He's as dead as the Oxbridge Indians. He hasn't three friends in the world. He has set his face against everything modern—every idea, every improvement. He's the Spirit of Negation. He's as queer as Dick's hatband and as cheerful as a clam——"

"You must have had a run in with the old fellow," broke in Rance, laughing.

"Did I? Whew! I shudder at the memory. He ordered me off the premises! Because I dared to fall in love with his daughter, I was a profligate, a drunkard, a pickpocket. The situation is absolutely incredible," he resumed in a calmer tone. "Here, in America, in the year 1926, is a charming girl, damned attractive, twenty-two years of age, who might just as well be living in Turkey for all the liberty she possesses. His jealousy is an obsession. It's uncanny, abnormal. He's driven away every man——"

"But after all, come," said Rance, smiling at the rancour in his friend's tirade. "He doesn't forbid his daughter receiving her friends?"

"O, no! But try it as others have and see what you'll get."

"Well, that's just what I may do."

"You——" Chiswick broke off too astounded to complete his thought.

"Yes, certainly."

"You're joking."

"Not at all."

Chiswick was silent a long moment.

"Well, Gregory, old boy," he said at last, "if you've any serious idea in your head, give it up. Run for it. But it's the situation I suppose, excites your curiosity."

"Possibly. That's instinctive, I suppose. To be frank, there's more to it than that."

"Are you serious?"

"I think so."

"Well, I've seen you in some queer phases," said Laurie, shaking his head. "I thought nothing could astonish me But——"

"Why?"

"Love at first sight? You?"

"Nothing of the sort. Your cousin strikes me as the sort of person I'd marry, if I ever got to marrying."

"When you're through amusing yourself at my expense——"

"My dear Laurie, I haven't changed in the least. I have no intention of losing my head, if that's what's worrying you."

"Keep it up. The last time we talked, you demolished the whole sex."

"Sure. That's one of my pet mental exercises," said Rance, with one of his infectious roars. "Well, I stick to my guns. Up to thirty no creative artist ought to marry. Why? Because marriage means compromise, and giving up your freedom of action. After thirty he shouldn't marry except as a deliberate and reasoned choice."

"Why not for love?"

"Laurie! Laurie! You're passing over to the romantics!" Rance said reprovingly. "Love is self-immolation. An abnormal state. Reason has got nothing to do with it, whatsoever."

"There are examples."

"Certainly. I am talking of the women as you find them today. Mind you, I am speaking of the creative artist. For the rest—what they do I don't give a damn. Your young girl of today is a destructive force. When she marries she remains a destructive force, unless some primitive impulse of maternity transforms her into the slave of her children. Then watch out—she'll sacrifice you to them! It's our fault, the fault of a surrendered authority. Woman's rights, woman's day, single standard of judgment are in the air. She's been brought up to believe that she is a privileged character. That's why she's jealous of her independence and her rights. Love me as you used to love me! She's always on the defensive. Watching out to see if she's getting all she used to get. She is not a wife but a mistress. She feels this and the slightest infraction of what is due her, the slightest neglect in the sentimental service she exacts, sends her into a fury. The neglected mistress. These only are the important things in a first marriage to her. A man will say anything, do anything to win the woman who has blinded his reasoning powers. But when he gets her he wants to change the mistress into the wife. In one year he tries to remedy the defects of twenty years' false education and change a charming creature of pleasure and excitement into a serious comrade and a helpmate. Man's attitude has these two distinct phases, woman knows only one. The answer is in the divorce records."

"If I agreed with you I should have to break my engagement," said Laurie, with a laugh in which there was a certain impatience.

"O, but you're in love!"

"I admit it."

"Man overboard," exclaimed Rance with a laugh that showed he was amusing himself a little with his theory.

"But what has all this to do with Barbara?"

"The instant impression she made in me puzzled me. Your explanation has cleared away some of the mystery. She must be that rare thing nowadays, the one man woman. And being a confirmed egoist, that's the only kind for me! Choose rationally a woman who will adore you."

"Egoist—if you are serious."

"Egoist? Of course I am an egoist! When men of our type don't admit that, my dear Laurie, they are in danger. It's only the egoists who can survive in this crowded world; more than that—who have the right to survive."

"Will you say this as frankly——?"

"To the woman I intend to marry?" interrupted Rance. "Exactly as though she were standing here."

"Gregory, you distrust women too much to understand them."

"I always believe in the good intentions of women," replied Rance enigmatically.

"Well, each to his own needs," said Laurie, pulling out his watch. "Shall we move along? I ought to be looking after the others."

"I'm a night hawk," said Rance. "I'll smoke a few pipefulls and slip in later."

Chiswick turned on his heel and went off thinking. "Knocking around alone has turned Rance into a crank—if he really means what he says."

Rance emptied his pipe and filling it struck a match. The next moment it dropped sputtering into the dark water below, as Barbara, stepping out from her hiding place, said:

"It's only fair to let you know I overheard."

"But after all," said Rance, smiling, "he doesn't forbid his daughter her friends."

Good Health Requisite for Every Mother

Illness Makes for Chaos in the Home.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

You need good health to be a good mother.

Now at once my mind begins to do the exact thing that some of your minds are doing—that is, to think of the exceptions. And of course there are exceptions—exceptions to every general statement. There are women who have risen above their invalidism, their crippled condition, or their nervous disability and have been able to do fine jobs as mothers. But they are the exception.

You really do need good health to be a good mother.

In the first place, there's the actual hard physical work connected with the job—especially if you do all your own house work, but often even if you have help, too. With young children there are the early morning hours, the compelling routine, the eternal vigilance, the washing and mending and sewing, and the thousand steps a day. You've got to be well to do cheerfully the physical work connected with being a mother.

Then there are all the things that don't require physical strength and endurance but that require steady nerves, an even disposition, and limitless patience.

You'd be surprised to know how many letters I receive from women who are run down, extremely nervous, or in chronic ill health, who can find no joy in motherhood and whose children can surely be finding no joy in childhood, judging from the unruly and impossible behavior their mothers describe.

If you are not well, do everything you can to get well. If you are nervous to a degree where it affects your life and your children's, do something about it. Go to a good doctor. If you can't afford that go to a good clinic. If it's a fine hospital they will give you treatment for your physical condition and if you are really a nervous case, they will send you to their neurological department.

Take yourself in hand and do something to restore yourself to good health. So many women drift along, only getting half out of life that they should, when often merely simple health measures would be required to set them on their feet.

daughter, Miss Nancy Traylor, are leaving for Honolulu the first week in February to spend several weeks.

Other Chicagoans who are Honolulu bound are Miss Jane Boyce, daughter of Mrs. Livingston Fairbank, and her grandmother, Mrs. William D. Boyce of Ottawa, Ill., who are sailing on Friday.

Tell Engagement of Mary Jane Lake

Of interest this morning is the announcement of the engagement of Miss Mary June Lake to Charles F. Meyer II. Miss Lake's father was the late William H. Lake and her mother was the much beloved Mrs. William C. Cook. Mr. Meyer, who has made his home in Chicago since he was a small boy, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Meyer of Wichita, Kas.

Miss Lake has spent considerable time the last year in California with her brother, William Lake. She is an active member of the Junior league and a member of the board of St. Luke's hospital. Mr. Meyer was an aviator in the world war, serving two years with the American and French forces in France. After returning from war he attended Northwestern university. Now he is engaged in the banking business.

The wedding is to be an event of this month. Mr. Meyer and his bride will spend their honeymoon in Florida.

Annual "At Home" of Antiquarians

That distinguished group whose interests run to the fine arts, the Antiquarian society of the Art institute, has issued stiff white cards for its midwinter "at home" from 3 to 5 o'clock next Friday in McKinlock court of the institute.

On this occasion a memorial to the late Howard Van Doren Shaw, one of the greatest friends the Art institute ever has had, is to be opened with appropriate ceremony. The memorial consists of outstanding examples of English and American architecture. Together they form what is to be officially known as the Howard Van Doren Shaw Gallery of Achitecture.

Additional interest the afternoon of the reception will be found in the lovely and valuable gifts that have been made to the Antiquarians the last several months, also in the bead pictures Mrs. Frank Mulford has promised to bring for exhibit and the paper weights collected by Oakleigh Thorne, which will occupy a small table by themselves.

Junior League Gives "Peter Pan."

The gathering place for several hundred young Chicagoans this morning will be the Studebaker theater, where the Junior league is opening its downtown children's theater season with a performance of "Peter Pan," the play Maude Adams made famous.

With the curtain rising at 10:30 the members of the cast, headed by Mrs. John R. Winterbotham in the title rôle, will have to be up and at the theater almost before breakfast. Although they anticipated six weeks ago that there would be little or no work in reviving "Peter Pan" after so many performances last summer at the World's Fair, they have found themselves literally swamped with myriad details and rehearsals the last fortnight.

As the result, however, the youthful audience will see a more finished production of the play this morning.

Several Cocktail Parties Tomorrow.

There will be no excuse for society having a dry time late tomorrow afternoon, for there are several hospitable homes in the city where cocktail parties are to be given, including the Walter S. Brewsters of 2704 Lake View avenue, who are entertaining for no one in particular and for no particular reason except to see some of their friends; the Eames MacVeaghs, who are asking about 100 friends to drop in at their apartment at 900 North Michigan avenue to meet Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gade and Miss Alice Gade; the Harold Pynchons, whose party is at their apartment at 210 East Pearson street and is for Edna Kellogg, Ruth Page, and Gennaro Papi; and the Wilbur C. Smiths and the junior Eugene Carys, who are entertaining for Miss Coe Glade at 1400 State parkway.

Some of the same boys and girls who will be at the Studebaker this morning will have a second treat this afternoon at the Winnetka community house. The Barnum Junior Players are giving that delightful fantasy, "The Inn of the Golden Cheese," in another of the children's programs sponsored by the Junior auxiliary of the Winnetka Woman's club.

Lewis Green Craig of New York City announces the marriage of his sister, Amelia Craig Pasfield, to Leslie Condit Riker on Jan. 15 in Springfield, Ill. Mrs. Riker is a daughter of the late Dr. Willis G. Craig of the McCormick Theological seminary and an aunt of Mrs. Hasbrouck Haynes of Winnetka. She and Mr. Riker are in Chicago for a few days and will be at home in Harrodsburg, Ky., after March 1.

Tennis Fans Will See Matches Tonight.

Many tennis enthusiasts will be in the Broadway armory this evening to see William Tilden and Ellsworth Vines play a singles match and then a doubles game with Bruce Barnes and Vincent Richards.

Sisley Huddleston, an American by birth, although an Englishman by residence, is to deliver another of the popular Town Hall lectures at 11 o'clock this morning at the Drake hotel. Mr. Huddleston, who is a foreign correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor, will be introduced by Miss Lucy Martin. He will discuss "Can Europe Avoid War?"

Another foreign correspondent, Leland Stowe, who writes from Paris for the New York Herald Tribune, will be the speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Council on Foreign Relations at 12:30 today in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house. Mr. Stowe will talk on "France and Germany in 1934."

Mrs. Bruce W. Strong is entertaining the northern Illinois branch of the National League of American Penwomen at a musical tea in her apartment at 1540 Lake Shore drive this afternoon. Mrs. Ross Beatty, vice president of the branch, will preside.

To benefit the scholarship fund of Mount Holyoke college the Chicago Mount Holyoke club, under the co-chairmanship of Miss Dorothy Heinke and Mrs. Chester D. Masters, is holding its annual midwinter card party from 2 until 5 o'clock today at the Chicago College club.

Friends of the Chicago Junior school will have ringside seats this evening in the Coliseum when the Le Soleil Hockey club of Quebec meets the Baby Ruth sextet, champions of the Amateur Hockey association. The Tower Town group and several dozen benefactors of the school on the north shore, with Mrs. Harley L. Clarke as their chairman, are sponsoring the match for the benefit of the school, which is located near Elgin.

Paris Trots Out Giddy Beach Suits of Quilted Pique

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Dilkusha has introduced quilted piqué beach suits and shorts to Paris styles for wear on southern sands which burn in January and February. They're about the most attractive I've seen for long and weary years, and methinks that we'll see quilted piqué around the northern shoreline next summer.

In addition to the material, Dilkusha proposes a new kind of beach suit, which is composed of a skirt and flung-back cape worn over one-piece shorts. See illustration for particulars.

The four-gore skirt of this ensemble is made of cherry red quilted piqué, and the gores are not sewed below the knees, so they look like floating panels and leave the legs in partial view. The cape has a hood flung back along the shoulder blades, and further to emphasize the back flare, it is flared below the hood by two wide box plaits. This cape is of the red quilted piqué, and the one-piece shorts shown in the background are of white quilted piqué, stitched with red.

These shorts have a brassiere top that crosses in back and is twisted into a rope around the front of the waistline.

"The Culinary Dictionary," a booklet containing explanations of 140 not-so-common culinary terms, is on sale at the Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

I often wonder, columning along week by week, whether, after all, you find the things I write about useful and enjoyable. I'm not going to request a showing of hands, but one favor I would like to ask. Are there subjects, not necessarily questions, but dishes, foods or types of cookery, about which you have been wanting pointers, and haven't yet seen them in our daily get-together? And, if there are, you know that it would help me vastly to have those tips of yours, would you be so friendly as to jot them down some time this week-end and send them to me here at THE TRIBUNE? Then I thank you hugely and promise to do my level best about them when they come.

But, this morning, it's question marks again, and number one is about honey. Mrs. W. H. W. writes us: "I think the honey which comes in wax would be nice, but how do you get it out?"

And the best answer I can think of, to that one, is that you don't. When we wish to use thick or liquid honey, we buy it already strained or extracted. There are certain dealers who even sell sugared honey for spreads, cake fillings, use on waffles, hot cakes, etc. But honey bought in the comb is designed to be served in it. Usually we place it on a relish plate in the square or half square, supply a flat scoop and let the family do the rest. The wax, which separated the sections full of honey, is clean and edible, and most of us find that it chews up easily with the hot biscuit or whatever we're using as a background for the sweet.

Next is a question from Mrs. J. F. M. of Bronson, Mich. The M. family has the good fortune to be its own butchers, but Mrs. M. is puzzled about why the fine lamb they just butchered is a bit tough, no matter how she cooks it. The answer, I suspect, is that you folks out in Bronson got a little bit too anxious for lamb. Like beef, and often pork, lamb should be aged for at least six or seven days, often longer, before cooking for the table. The reason for that is interesting, I feel, no matter whether we expect ever to cut up our own steaks and chops or not. It happens that, when the majority of animals die, a certain acid called lactic accumulates quickly in their muscle tissues. This acid acts on the muscles and causes them to stiffen. If cuts are used during this rigor, the cook meat will, very likely, be tough and far from desirable. After a week or more, the stiffness gradually wears off and the muscles again become flexible, and cuts taken now and cooked turn out to be tender, delicate and well worth waiting for. Still longer ripening at cold temperature, up to a certain point, will add still more to the goodness of the meat.

O, and I nearly forgot. Mrs. M. also asked: "Are chops best fried or broiled?" First let's get our vocabularies together. "Broiling" is done directly under radiant heat, with the meat resting upon a grill over a dripping pan. "Frying" means cooking in a frying pan containing some fat. Occasionally we fry chops, but usually we leave that for the less tender cuts. Instead we may "pan broil" them. This is done in a hot oven, with the fat poured off as soon as it gathers. Either pan broiling, or broiling, will do the deed best.

Goya Presents Spanish Dances of Many Types

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Spanish dances of many types were on exhibition at the Union League club last night when Carola Goya gave what was announced as her only Chicago program of the season.

Lithe, straight backed, and with apparently the whole art of the Spanish dance at the ends of her snapping fingers, Miss Goya made a series of brilliant pictures. There was a traditional tango and a modern tango, neither of which bear any resemblance to the Argentine tango; popular dances, folk dances, gypsy dances. Some were serene; some were emphasized by facial expression, the roving and flirtatious eye, the simultaneous half-smile, half-frown.

Always there was a characteristic costume, which was frequently of the most brilliant order. Occasionally there was the magical rhythm of castanets or tiny bell finger cymbals, the patter of toe, the stamp of heel. She was at one time a Portuguese fisher girl, at another a Castilian, again an Aragonese, always graceful and always eye-filling.

Two assisting artists appeared with her. One was Beatrice Burford, who would seem to have solved practically all the problems of making the harp an effective solo instrument. The other was Celso de Soyos, a resourceful pianist, who played for the dances, maintained some amiable interludes in the time necessary for change of costumes between dances, and appeared in a piano and harp duet with Miss Burford.

Adrienne Ames Gives Consent for Cabot to Adopt Her Daughter

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Giving her consent for the adoption of her 11 year old daughter, Dorothy, by her new husband, Bruce Cabot, the film actress, Adrienne Ames, appeared in Juvenile court today.

She was interviewed by Pat Palace, Juvenile court investigator, concerning the adoption petition filed by Cabot, movie actor, on Jan. 9.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

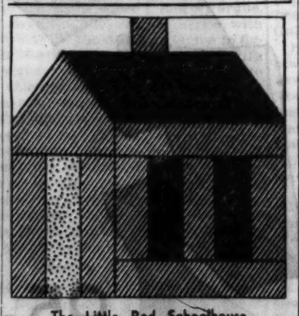
New York, Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Marshall M. MacLeod, who were married last June at a notable wedding at Oyster Bay, are passing the winter on the Frederick E. Guest estate, Roslyn, where they leased a house.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Drummond Wolff, left today for Newport to join Mrs. Wolff's mother, Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Roosevelt left last night after the congressional reception for Atlanta, Ga., accompanied by her close friend, Miss Lorena Hickok of New York. They motored this morning from Atlanta to Warm Springs, where they will spend the week-end in the "Little White House," the Roosevelt home in the health community.

Schoolhouse Block Makes Nice Quilt for the Children



The Little Red Schoolhouse.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Here's something a bit different in the quilt world. This unusual design outlines the Little Red Schoolhouse, and the completed coverlet makes an excellent spread for a child's bed. It is an easy quilt to piece, and is made in lively colors of blue, yellow, red and white.

For a pattern of this quilt design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service office, One South Dearborn street.

Beauty Winner and Husband to Try Separation

Nadine Dore Continues in Studio Work.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 19.—Nadine Dore, who won one beauty contest as "Miss Southern California" in 1927; another as "Miss California" in 1929, and a third as "Miss North America" here in 1931 has called off her divorce action against Chester G. Miller, director of Los Angeles Community Theater plays, and says "we shall live separately for six months to test our lonesomeness for each other. Then we shall have a trial reconciliation."

The actress, who was a beautiful, statuesque brunette when she won her beauty contest championships in the various Far West pulchritude pageants mentioned, is now a beautiful blonde in the Fox studio's "Follies." She spent yesterday afternoon with the comedian, Herbert Mundin, four other cuties in scanties and a stuffed 18 foot crocodile from Burma, all being photographed together for news reels. The crocodile was brought here by Clyde Elliott's movie troupe, which recently returned with the film footage of "Devil Tiger."

Warner Oland, who owns his own island in the Gulf of California, off Mazatlan, Mexico, and lives there like a lord, kept MGM waiting a week to find out if he would leave his semi-tropical and manorial existence long enough to come back to Hollywood and play Sam Kee, oriental menace, in "In Old Louisiana." Oland said he would. A messenger had to leave the Mexican mainland in a vessel to convey the studio's appeal to Oland.

Lionel Barrymore leaves Sunday for Baltimore and New York for his first stage work in many years. He will play in a compressed sketch of "The Copperhead," his old theater success. The sketch has been done by Edgar Allan Woolf.

Warner Brothers are to star Aline McMahon, who came here not long ago in the capacity of subordinate character actress, in "The Happy Family," a story of Bronx family life. It is described as something like "Three Cornered Moon," which was a story of Brooklyn family life made by Paramount. Miss McMahon plays a Jewish rôle.

Eighteen Is Best Controlled by the Respect of Adults

BY DORIS BLAKE.

An argument against which parents might advisedly be warned, with regard to an 18 year old, is that he or she is "too young" to know his or her mind.

It may be true, but you can't make 18 year olds believe it. They're convinced that they have arrived at the age of wisdom, so an appeal to their wisdom is infinitely better than a charge against their youth.

It's hard to convince an 18 year old who is out in the world earning that she is an infant in mind. She is no such thing and she knows it. Neither is she yet the seasoned woman of the world she may be inclined to believe. In reasoning with her, however, talking "up" to her age is likely to produce better results than talking "down" to it.

The 18 year old, whose problem fires the above advice, has been earning and contributing to the home for almost two years. Now, you can't tell a girl who has received three raises in salary in that time that she is an infant. Nor can you try to order her life by unsympathetic parental command. All the understanding and kindly direction possible between two adults is the need between mother and the breadwinning girl of 18. Mother, really possessing the adult experience, must try to realize that it is not a baby she has on her hands, but a combination in this self-supporting young person of inexperience and worldly wisdom. She can wisely direct and influence decisions, but she cannot oppose the girl's wishes just because mother doesn't want thus and so done.

STOP BAD BREATH

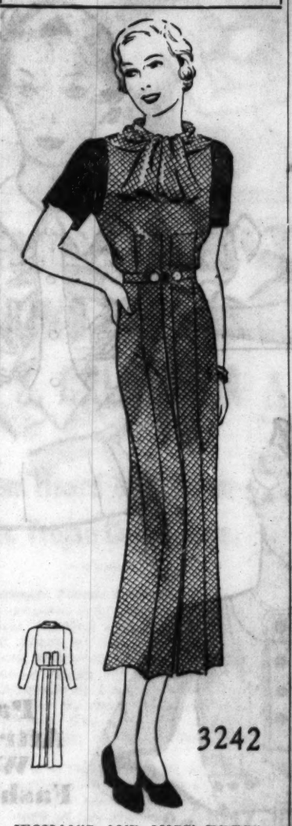
Thousands of people afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after-effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Ingenious Lines Create Slimness in French Model



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Today's design brings you a lovely French model, with a new, slimming, plaited arrangement. You may use long or short sleeves, and you'll find it easy to make and wear. Sins Against Tidiness Rob Self-Respect

It's the Little Things That Tell Tales.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Among the little things that give or rob us of the poise that comes with knowing all's well—

There's the puff that can be taken out any time and any place and applied without apology. Puffs so easily washable, the tiny compact pads so easily renewable—one should be ashamed for any but the cleanest.

There's an orderly pocket book, or purse, that may be opened for all to see how neat and orderly the woman.

There are gloves, too, by which the gloved hand movements are dictated for better or worse. The furtive movements of the soiled gloved hand are familiar. Gloves wash so easily today. The box of flakes invariably on the cabinet shelf.

And stockings! Clean ones daily within the means of every one, though she might own only two pairs. As a matter of fact, a business girl whose salary cuts reduced her stocking buying power to little, boasts of getting through six months with two pairs, and every day a clean pair. Stockings last a long time if they are rinsed out after each wearing. It takes but a minute—and the feel of a fresh pair with every daily foot dressing is another of those things that makes a woman right with herself.

Undies come under this self-respecting classification. Clean from the skin out gives a sense of personal power the careless sister never knows.

And deodorant applications where they are needed. Again, so simple of upkeep is this phase of personal security that it is difficult to understand any neglect whatever.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

CLASS DAY.

Carleton Hood, the renowned microscopist and photo-micrographer of the scientific crime detection laboratory and Prof. Fordney were bantering over their after luncheon coffee following class. After several ripposts on both sides during their repartee, Hood said, "I think that that last one was mine. However, dear old professor, I'll give you a chance to get even."

Fordney smiled, deliberately lit a cigar (Hood smoked nothing but Piedmonts) and said, "All right, son, shoot."

"This has nothing to do with crime," Carleton began, "but it will interest you and I hope it gets you."

Fordney again smiled.

"Sometime ago," continued the microscopist, "I bought a piece of farm land, the bottom part of which was absolutely level and was exactly one mile long. However, starting at the beginning of the property, a hill rose over the length of my farm, the apex of which, in the middle of my land, was 150 feet high. I gave instructions, for certain reasons, that posts be put into the ground horizontally equidistant, both over the hill and across the level, and that three strands of wire be stretched between each post. Now I want you to tell me, were there more posts on the hill or more on the level?"

"Ah, Carleton," the criminologist retorted, "you'd better stick to microscopy. You're much more clever at that than giving such easy problems. You've never owned a farm, that I know. Even so, the answer to your question is quite simple."

WHAT IS YOURS? WHY?

JACKSON LOSES FIGHT TO RE-ENTER BASEBALL

JIMMY CLABBY, FORMER RING CHAMPION, DIES

Earned Half Million; Pauper at Death.

James Clabby, who was recognized as the world's greatest welterweight fighter more than two decades ago and who was reputed to have earned more than half a million dollars with his fists, was found dead of alcoholism and exposure in a little hut at 272 Plummer street, Calumet City, yesterday.

JIMMY CLABBY.

Calumet City police took the body to Czechnarski's undertaking parlor at 248 155th street and notified Jimmy's brother, John, at Hammond.

John Clabby took possession of the body and had it removed to Burns' funeral home, 5840 Hohman avenue, Hammond. Funeral services probably will be held Monday. The former boxer is to be buried at Ridgelawn cemetery, on the outskirts of Hammond, beside his father, Edward, who died in 1931.

Clabby, who was 43 years old, is survived by his widow, his mother, three children, and three brothers, John, Edward and William.

Started Boxing in 1906.

Clabby was born at Norwich, Conn., July 14, 1890, of Irish antecedents.

Clabby, a combination fighter and boxer, started his career as a lightweight at Hammond in 1906. He quickly developed into a topnotcher and earned two matches with Jimmy Gardner at New Orleans in 1908. Gardner won the first, which went 15 rounds, but he was held to a 20 round draw in the second. In 1909 Clabby defeated Dave Barry of Chicago at New Orleans after a 20 round battle which was to be Barry's last appearance in the ring.

He reached his peak as a fighter in 1910 when he beat Dixie Kid in 10 rounds at New York. The Kid had claimed the welterweight crown when Mike [Twin] Sullivan relinquished it because of inability to make the weight. After Clabby's victory over Dixie Kid he was recognized as the title holder.

In 1911 he became a middleweight and vacated the welterweight title.

He Fought Them All.

Though he violated all training rules, Clabby's ability was such that he was able to win the majority of his battles without much difficulty. When he became a middleweight he fought all of the topnotchers in the class. Probably the most memorable of these engagements were against the late Eddie McGoorty and Mike Gibbons.

Billy Papke had outgrown the class and Jeff Smith, Frank Klaus, Gibbons, Cyclone Johnny Thompson, McGoorty, Jack Dillon, and the Hammond boxer all claimed the vacated throne.

Clabby made his final big bid for honors in 1921 and he was knocked out in the 15th round by Frank Burns.

Jimmy attempted a comeback in 1923 against Morrie Schlaifer at East Chicago, Ind., but the old stamina was gone and he fell a victim of Schlaifer's punches in the second round. After he had dissipated his ring fortune, Clabby returned to Hammond to live with his parents in 1930. When his father died the former champion became despondent and disappeared.

Jimmy Claims Title.

Until Clabby emerged as a potential champion he did most of his fighting in this vicinity. When he became a huge attraction he received numerous offers from promoters in Europe. He did his best work in Australia and in 1917 won the Australian middleweight crown by whipping Tommy Uren in a twenty round fight.

Clabby received a huge guarantee for a series of bouts in Australia, where there had been a lull in the sport. His fights instilled new life into boxing in that country, and after his contract expired it was renewed.

This caused him to reside in Australia for a number of years. He bought a stable of race horses. At this time he became acquainted with an Australian horse owner's daughter, whom he married later.

He had been separated from his wife for several years.

All Reserved Seats for Purdue-Iowa Game Feb. 13 Sold

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 19.—(AP)—A final sellout of reserved seats for the Purdue basketball game here on Feb. 17 was reported tonight by Charles S. Galiher, business manager of the University of Iowa athletics.

The last block of 1,500 seats placed on sale this morning has been sold, making a total of 5,100 seats reserved for the next home conference game.

Galiher said that no more seats would be reserved. There are now 5,800 general admission seats available for the contest in addition to standing room for about 2,000 persons.

GAMES TONIGHT.
Michigan at Chicago.
Northwestern at Illinois.
Ohio State at Minnesota.

OTHER GAMES.
Notre Dame at Pittsburgh.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Northwestern plays Illinois tonight at Champaign in the feature game of the Big Ten basketball schedule. If the Wildcats win their reward will be second place, a half a step ahead of Iowa's Hawkeyes, who are idle. If they lose, Northwestern and Illinois will tie for third place with the possibility that Ohio State may have the same rating, provided the in and out Buckeyes whip Minnesota at Minneapolis tonight.

Chicago entertains Michigan tonight at the Midway with hope of scoring its first victory of the campaign notwithstanding the fact that the Wolverines defeated the Maroons, 34 to 18, at Ann Arbor.

Examination Lull Nears.

Purdue, Iowa, Indiana, and Wisconsin do not play tonight. These teams will be joined for a vacation next week by Illinois and Chicago. Semester examinations will cause this lull in conference activities.

Northwestern's final position in the present race may hinge largely on the outcome of tonight's game at Champaign. After losing to Iowa, 41 to 28, in the opening game, the Wildcats defeated Minnesota, 33 to 26; Ohio State, 32 to 25; and Michigan, 44 to 28.

Quite logically Coach Dutch Lonborg expects his team to win the return games from the three teams which already have been whipped. The return game at Patten gymnasium with Iowa, so Purple rooters figure, may result in a Northwestern victory. Basis for this is the strong showing Northwestern made in the first half at Iowa City, when Co-Capt. Don Brewer, just returned to the lineup after a foot injury, was able to play the first twenty minutes.

They also reason that Chicago should be beaten twice, so if Illinois is trounced tonight Northwestern may be in the thick of the championship fight down to the conclusion of the race, which Purdue now leads with four victories and no defeats.

Northwestern doesn't meet Purdue, and thus the Boilermaker series with Iowa may be the deciding factor in figuring Northwestern's final status. With or without a Northwestern tinge to the championship picture Purdue and Iowa still can stage the title series.

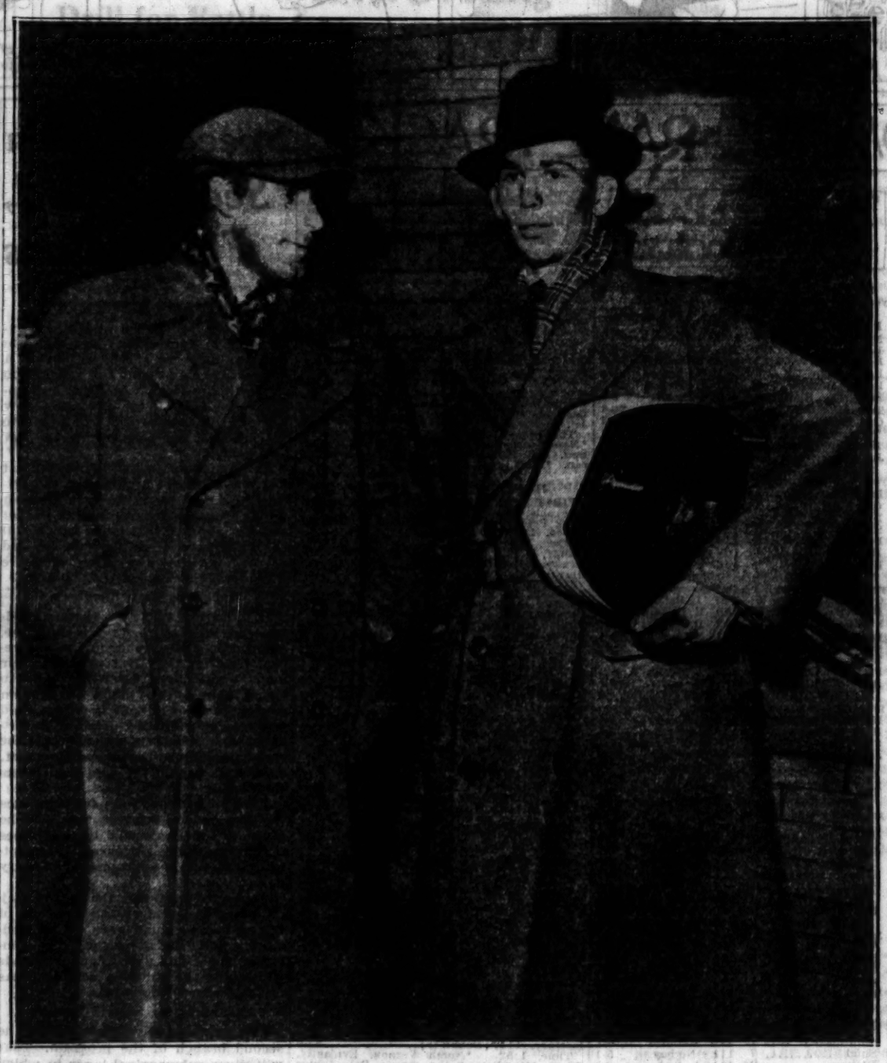
Eligibility may or may not be a specter at several of the conference universities. Certainly Northwestern's hopes rest on the eligibility of the five or six men who have carried the burden for the Wildcats thus far. Loss of one player might upset the table of predictions which Northwestern partisans have set up.

Edge in Home Floor.

The home floor still carries a threat and Northwestern should remember this tonight. Last year Illinois defeated the Wildcats, who later finished in a tie with Ohio State for the title, 27 to 25, at Champaign. Northwestern won at Patten gymnasium, 30 to 27.

Chicago, beaten in three games, gave its best performance in its last contest with Illinois. Coach Nels Norgren has emphasized defense in practice this week and at the same time he again has assigned Leo Oppenheim to a starting berth. Tommy Flinn, because of his aggressive floor play, will start at forward. Bob Pyle, one of the best scoring players on the squad, continues to sit on the sidelines because of defensive weaknesses. Stanley Kaplan may get an opportunity to demonstrate his ability.

TENNIS ENEMIES AND TRAVELING PALS



William T. Tilden and Ellsworth Vines as they arrived yesterday in Chicago for their tennis match tonight at the Broadway armory. Since Vines became a professional recently he has encountered Tilden six times, winning three matches and losing three. The 41 year old master will show how he can stand up against the blistering drives of the California youth before Chicago's tennis fans tonight.

In the Wake of the News

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Took a ride out to Whiting, Ind., last week and it carried me back to 1880, when I went duck hunting at old Wolf lake, a short distance from Whiting. We had a clubhouse on the shore. The house of Gallagher, near by, prepared our eats. Mr. Gallagher was as skinny as a broomstick. Mrs. G. was just about as broad as long. When it came to roasting the old duck she was there.

The duck shooting season found us there every Saturday evening. Sunday morning at 5 o'clock we took our guns and in our trusty old skiff pulled out for Redhead point, where we popped away at the bluebills and redheads till it was time for feed at the Gallagher place.

Here is a list of the chaps nearly always on deck: Ed Hunter and Seward Carr, from the Board of Trade; George Farmer, insurance adjuster; Paul Buckley, hardware salesman; Fred Billings and Bob Price, from South Water street, and the writer, from the grocery house of MacVeagh. Eff Bee.

In the period 1860-'65 the Raymond block, now part of the Boston Store site, was on the northwest corner of State and Madison. Next west was the Dearborn school, with a vacant lot on the corner which had been the site of Judge Manierre's residence. North on the east side of Dearborn was Stein's Dollar Store, in Speed's block. Upstairs was a hall where J. Edwin Martine opened his first dancing classes about 1858. Later the hall became Chadwick's Varieties. North on the corner of the alley was the tailor shop of John Jones, a Negro, who owned the property. 1853.

Home Floor Advantage.

Theoretical advantage of the home floor to basketball teams varies from 6 to 8 points in the estimates of those who go in for that form of figuring. Nineteen games have been played in the Big Ten conference to date. Fourteen of these contests have been taken by the home five. Until return games are played it's not possible to base figures on the current season. The two most surprising contests thus far were Minnesota's defeat of Iowa, 39 to 38, at Minneapolis, and Purdue's topheavy 47 to 13 count against Indiana at Bloomington.

It may be pertinent to add that "getting the jump" shows a higher percentage of victory than being on familiar home floors. Of 19 games played ultimate winners led at the half in 18 frays, the other being a tie at the rest period.

Tilden and Vines to Play Here Tonight

Bill Tilden, stormy petrel of tennis for 15 years, will go into action against Ellsworth Vines, 22 year old Californian, at the Broadway Armory tonight in the seventh match of their series. Each player has won three matches since the inauguration of their barnstorming tour ten days ago.

Big Bill's temperamental outbursts as well as his brilliant tennis ability have made him a popular figure with Chicago fans, and a capacity crowd of 4,500 is expected to see him meet his youthful rival. Additional seats have been erected for the match and will be placed on sale today.

Richards to Play Barnes.

The match between Tilden and Vines will be three out of five sets. A preliminary match between Vincent Richards and Bruce Barnes, the other two members of the troupe, will open the evening's program. A doubles match between Tilden and Barnes, Vines and Richards will wind up the exhibition.

Tilden, who won his first national title in 1920 when Vines was 8 years old, said upon his arrival yesterday that he never felt better in his life, that his game is just as strong as it ever was during his long reign as amateur champion.

Vines Improves Rapidly.

Tilden won the first match of the present series at Madison Square Garden in New York in straight sets. Vines, who was playing his first match as a professional, was obviously at a disadvantage due to unfamiliarity with indoor playing conditions. Bill won again at Philadelphia, but dropped one set in doing so.

Since then Vines came along fast to win three matches from his famous opponent, the last one being at Cleveland Thursday night in which he won two out of three sets.

TWOGOOD DENIES LURING IOWANS TO S. CALIFORNIA

Never Heard of 2 Freshmen, Trojan Coach Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 19.—Forrest Twogood, baseball and assistant basketball coach at the University of Southern California, today denied the charges of Coach Rollie Williams of the University of Iowa that they had induced two Hawkeye freshman athletes, Duane Swanson and Wayne [Bud] Froning, to enter Southern California.

Twogood, a former student at Iowa and a member of the Toledo club of the American association, said he never heard of the athletes. Froning is from Webster City, Ia., while Swanson's home is in Waterman, Ill. They are en route to the coast.

"I never heard of these boys until the ridiculous reports came up," Twogood said. "I positively did not talk with either of them. How Rollie Williams could be so misled as to associate me with this accusation I cannot understand."

Admits Visit to Iowa.

Twogood then revealed that he visited his home town, Sioux City, Ia., and later went to Iowa City, but said his visit there was to see Dr. Stiendler for arm treatments.

"As an Iowa alumnus I always have had the interest of that university at heart," Twogood continued. "On my last trip to the home town, Sioux City, I visited with friends and relatives, but did not talk with a prospective athlete. I did go to Iowa City to see Dr. Stiendler for arm treatments following my baseball season with the Toledo club.

"I visited my alma mater and was received cordially by the athletic staff. In view of this I feel quite surprised that an Iowa employé who is from Wisconsin is permitted to make such ridiculous accusations."

The charges also were denied by other members of the Trojan athletic department.

MAY FILE PROTEST.

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Rollie Williams, University of Iowa basketball coach, disclosed today that he may file a protest with William Butler, Pacific coast conference athletic commissioner, if Duane Swanson and Wayne Froning, Hawkeye freshmen, enroll at the University of Southern California.

Williams continued his investigation into the report that Forrest Twogood, Trojan assistant basketball coach, asked the athletes to go to Southern California. Swanson and Froning left here last Tuesday.

"When I learn definitely who persuaded the boys to leave the University of Iowa I will have more to say," Williams stated.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

A CERTAIN member of the Cubs has written the new Mrs. Riggs Stephenson to have the carpet taken up when she gets to Stevie's home in Akron, Ala. . . . The tipster predicts that she will find from $50,000 to $75,000 hidden thereunder. . . . Frank [Doc] Bagley, discoverer of Gene Tunney, is tending bar in New York. . . . The Chicago Bears may make a movie for M.-G.-M. before returning from the Pacific coast. . . . A boxer named Miles Standish has entered the Golden Gloves tournament. . . . Jack Riley, the tall, blond youngster who played hockey in Chicago with James Norris' Shamrocks and who now is with the Montreal Canadiens, is a real Irishman, having been born in Berc Kenla on the old sod. . . . He is the only Irish born player in the National Hockey league.

On two occasions after fouls were called in a recent Big Ten basketball game Umpire George Levis brought the ball to the wrong basket, only to be corrected. . . . It happened a third time, and while every one was observing silence to give the free thrower a chance, a noisy fan shouted to Referee Stanley Feezle: "Hey, Feezle, get hold of Levis. He's lost." . . . Johnny Fischer of Michigan will not defend his Western conference golf championship, because he soon will drop out of school to join the Walker cup team. . . . The wear and tear on Jimmy Crowley's tonsils has been terrific since he went to Fordham. . . . He is a banquet headliner nearly every night. . . . The San Francisco earthquake demolished the home of Mervyn Shea, White Sox catcher, when he was 4 years old. . . . The hockey game tomorrow night between the Blackhawks and Montreal Maroons will be a reminder of biblical days. . . . Cain and Abel will oppose each other. . . . Cain plays for Montreal and Abel for Chicago. . . .

Jake Ruppert once said he would let Babe Ruth go to another club, provided he was to become a manager. . . . Cincinnati offered him the job, but when Ruppert heard about it he stated: "I said in the American league. I wouldn't let him go to the National for a million dollars." . . . The athletic shakeup at Notre Dame even included the officials' offices. . . . Elmer Layden, the new sports chief, will not occupy Rockne's old headquarters. . . . He will have Art Haley's. . . . George Keogan will move into the office occupied by Rockne and later by Jess Harper and John Nicholson, track coach, will take over Hunk Anderson's room. . . . Haley has moved across the hall. . . . Don Peden, football coach at Ohio university, was elected captain of the Illinois eleven in his senior year, but never served. . . . The Big Ten ruled that one of the subjects he had taken as a prep at Lombard was a college course, so he was lost by ineligibility. . . .

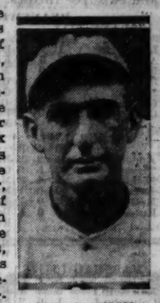
LANDIS REVIEWS 1919 SCANDAL IN DENYING PLEA

Action Blocks Minor League Job.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Commissioner K. M. Landis yesterday put a quietus on whatever plans Shoeless Joe Jackson and his neighbors of Greenville, S. C., may have had in the matter of letting bygones be bygones in so far as the Black Sox scandal of 1919 is concerned. The commissioner, after a review of Jackson's part in selling out the 1919 world series, denied Jackson's application for reinstatement in organized baseball.



JOE JACKSON.

Commissioner Landis concluded the review with the brief sentence, "This application must be denied," but indicated informally that there never can be any change in his attitude toward players who have been involved in scandal having to do with the integrity of baseball. He said others had applied for reinstatement with the same lack of success experienced by Jackson.

Risberg Also Turned Down?

The commissioner did not name any of the recent applicants, but it is said that Swede Risberg again has sought a whitewashing on the prospect of getting a coaching or scouting job in one of the AA leagues.

Several weeks ago Jackson, with the backing of several of his fellow townsmen at Greenville, asked for reinstatement, his plea including the following:

"The people of my town are trying to put professional baseball back and they want me to manage the club. At my age of 45 years I do not think I can play big league baseball, but I think I could do a lot for minor league ball."

The commissioner took occasion to pounce on the implication that Jackson looks upon eligibility as something a bit different in the minor leagues than in the majors. To this the judge said: "Of course there are not and cannot be two standards of eligibility—one for the major leagues and another (and lower) one for the minors. The game played in a small town in a class D league is no less important to the spectators and players than is the game played in the large city in the highest class league."

Landis Recalls Details.

Since Jackson filed his application sports writers, especially columnists, have been taking sides as to what action the commissioner should take. Those who held to the theory that Jackson, a rather lovable character before his disgrace and a pathetic figure since, had been punished enough, apparently had forgotten some of the details of Jackson's part in the sellout. Apparently to refresh the memories of the Jackson sympathizers, Commissioner Landis included the following paragraphs in his review:

"On Sept. 28, 1920, before the grand jury and chief justice of Cook county, Ill., Jackson testified under oath that he was offered $10,000 'to help throw' the 1919 world series, which offer he refused; that later he was offered $20,000, payable in installments after each game, and this offer he accepted; that, receiving no money after the first game was played, he asked 'What's the trouble?' and was told 'everything is all right,' 'and then we went ahead and threw the second game'; that, still receiving no money after the second game, he [Jackson] 'went after him [the promisor] again,' demanding 'What the hell's the matter?' and was reassured that 'everything is all right'; that, still receiving no money after the third game, Jackson charged double-crossing, to which charge the promisor assented, laying the double-crossing to the gamblers; that finally, after the fourth game, he [Jackson] 'was paid $5,000 [instead of $20,000]' and he asked 'What the hell's coming off here?' and was told 'we got double-crossed.'

"Two other players testified to the same effect before the grand jury and chief justice, naming themselves, Jackson, and five other players as participating in the conspiracy to throw the series.

Give Same Testimony.

"At his trial on this indictment, in July, 1921, Jackson heard the 'fixer' testify in detail about arranging with the indicted players, including Jackson, to throw the series for $100,000, to be paid them by gamblers. The grand jury testimony of Jackson and the two other players also was introduced in evidence. Jackson, like the six other players on trial, did not even take the witness stand to attempt to contradict, deny or explain this testimony or any part of it."

Fight Decisions

SUBURBAN LEAGUES

Proviso High school suffered its first defeat of the season in the heavyweight division of the Suburban league last night, losing to Evanston, 23 to 22, at Maywood. Griggs and Voigis led Evanston to victory.

In the other heavyweight contest Deerfield overwhelmed New Trier, 30 to 13, at Highland Park. Hopkins starred for the winners. He scored one basket and six free throws.

New Trier and Evanston were the victors in the lightweight games. New Trier won from Deerfield in the final minutes, 23 to 22, while Evanston defeated Proviso, 32 to 30.

Glenbard heavyweights gained undisputed possession of first place in the West Suburban conference by defeating Hinsdale, with which it was tied for the lead, at Glen Ellyn. The score was 30 to 24. It was Hinsdale's first setback of the league season. The lineups:

St. Philip's Quintets Win 2 More Games

St. Philip's lightweight and heavyweight basketball teams defeated Fenwick last night at St. Philip gymnasium to remain unbeaten in the west division of the Chicago Catholic High School league. The heavyweights, led by Phil Howlett, triumphed, 33 to 26, and the lightweights won, 26 to 16, for their fourth consecutive victories.

De La Salle and Mount Carmel divided east section games on the Mount Carmel court. With Karch and Post leading the attack, the Mount Carmel heavyweights defeated De La Salle, 36 to 25. The De La Salle lightweights won, 26 to 25.

Two other heavyweight winners in the west division were St. Mel and St. Michael. St. Mel eked out a 25 to 24 victory over St. Ignatius at the latter's gymnasium, while St. Michael routed Weber, 28 to 19.

Leo's quintets scored a double victory over St. Rita in the east section. The heavyweights, with McElligott and Mulcrone sharing the scoring honors, won, 29 to 28. The lightweights triumphed, 29 to 30. The lineups:

GOLDEN GLOVERS NEED NOT FEAR TITLE DEFENDERS

None Will Be Back This Year, It Seems.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There will be no bogey men in the shape of former champions confronting the boys who fight their way up through the ranks in the Golden Gloves tournament this year.

Most of the champions and the runners-up on last year's Chicago team, which handed New York an unmerciful beating, either could not resist the ambition to gain further fame in the prize ring or found themselves in such dire need of money that they could no longer fight just for the fun of it. So today eleven of them are professionals, one has voluntarily retired and another's whereabouts is unknown.

This leaves three boys from last year's intercity team still eligible. One of them is Max Marek, the light heavyweight champion. Max is now a student at Notre Dame and is in final physical trim, having been a star on the Irish freshmen football team. In former years Notre Dame students have not been permitted to compete for the Golden Gloves.

May Revise the Rule.

It is possible this ruling may be changed this year, however, inasmuch as Illinois, Northwestern, Purdue, Iowa, Indiana, Michigan and most of the schools in the Big Six and Little Nineteen conferences are granting permission to their star glove swingers to compete in the great tournament.

If Notre Dame permits it, Marek may endeavor to win his second championship.

The other two members of last year's team who still are eligible this year are Irving Goldstein of Chicago, a bantamweight, and Ario Soldati, light heavyweight from Rockford. Both were runners-up on last year's team. Neither ever has won a championship. Soldati probably will compete in the heavyweight ranks this year.

The members of last year's intercity team which have gone into the professional ranks are John Baltzer and Lenny Cohen, flyweights; Leo Rodak and George Van Der Heyden, featherweights; Edward Ward and Johnny Dobler, lightweights; Henry Rothier and Bill Celebron, welterweights; James Cummings, middleweight; John Pacek and Adolph Wiater, heavyweights.

Where Is Ginter?

John Ginter, the bantamweight champion, is the missing member of last year's team. He may not be missing at all, but a checkup of his former training haunts has failed to uncover him. He was a member of the C. Y. O. team last year and did not try for that team this year, so perhaps he has given up amateur boxing for one season at least.

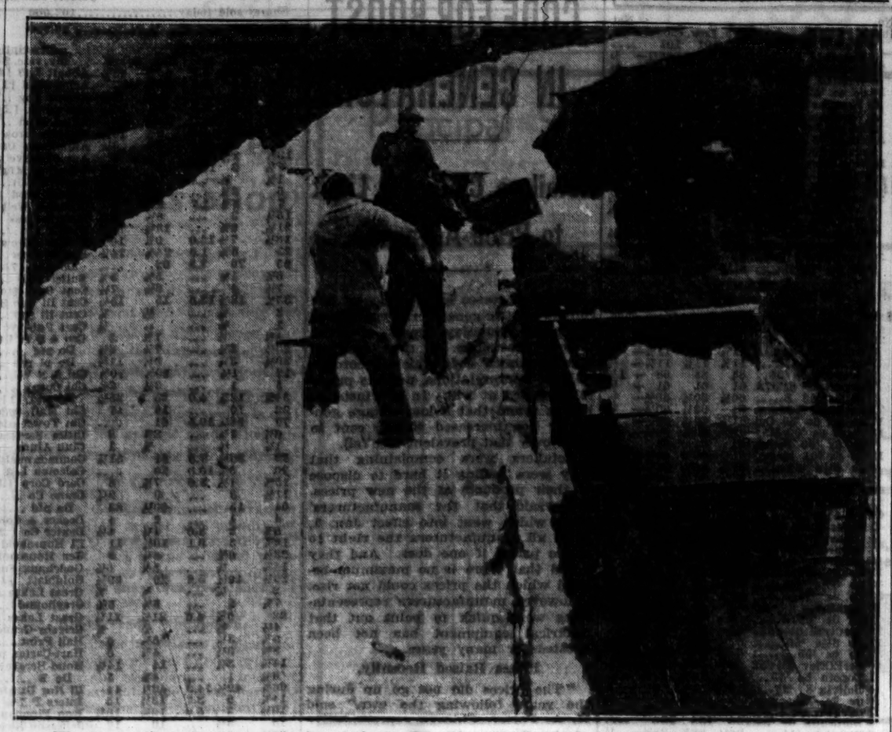
Fred Caserio, the middleweight champion, is the member of last year's team to go into retirement. He is the proprietor of a restaurant on the south side and finds that greeting the customers as they come and go keeps him busy so much of the time that he can't plan his day for the proper amount of training. Then, too, he joins the customers in a dish of spaghetti and raviola at times during the day and night and has found the task of making weight another bugaboo.

Leo Is Getting Along.

Among the lads who have turned professional Leo Rodak seems to be making the most progress. A victory this week over Jackie Sharkey placed him high up among the professional featherweights. Many of his admirers believe it will not be long until he joins Barney Ross as a world's champion, thus becoming the second Golden Gloves graduate to gain fistiana's highest award.

With all these champions gone Chicagoans may become alarmed at what may happen to the Chicago team when it faces New York this year. There is no cause for alarm. Youthful newcomers were becoming so troublesome last year that it was evident few of the champions could survive long enough in another tournament to retain their laurels. A checkup of the entry lists reveals that the absence of the veteran champions is an incentive which is increasing the field wherever Golden Gloves sectional tournaments are held.

PRECIOUS SNOW FOR SKI MEET



Workmen shovel snow, transported from Escanaba, Mich., from freight car into truck for delivery to the Fox River Grove slide, where the national ski tournament will be conducted tomorrow. The snow was being spread on the hill all last night as Norge Ski club officials set the stage for their big meet.

Garden Kills Fight Game, Says Dempsey

New York, Jan. 19. — (AP) — Jack Dempsey, from Oklahoma City, wired to the Associated Press here his reactions today to Madison Square Garden's breaking off of negotiations for a heavyweight championship match between Primo Carnera and Max Baer. "Everywhere I go," he telegraphed, "people ask 'what's the matter with the fight game?' I've given a thousand answers, but now I'll tell the real one.

"The trouble with the fight game is that Madison Square Garden is killing the goose that laid the golden egg. They're trying to tie up all the fighters. If a heavyweight refuses to agree to do all his future fighting for the Garden, he's shoved out in the cold. They then dig up some second rater and push him off on the public.

"Trying to Steal Baer."

"That's what they're doing in this instance. The Baer-Carnera bout is the only one that looks anything like a natural.

"But what does the Garden do? It tried to steal Baer's contract, but didn't get away with it. Then it got sore because Ancil Hoffman [Baer's manager] wouldn't sign with the Garden for future fights.

"So the Garden gives Baer the boot and picks up King Levinsky as a substitute. As long as the Garden gets away with that kind of a racket, the fight game never will come back."

Negotiations Broken Off.

Negotiations for a Carnera-Baer match here in June were broken off yesterday by Col. John R. Kilpatrick, Garden president, when Hoffman refused to agree to future fights for the Garden in the event that Baer won the title.

Dempsey came into the situation through his option on Baer's services. He promoted the match in which Baer gained outstanding recognition last June by a knockout of Max Schmeling. Carnera is bound to the Garden by contract until September, 1934.

DE ORO BEATEN; THREE NOW TIED IN CUE TOURNEY

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Charles McCourt of Cleveland, northern section winner, sent the national three cushion billiard champion tournament into a three way tie tonight by defeating the veteran Alfredo De Oro of New York, 50 to 45 in 70 innings. It was De Oro's first defeat. De Oro, Kinrey Matsuyama of New York and Len Kenney of Chicago are the three in joint possession of first place.

In the afternoon games Marcus Catton of Oakland, Cal., defeated Robert B. Harper of Denver, Colo., 50 to 36, in 70 innings and Kenney beat Arthur Woods of New York, 50 to 41, in the same number of innings.

William T. Tilden and Ellsworth Vines, professional tennis stars, will speak at the weekly sports huddle at the Marshall Field store for men this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Hawks to Battle for Lead Against Toronto Tonight

TORONTO, Jan. 19.—[Special.]—The Chicago Blackhawks arrived here at noon today from New York on the last leg of the most disastrous road trip the Chicago club has faced this year. In the two games already played at Montreal and New York they suffered staggering setbacks, and tomorrow night they will be pitted against the juggernauts of the National league, the Maple Leafs, who are sailing along seven and a half games ahead of their closest rivals for Canadian division honors.

Last night at New York the Rangers shut out the Hawks, 5 to 0, and as a result they dropped from a tie for first place to a tie for second place in the standings of the American division.

A defeat tomorrow night at the hands of Toronto may mean a further drop down the ladder, into third place.

A victory for the Detroit Red Wings over Ottawa and a defeat for the Chicago club would leave the Hawks in third place. However, both the Blackhawks and the Red Wings have a chance to go into first place. A defeat for the Rangers by the Canadiens, with victories for the Hawks and Red Wings, would send the three clubs into a tie for first place with 30 points each.

Immediately after the game here tomorrow night the Hawks will entrain for Chicago where they meet the Montreal Maroons at the Chicago Stadium on Sunday night.

Bears Taper Off Drill for Battle with All Stars

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Chicago's Bears, National professional champions, and the All-Star aggregation representing the Pacific coast, wound up practice today for the Knights of Columbus charity football game here Sunday.

The Bears worked out again in Civic Square park. The practice was open to the public, which attended to the extent of a couple of thousand fans.

Players who will represent the coast include a mixture of stars from the various colleges in the far west augmented by a few pro football luminaries from the middle west and east. They include Mike Mikulak, University of Oregon's full back mainstay of last season, and Aaron Rosenberg guard, who ended his collegiate career at Southern California in 1933.

Joseph O'Connor, director, announced a crowd of 20,000 fans was expected.

BABY RUTH AND SOLEIL SEXTETS TO PLAY TONIGHT

Le Soleil hockey team of Quebec and the Baby Ruths, Chicago amateur champions, will face each other tonight at the Coliseum. The Quebec team, Thursday night, defeated the Chicago All Stars, 5 to 1.

However, when they face the Baby Ruths, champions of the Chicago Amateur Hockey league in the split season the Frenchmen will not have things their own way. The Baby Ruths have not been defeated in their last half dozen games.

This game will bring down the curtain of the Chicago Amateur Hockey league until the first week in February, when play will be resumed against some of the outstanding teams in Canada and United States. Lineup:

I. A. C. Ring Meet Entries Close Tonight

Entries will close tonight for the second annual amateur boxing tournament at the Illinois Athletic club next Tuesday and Wednesday. Applications should be mailed to Johnny Behr, athletic director, at 112 South Michigan avenue.

Yesterday's entry list revealed the names of several who won high honors in major tourneys last year. Walter Matthys, St. Charles, will compete in the bantamweight class against such as Bob Wiley, C. Y. O., and Tony Settipane of Northwest gymnasium.

Claude Hinderlider and Barney Ryan of the C. Y. O. and Michael O'Doul, Opal A. A., and Harold Brown, J. P. I., are among the lightweight entrants. The largest number of contestants are in the welterweight class. Seventeen, headed by Bob Crowley and Ed Milesdi of the C. Y. O. and George Holden, Geneva, will vie for the title.

Bill Tercest, 1933 Golden Gloves middleweight alternate, sent in his entry. He will represent the Kane County Athletic club against Frank Knusak, Joe Pyzik and Otto Fischl of the C. Y. O. The light heavyweight and heavyweight classes also are well fortified.

Jack King, Hot Springs, Ark., middleweight, signed last night to meet Solly Dukelsky in an eight round contest next Wednesday at Arcadia Gardens. He replaces Karl Ogren, who asked to be excused because of a shoulder ailment. Ogren will meet the winner at the Arcadia on Jan. 30. Johnny Terky and Izzy Lubansky, welterweights, clash for six rounds Wednesday.

Tait Littman, Cudahy, Wis., light heavyweight, and Paul Pirrone of Cleveland will meet in the eight round semi-final to the Frank Battaglia-Sammy Slaughter bout at Milwaukee next Friday. . . . Prince Saunders and Sherald Kennard are matched at Sioux Falls, S. D., Tuesday. . . . Danny Neenan faces Iowa Joe Rivers at Eau Claire, Wis., Friday. . . . There will be an amateur boxing show Feb 3 at Wonderland arena.

Bob La Monte, C. Y. O. welterweight champion, will head an amateur card Feb. 2 at Our Lady of Pompeii hall, McAllister place and Lytle street. . . . Henry Firpo, Louisville, Ky., 160 pounder, is to face Le Roy Brown or Roy Wallace at West Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 30. . . . Davey Day, lightweight, goes to New York today, where he boxes on the Barney Ross-Billy Petrolle card Wednesday. . . . Sid Burman, former lightweight, and his bride of a week, the former Miss Ann Brodar, have arrived from Boston to make their home in Chicago.

Jackie Ausborn, junior welterweight, yesterday was removed from the Mickey Joy-Johnny Stroppa program at Marigold Gardens Monday because of a cut over his left eye. He received the injury in a match with Billy Hoon at Davenport, Ia., Thursday. Frankie Keevil will oppose Izzy Lubansky in a substitute match.

The semifinals in the midwest amateur boxing tournament will be held Monday at Arcadia Gardens. There will be 16 matches. All weights will be represented. Pep Kerwin has been appointed director of bouts. . . . Dick Sisk, Brighton Park welterweight, will do his first training Monday since he was injured in a bout against Rubin Edmonds at Muskegon, Mich., last Dec. 14.

Fred Fitzsimmons Signs His 1934 Giant Contract

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Freddy Fitzsimmons, the veteran right handed pitcher, today returned his signed contract to the New York Giants. Fitz sent the document from his home in Arcadia, Cal. He won 16 and lost 12 games in 1933.

Spread Snow on Slide for National Meet

The spreading of 30,000 cubic feet of snow, delayed in its arrival from Escanaba, Mich., was continued under flood lights all last night as officials of the Norge Ski club sought to get the slide at Fox River Grove, Ill., ready for the national ski tournament tomorrow. With the national championship at stake, the meet has drawn the largest field ever assembled for a ski tourney and includes all the sectional champions from coast to coast.

Exhibition performances by Johanna Kolstad, 20 years old and classed with the first three ranking woman skiers of the world, will vie with the men for the spectators' acclaim.

Every member of the American Olympic team will contest for the national title now held by one of their number, Roy Mickelsen of Auburn, Cal. Mickelsen also holds the American distance record for the Fox River Grove slide.

Oimen Fifth in Olympics.

Casper Oimen of Minot, N. D.; Lemoine Batson of the Norge club, and Loyd Ellingsen of Madison, Wis., are the other members of the Olympic team entered. Oimen gained the highest ranking ever won by an American representative in the Olympic games when he finished fifth at Lake Placid in 1932.

Harold Sorenson is being given most serious consideration of the seven eastern entrants. Sorenson, representing the Norfolk, Conn., club, came by plane after reconsidering his intention to pass up the competition. He finished second in the national tournament of 1931.

Ottar Satre of Salisbury, Conn., is another eastern threat. He was an alternate on the Norwegian team that won the 1932 Olympic skiing title and holds the eastern and metropolitan championships.

Batson at His Best.

A serious bid for Chicago's first national title is expected to be made by three of the six Norge representatives entered. Batson showed he is at his best when he won the Wausau, Wis., meet last Sunday and set a new distance record for that hill. Guttorm Paulsen also holds a tournament title won two weeks ago at Oconomowoc, Wis. Gunnar Oman, another Norge representative, is regarded as one of the most graceful skiers in the country and has been adding distance to his jumps in recent performances.

Sverre Fredheim, winner of the central championship meet last Sunday, in which he defeated Oimen, also will bid for the national title.

SCHROEDER PLANS FLIGHT

Oconomowoc, Wis., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Eddie Schroeder of Chicago will hurry to the site of the North American speed skating championship tournament by plane Monday after the national races at Minneapolis, Minn., which are scheduled for tomorrow and Sunday.

Schroeder expressed the desire to train on Lake Fowler at Oconomowoc for the entire week prior to the races. Hence the flight. Schroeder won two world's titles last year at Oslo, Norway, will have an opportunity to size up his opposition. Likewise will the boys from Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, New York, Missouri, and Illinois have a chance to get a line on Schroeder.

In the meanwhile, the first flight Canadian racers are rounding into condition for the major races of the year. Willie Logan of St. Johns, N. B., has been working out with the former Canadian ace, Charley Gorman. Gorman predicts a new mile record will be forthcoming from his protégé. Logan finished third in the 1,500 meter Olympic event, which is .93 of a mile. The mile championship will be settled here on Jan. 27.

Lou Brouillard Awarded Decision Over Bob Olin

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Lou Brouillard, Worcester southpaw who has held the welterweight and middleweight titles in his short career, earned a one sided ten round victory over Bob Olin, New York light heavyweight, in his Garden debut tonight.

OUTER BELT LINE SERVICES FAIR, CUSTOMERS SAY

Testify in Suit Over U. S. Steel Ownership.

Evidence designed to show that the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern railroad, a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, served its customers indiscriminately in a fair and satisfactory manner without interference from the parent organization was submitted yesterday at the federal court hearing on a petition seeking to force separation of the two concerns.

All was admitted by Judge Charles E. Woodward over objections of interstate commerce commission attorneys, subject to reconsideration as to relevancy.

Law Aimed at Favoritism.

The government charges violation of the law which prohibits a subsidiary from carrying the products, with certain exceptions, of the parent concern to prevent favoritism.

A dozen officials of industrial corporations and other railroads which do business with the E. J. & E., were called by defense attorney Kemper Knapp. Each denied that in his own case did the Steel corporation inject itself into the traffic business of the railroad.

They testified the road gave its customers satisfactory service and in many cases better service than other roads, because it is a belt line, circling Chicago. They agreed the carrier was fair in all its dealings.

List of Witnesses.

Witnesses included W. J. Hasmond, traffic manager of the Inland Steel company; Oscar Townsend, vice president of the Chicago Great Western; C. A. Leahy, vice president of the Quaker Oats company; F. H. Law, Illinois Central; Charles Ervin, Texas company; E. M. Erick, Jewel Tea company; Harry H. Bascom, assistant general manager of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, and J. W. Elliott, Morse & Co.

The defense consists mainly of the claim that, although U. S. Steel owns the E., J. & E., the latter is permitted to conduct its affairs with little supervision from the holding company. Judge Woodward adjourned the hearing until Monday morning.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE STOCKS

FIXTURE MAKER TAKES BIG LEASE AT 351 EAST OHIO

Leases were a feature of yesterday's real estate market. The largest of several reported was on the near north side. The entire first floor of the building at 351-63 East Ohio street, containing approximately 14,000 square feet, was leased for a term of years by the Bastian-Blessing company, one of the world's largest manufacturers of bar, soda fountain and restaurant equipment. Joseph F. Darlington of Winston & Co., agents for the building, was the only broker in the transaction.

A factor influencing the closing of the lease, it is stated, was the certainty that the outer drive bridge will be completed within eighteen months. The lessees will have a show room midway between two big motor boulevards—Michigan avenue and Lake Shore drive—connecting the south and north sides. They will occupy their new quarters about March 1. They are now at 240 East Ontario street.

MORTGAGE INTERESTS AND RFC STUDY LOW COST HOME PROGRAM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—The advisability of a movement for the large scale construction of new homes of moderate cost as a spur to the general recovery program was discussed today at a conference of officials of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the Home Owners' Loan corporation, insurance companies, savings banks, and other institutions in the mortgage field.

The meeting, Chairman Jones of the RFC said, was the result of a request by President Roosevelt that all information be secured "as to the possible need for and source of supply of mortgage money" for such a program, and for the modernization and rehabilitation of existing residences of this class.

Jones said it was mdae clear by every institution represented at the conference that all foreclosed residential property was for sale on easy terms at low rates of interest and with a small down payment, usually at the foreclosed price or less, and also that where the homes needed reconditioning or modernization funds would be advanced by the present owners for such purposes and included in the sale price.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 19.—The listed bond market gave a boisterous demonstration of buying enthusiasm today. Many issues of the Domestic corporation group, industrials, rails and utilities, were bid up 1 to more than 6 points, and a number of the foreign loans climbed one or more points on the day. Trading exceeded $20,000,000.

United States government bonds caught little of the buying enthusiasm, quotations on the long term government issues moving generally higher on a turnover of less than $1,000,000. There was some irregularity at the close.

Business News Favorable.

—It was believed that many of the more active issues responded to the favorable influences which caused a recovery in stocks and commodities. Some dealers attributed bond strength to business improvement.

In the utilities the communications issues were particularly strong. Postal Telegraph and Cable 5s due 1953 gained 2½ points, Western Union obligations were unchanged to 1¼ up, and International Telephone and Telegraph issues jumped 1½ to 2¾ points. American Telephone and Telegraph debentures closed unchanged to fractionally higher.

Carriers Make Good Gains.

Some of the carrier issues made big strides. Those rising 1 to 4 points or more, included Atlantic Coast Line, Canadian Pacific, Chicago Great Western, Chicago and North Western, St. Paul, Rock Island, Cuba railway, Illinois Central, Louisville and Nashville, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, New Haven, Pere Marquette, Frisco, Southern Pacific, Southern and Wabash.

German loans were among the strongest of the foreign loans, many rallying a point or more. Dutch East Indies bonds were mostly higher on the news of an official offer to convert these issues by Feb. 15 into new 40 year 4 per cent guilder bonds.

Par Value.

Investors' Guide: Within the last year Butler Brothers has requested stockholders to return stock certificates and have the par value reduced from $20 to $10, thus reducing the par value of the stock one-half the value shown at the time of purchase. Would the writer be privileged to make deduction of amount of $250 as a loss in filing income return, due to the fact that purchase price paid on 25 shares was $500 and is now represented as only $250? Of course the present day market is very much below the reduced $10 per share par value.—Miss B. C. A.

Answer: The answer is no. Income tax deductions are permissible only for losses actually sustained. You would sustain no actual loss until you sell the stock you hold at a price less than that you paid.

The market price of the stock you own is unaffected by changes in par value. Par value and market value have no relation, changes in par value being merely bookkeeping transactions. Regardless of what the par value of a common stock might be, or even if it has no stated par value, it is merely a representation of part ownership of a corporation. As long as such bookkeeping transactions as reducing par value, stock split-ups, reverse split-ups, etc., do not change the proportion of stock held by each stockholder to the total number of shares outstanding, the stockholder is for all practical purposes unaffected by such adjustments.

The market value of a stock depends upon the earnings and assets of a company, not upon its par value. A report on "par value" is being sent to you.

Registering Bonds.

Investors' Guide: I have about $2,000 worth of government bonds which I wish to have registered. We have no bank in this locality. Would appreciate knowing the best way to have this done.—G. C. C.

Answer: About the quickest way would be to send them by registered mail, with full instructions, to the United States treasury at Washington, D. C. You can, if you wish, send the bonds to the nearest federal reserve district bank and they will forward the bonds to Washington for you without expense.

National Debt.

Investors' Guide: Will you be kind enough to tell me how much the national debt increased from March 4 to the end of 1933?—D. C. R.

Answer: The national debt figures as of March 4, 1933, are not available. On Feb. 28, 1933, however, the gross national debt stood at 20,934 million 728 thousand dollars. By Dec. 31, 1933, it had increased to 23,813 million 791 thousand dollars.

RAW SILK.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Raw silk futures closed firm 2¼ to 3 higher: sales, 490 bales. January, $1.37 bid; March, $1.41 bid; May, $1.42. Open market quotations (60 day basis). Shanghai steam filature, 78 per cent seriplane 20-22s, $1.45. Canton double extra "A" 14-16s, $1.17½. Japanese special crack double extra, 81 per cent seriplane 13-15s, $1.52½.

PROXY BATTLE DEVELOPS OVER ARMOUR BOARD

St. Louis Capitalist Opposes F. H. Prince

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Prospects for a harmonious meeting when the shareholders of Armour & Co. gather next Friday to elect a new board of directors were dimmed yesterday.

A. WATSON ARMOUR.

Spurning a place proffered him on the new board, Chase Ulman, St. Louis capitalist, has formed his own proxy committee and is seeking the support of stockholders to elect his own directors' slate. This was disclosed when Armour shareholders received a lengthy communication from Ulman criticizing the proposed election of Frederick H. Prince, Boston capitalist, as finance committee chairman and director of the company.

The Prince committee immediately issued a counter blow describing Mr. Ulman as a "self-styled expert" and referring to his comments on the proposed reorganization of Armour as "one of the many scatter brained ideas that have been received."

Fought Original Plan.

Acting independently, Prince and Ulman fought the proposed reorganization put forward by the management last autumn. Since that time, however, Prince has made peace with the management and the truce gave him several places on the board to be elected next week and the finance committee chairmanship for himself.

Ulman's attack on Prince's eligibility as a director was made on the basis of Prince's position as principal owner of the Chicago stockyards with which Armour has business relations.

"The courts are unanimous in the view that you cannot serve two masters," the Ulman letter said. It went on at length to review the fight between Prince and the management last year, repeating the charges and countercharges which were hurled during the battle. The issue in that fight was the "banker dictation" of the company and the salaries received by the banker members of the finance committee.

Bankers Not to Be Directors.

Answering the Ulman comments on that issue the Prince committee replied in a letter sent to all Armour stockholders: "This committee can definitely assure that Messrs. Reynolds, McRoberts, and Wiggin, whose salaries have been criticized, will not be reelected directors of Armour & Co. Messrs. Reynolds and Wiggin have resigned and Mr. McRoberts will not be a candidate for reelection."

The men referred to are Arthur Reynolds, former Chicago banker and former member of the finance committee; Albert H. Wiggin, former chairman of the Chase National bank, also a member of the committee, and Samuel H. McRoberts. The trio once drew total salaries of $140,000 annually for serving on the finance committee.

Reorganization Plan in Air.

Ulman's letter also complained that the stockholders have not been informed concerning the new capital reorganization program. In reply, T. G. Lee, president of Armour, said yesterday that no plan has been formulated and none will be until after the annual meeting is out of the way.

"Ulman is the only shareholder with whom we have communicated who is opposed to the proxy committee," Mr. Lee said. He urged stockholders to support the present proxy committee which consists of himself, A. Watson Armour and Mr. Prince. He stressed the need for a harmonious and representative board of directors which will act in the best interest of the shareholders.

Ulman is understood to own around 25,000 shares of the company's junior shares. He was offered a post on the new board but turned it down. It takes about 130,000 shares to elect a director and around 2,300,000 shares to elect a majority of the directors. The present proxy committee is understood to have commitments nearly sufficient to elect a majority of the new slate.

Trade Holds Strong Pace, Reports Show

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 19.—The unseasonal level at which retail trade is being maintained and the broadening of wholesale buying to about twice that of a year ago, as well as the rapid rate at which industrial operations are being resumed, are some of the more reassuring factors which indicate improvement in general trade through the first quarter of this year, according to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. The review says in part:

"While the year has not advanced sufficiently to reveal the breadth of the recovery now under way, the first quarter at least seems destined to be characterized by fewer interruptions than marked the checkered course of that period in 1933.

Finds Trade Stimulation.

"The greater buoyance of financial and commodity markets gives promise of a constant stimulation of internal and international trade, particularly in view of the program of monetary rehabilitation.

"What transcends in importance the few seasonal declines in several directions and decreases in isolated instances is the continued uptrend and the spread of confidence in the future which is gaining from week to week, in contrast to the almost complete lack of reassurance in potential constructive occurrences last January.

"With few exceptions, the gains over the positions of a week earlier were less conspicuous in the leading indices, although most of those were higher than a year ago.

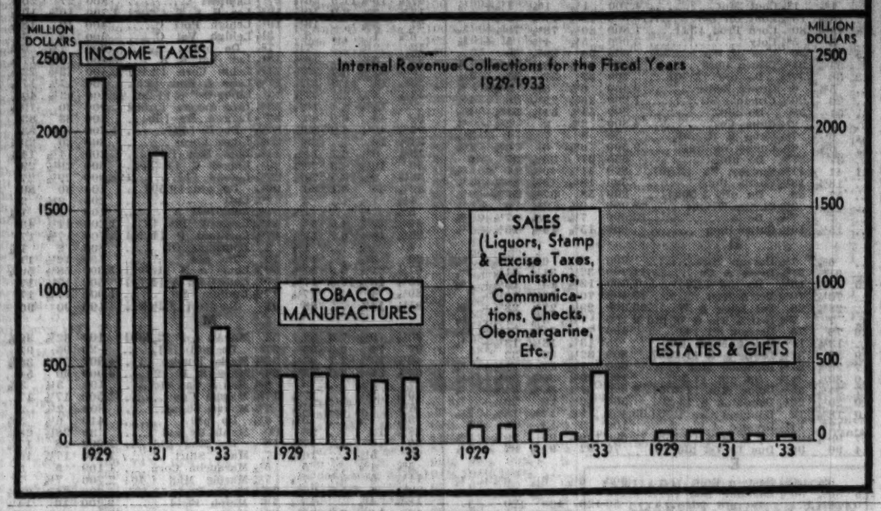
Wholesale Orders Increase.

"While the number of orders placed with wholesalers has gained by a wider percentage with each succeeding week this year, current operations are being marked by greater attention to the price factor than was the case when the month opened.

"This is attributed to the uneven trend of retail demand during the week and may be only a temporary phase of the opening of the spring buying season. In addition to the greater number of buyers visiting the leading markets, orders sent in by road salesmen are nearly double those of last year in some divisions.

"Even though considerable unevenness appeared in the trend of retail demand in many sections of the country, volume was maintained practically at the level established thus far in January, which ranges from 10 to 20 per cent above a year ago."

Principal Sources of Internal Revenue for Five Years Compared



Detroit Bank Quiz a Lesson to One Banker

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—A Detroit banker told senate investigators today that the revelations of the inquiry into the Michigan financial collapse have taught him "to go right down the middle of the road."

He was James L. Walsh, executive vice president of the Guardian Detroit Union Group, Inc., and now vice president of the National bank of Detroit. He said what he meant was that he had learned "to avoid the twilight zone and anything that savors of unethical practices."

The banker had just testified to the custom of the Guardian Group in avoiding a showing of bills payable in any of the unit institutions by a temporary shifting of funds from banks having an excess to the weaker ones in order that the statement would show the entire group clear.

Public Reaction Teaches Lesson.

Walsh maintained he did not consider this an unethical practice at the time, that he did not realize until the disclosures of the present hearing that the public reaction was unfavorable to the practice, known to the committees as "window dressing."

Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, questioned Walsh about some of the specific transactions and turned to that in which $600,000 was advanced by the Guardian National Bank of Commerce at Detroit to the Union Industrial Savings bank at Flint. Walsh confirmed the shift of funds, but Pecora summoned Herbert Wilkin, former vice president of the group, for more detailed examination about it.

Testimony that group statements giving a complete showing of earnings and conditions were not issued until late in 1931 or early in 1932 was given by Henry E. Bodman, who was a director of the group and chairman of the board of the Union Guardian Trust company.

Questioned on Stock Deals.

Referring to the "travels" back and forth of 30,000 shares of Union Commerce corporation stock sold to Goldman, Sachs & Co., which was sold for $120 when the shares were quoted at about $140 on the market and 25,000 of the shares delivered back to the group at $184 when the price was $125, Mr. Bodman said he knew nothing about the agreement until he heard the testimony yesterday of Carlton P. Higbie, who made the original delivery to Goldman, Sachs & Co.

The committee recessed until next Tuesday when questioning of witnesses in the Guardian inquiry will be resumed. Pecora said he had practically completed it. The next phase of the inquiry will involve the First National bank of Detroit, which, in many respects, was a more important institution than the group organization.

BANKRUPTCY RECEIVER NAMED FOR TRUSTEES SYSTEM SERVICE CORP.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday adjudicated the Trustees System Service corporation bankrupt following a recommendation of Referee Garfield Charles, whose report was submitted Dec. 9 last. Clyde L. Day, equity receiver, was named receiver in bankruptcy and his bond set at $25,000.

Referee Charles' report, based on hearings held over several months, declared the firm to be insolvent. Assets were said to be $2,563,906 short of liabilities. William White and William H. Wolff, receivers for five subsidiaries in the east, asked Judge Wilkerson for certain books and records to aid in the collection of accounts receivable, which was granted.

Nearly $19,000,000 in notes and stock was sold by the company to investors scattered throughout a score of states in which the company operated through subsidiaries or affiliates. Cost of distribution amounted to nearly $12,000,000, or about 65 per cent.

The company had investments in several concerns controlled by its officers and also loans to such concerns secured by practically worthless stock. Principal officers were Frank J. Gibbons, president; D. J. Corcoran, vice president; and Jacob G. Born, secretary-treasurer.

Dollar Sags as Sterling Turns Higher

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 19.—The American dollar was buffeted around in a stormy foreign exchange trading session today which was featured by a sharp rebound in the British pound sterling. Following its decided break Thursday below $5 the pound came back to sell at a high quotation of $5.05¼. Later it settled back to close at $5.02¾, an advance of 6 cents for the day.

The dollar received better treatment at the hands of the principal gold currencies, but it was also weak against them. The French franc, leading gold currency, was strong throughout the trading in the foreign markets and later in the trading here. It closed at 6.27½ cents as compared with last night's final price of 6.24½ cents. The final price indicated a gold worth for the dollar of 62.43 cents, against 62.73 yesterday, a decline of a little more than a quarter of a cent.

Sterling Strength Surprises.

The sudden about face in the sterling exchange caught traders somewhat by surprise. With the administration rushing its monetary legislation through congress in order to get its stabilization fund in operation, it was not believed possible to hold down the dollar until this was accomplished.

The gold purchase activities of the New York Reserve bank were the subject of a great deal of speculation among traders, but no official information concerning the bank's operations was available. The weekly reserve report issued Wednesday night showed that in the two days this week in which the reserve bank had operated as the treasury's agent it had bought $4,319,000 of gold in the foreign markets in an attempt to hold down the value of the dollar. The London gold price was $33.47 an ounce.

The Canadian dollar was also higher in the trading here today. It closed at 99.37½ cents, as compared with 98.75 cents yesterday.

See Money War Fading.

The reversal of trend in the pound, the Canadian dollar, and other non-gold monies served to quiet reports that a titanic currency war is impending. If the British stabilization fund is operating to prevent a decline in the dollar the rise in sterling today would be hard to explain.

Traders were inclined to the view that the British are marking time and giving the Roosevelt administraton time to put its exchange fund in use. It is believed that some sort of an agreement has been entered into between this country and Britain for de facto stabilization pending the clearing up of the legislation situation here.

FREIGHT GAINS HINT INCREASED PUBLIC BUYING

Total for Week Rises 11 Per Cent.

New York, Jan. 19.—Freight loadings in the week ended Jan. 13 were 555,627 cars, an increase of 11 per cent compared with the preceding week and a rise of 8.8 per cent compared with the corresponding week in 1933, according to the American Railway association. The same week in 1933 showed a rise of 16.3 per cent over the preceding week.

The increase in loadings was 55,688 cars over the preceding week and 45,734 over the same week in 1933.

Carloadings for the first two weeks of the new year were 1,055,566, as compared with 949,362 a year ago and 1,144,327 in 1932.

Reflects Public Buying.

The increased movement has entirely erased holiday recessions suffered near the start of the year, and volume is now back to the high levels attained late in November. Particular significance in yesterday's report was seen in the fact that 65 per cent of the improvement was in merchandise and miscellaneous freight, usually considered barometers of public buying.

Miscellaneous freight loadings totaled 184,256 cars, an increase of 13,455 over the preceding week and 23,003 over 1933; less than carlot merchandise, 158,330, an increase of 23,963 over last week and 675 below 1933; grain and grain products, 29,559, an increase of 6,170 over the previous week, but 999 below 1933; forest products, 18,146, increase 3,268 and 4,052; ore, 3,218, increase 6,663 and 18,227; coke, 7,205, a decrease of 332 below the preceding week, but 1,706 over last year, and live stock, 17,787, an increase of 2,159 over the preceding week and 374 below 1933.

Grains Higher in Wake of Money Shift

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Gyrations in the foreign exchange markets in the last two days called the grain trade's attention forcibly to the fact that monetary conditions are still the dominating influence as a price making factor. A sharp early rally in sterling yesterday and strength in stocks and cotton started a general buying movement in wheat which swept prices up around 2 cents from Thursday's finish and to 91⅝ cents for the May option, or within ⅝ cent of the best figure established on Monday's bulge.

The close was at about the best level of the day, with net gains of 1½ to 2 cents, May wheat closing at 91 to 91¼ cents and July at 89¼ to 89⅝ cents. Corn gained ½ to ⅝ cent; oats, ¼ to ⅜ cent; rye ⅝ to ¾ cent, and barley, ½ to 1 cent. May corn closed at 52¾ to 52⅞ cents; oats, 38⅞ to 39 cents; rye, 63⅞ cents, and barley, 52¾ cents. Cotton gained around $1 per bale for the day.

Other Grains Follow Wheat.

What outside speculation there was in the market was largely confined to wheat and its action had considerable influence on other grains.

Wheat showed a strong undertone from the start, and many regarded the pit situation as reflecting the persistent buying of May wheat to remove hedges against recent sales of cash grain. Owing to the light movement of grain from farmers there are few hedges going into the pit at the present time.

Houses with eastern connections were fair buyers of wheat yesterday and foreigners were credited with having taken some July, the latter leading the advance. Dry weather in the southwest is increasing apprehension as to the outcome of the new crop.

British Buy in Argentina.

English mills were good buyers of wheat in Argentina yesterday as the result of the government of the latter country announcing that effective at once the paper peso would be pegged to the pound sterling instead of the French franc. The purchases of cash grain were said to have been hedging by sales of futures in Liverpool, and the latter closed equal to ⅞ to 1⅛ cents per bushel lower. Winnipeg experienced a fair export demand, but gained only ⅜ cent in Canadian funds.

Country offerings of corn to arrive yesterday were limited. A good part of the local receipts of 144 cars went direct on industries and came from other points of accumulation.

While the distilling demand for cash rye was less active yesterday a little business was put through in the leading markets. The trade also had reports that foreign rye was offered from Europe at eastern ports, which had some effect on the market and induced local selling.

STOCKS SOAR ON WAVE OF BUYING; RAILS TAKE LEAD

Trade News Is Good, Dollar Relapses.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 19.—An accumulation of favorable trade news, plus a reversal in the trend of foreign exchange rates carrying the dollar lower, plus growing expectations of further credit expansion operations by the government, provided impetus for another impressive bullish demonstration in the late stock market trading today.

Prices were propelled forward 1 to 4 points and buying assumed the widest proportions since the rally staged last Monday in response to President Roosevelt's new monetary moves. Industrials pushed through their December tops and virtually the whole list was swept to new high levels for the current movement. The turnover approximated 3,600,000 shares and was the second heaviest total in weeks.

Rails Lead Advance.

Railroad shares led the upturn, being primed by expectations—later confirmed—of a favorable carloadings report. Youngstown advices telling of a further gain in steel operations in that district boosted the steel shares.

Farm implements made the most of the rise in commodity prices. An earnings report by Warner Brothers, showing the company for the last quarter operated in the black for the first time since 1930, kept the limelight playing on the amusement group.

Week-end trade reviews told of improvement in trade, employment and pay rolls and this, with increasing hopes of a spring revival of importance in business, redounded to the benefit of the entire list. All told it was about the best day the market has had since the turn of the year.

Ignore Bearish News.

Such bearish items as came to hand were ignored, such as the hitch in the "gold bill" in congress and the warning sounded by Gen. Johnson in his speech here last night to the effect that the NRA is preparing to launch a drive for further shortening of working hours and increased wages, a move which would mean—from the Wall street viewpoint—added expense and smaller profit margins for industry.

Buyers showed little favoritism among the groups outside of the rails. High grade issues came in for large scale demand generally and many so-called pivotals, including General Motors, Consolidated Gas, New York Central, Westinghouse, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, United States Steel common and Bethlehem achieved new peaks for the year or longer.

In the carrier group, Atchison, Southern Pacific, and New York Central were out in front. Delaware and Hudson was turned over in heavy volume and jumped more than 7 points.

Proffered Shares Strong.

Some of the preferred stocks, responding again to small orders in a thin market, jumped as much as 10 points.

Aviation stocks were especially active and strong and some of them recovered sharply from the setback they suffered a few days back on the disclosures before the senate investigating committee at Washington.

Silvers and coppers climbed to meet higher metal prices and oil shares were taken in increasing volume and scored fair sized gains. Sugars extended their gains and the alcohols were driven higher.

GOODYEAR PRICES FAVORED SEARS, SAY U. S. LAWYERS

Akron, O., Jan. 19.—(AP) Federal trade commission attorneys today introduced in evidence "Exhibit No. 67," which they contend will show the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company sold automobile tires to Sears, Roebuck & Co. for almost $3 less than the price charged its own dealers.

The commission is investigating charges that a contract between Goodyear and Sears-Roebuck violates the Clayton anti-trust law.

Introduction of the exhibit came shortly before adjournment and its portent was not completely explained. C. H. Brook, Goodyear controller, identified the exhibit as a "comparison of margins on tires sold to Sears and Goodyear dealers.' "

According to the comparisons made in the report, the net operating profit, averaged over four years beginning in 1928, on one brand sold to the mail order house is 27 cents. The net operating profit on another brand sold to Goodyear dealers is $1.24.

The billing price on one size of tire sold to the mail order house, according to this report, is $4.39; on a tire sold to the dealers, $7.27.

WARNER BROS. REPORTS PROFIT; FIRST SINCE 1930

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 19.—Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., and subsidiary companies reported today a quarterly profit for the first time since 1930, with a net income for the thirteen weeks ended Nov. 25 of $105,752 after all charges. This compares with an operating loss of $1,746,761 in the corresponding period of 1932.

The net profit before amortization, depreciation and federal taxes amounted to $1,933,356. There was an additional net profit of $655,262 realized from the retirement of debentures and bonds of subsidiary companies.

Current assets as of Nov. 25 totaled $15,141,463 of which $2,462,586 was cash, against current liabilities of $12,506,165. Current assets increased $1,122,395 during the quarter, while current liabilities increased only $37,725.

HIGHWAY GROUP BACKS BILL TO CONTROL TRUCKS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The Rayburn bill for governmental regulation of motor carriers drew the support today of the National Highway Freight association and three more state commissioners in hearings before the house interstate commerce committee.

J. L. Keeshin of Chicago, representing the association, told the committee, headed by Representative Rayburn [Dem., Tex.], that "our common carriers feel federal regulation is needed to protect our business." He said the recovery code was operative only temporarily and did not go far enough, and that the freight carriers wanted some permanent protection of their rate structures and business.

Insufficiency of code regulation also was advanced by R. H. Dunn of the Michigan railroad commission.

CANNERS PLAN OUTPUT CONTROL AND PRICE FIXING

Adoption of marketing agreements to control production and set farmers' prices was announced yesterday by three principal sections of the canning industry at the closing session of the National Canners' association convention in the Stevens hotel.

Divisions which have reached accords were the corn, peas, and tomato sections. Committees were named to take agreements framed to Washington for presentation to the AAA next week.

Conclusions of the eight other divisions will be withheld pending the outcome of these agreements.

The corn, pea, and tomato pacts follow a model suggested by the administration. Each has two main divisions: [1] establishment of a minimum price to farmers approaching the parity of 1909-'14, and [2] adjustment of production to probable consumption next year.

MORE GOLD AND "YELLOW BACKS" RETURN TO BANKS

Hoarded gold continued to flow to the Chicago federal reserve and other banks here yesterday as realization grew that "yellow backs" and coins are becoming worthless as a currency medium.

Surrenders appeared almost entirely from small holders and lines at tellers' windows were small. Estimates placed the amount given up at only $200,000, considerably under the totals of the preceding two days.

Amounts tendered were less than $100 each generally and many instances of $5 surrenders were noted. Confusion over the treasury's ruling continued, particularly the status of currency. Many holders seemed surprised that they could not retain gold certificates and that the government requires their exchange for silver paper.

A growing list of business houses refused acceptance of the metal or gold certificates for fear the government might clamp down with a new edict, leaving them as technical holders.

LUMBER ORDERS ARE LARGEST IN LAST SIX WEEKS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The National Lumber Manufacturers' association reported today that new business in 1,115 lumber mills for the week ending Jan. 13 exceeded orders of any of the preceding six weeks.

Orders amounted to 125,694,000 feet, shipments 113,887,000 feet and production 135,726,000 feet, as compared with the previous week's orders of 109,278,000 feet, shipments 94,356,000, and production of 121,913,000 feet.

Softwood production as reported by 787 mills totaled 114,701,000 feet; shipments, 102,692,000 feet; and orders, 114,317,000. Reports from 353 hardwood mills gave new business as 11,377,000 feet; shipments, 11,195,000 feet, and production, 21,025,000 feet.

Dill Doubts Congress Will Overhaul Securities Act

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Senator Dill [Dem., Wash.] said in an interview today the "indications are that there will be very minor changes, if any at all, this session" in the truth in securities act. He conferred yesterday with President Roosevelt on the subject.

City of Chicago Redeems More 1929 Tax Warrants

City of Chicago 1929 corporate tax anticipation warrants, numbers 1,304 to 1,348, were called for payment as of Jan. 25 yesterday by R. B. Upham, city controller.

DECEMBER SALES OF JEWEL TEA CO. LARGEST OF YEAR

Sales of the Jewel Tea company for the thirteenth and last period of four weeks in 1933 were larger than those of any similar period in the year. Furthermore, the margin over sales in the corresponding weeks of 1932 was the most substantial recorded in 1933.

Sales were $936,845, or 10.48 per cent more than the total of $847,961 for the four weeks ended Dec. 31, 1932. In the preceding period sales were 6.87 per cent, and in the tenth period nine-hundredths of 1 per cent in excess of sales in the corresponding weeks of 1932. For the fifty-two weeks of 1933 sales were $10,403,681, or 5.84 per cent below the total of $11,048,559 for the same weeks of 1932.

More Banks Re-elect Directors and Officers

Directors and officers of the Metropolitan State bank, the South Chicago Savings bank, and the Niles Center State bank were reelected yesterday. James O. Laughlin and Albert Schallenmuller were elected directors of the Prairie State bank, replacing T. A. Jackson and D. L. McWeeny, who resigned. Other directors and officers were reelected.

INSURED BANKS CANNOT PAY ON DEMAND DEPOSIT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Regulations prohibiting insured banks from paying interest on demand deposits were issued today by the Deposit Insurance corporation.

The order conforms with requirements already in effect on member banks of the federal reserve system. It extends this prohibition against interest payment on demand deposits to non-member banks which now have deposits up to $2,500 insured by the federal corporation.

CORD CORP. NETS PROFIT EQUAL TO 61 CTS. A SHARE

Operations of the Cord corporation for the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1933, resulted in a net profit of $1,380,006, equivalent to 61 cents a share on 2,260,000 shares of $5 capital stock outstanding. This was revealed in a letter to stockholders yesterday by E. L. Cord, president. In the preceding fiscal year net totaled $1,523,503, or 67 cents a share on the same capitalization.

The balance sheet as of Nov. 30 last shows current assets of $8,865,380 and current liabilities of $711,460, compared with $9,096,481 and $281,765, respectively, on the same date a year earlier.

"Investments in marketable securities of affiliated companies were carried on the books on Nov. 30 at $5,296,676." Mr. Cord stated. "Today's market value is $8,335,244, or $3,039,267 above cost. They represent investments of a permanent nature, carrying with them the responsibility for management of the companies in which they are made.

"With evidence that stabilization of the dollar may be accomplished approximately at current levels, general business should go forward on a more stable basis. The outlook for the particular industries in which your company is interested certainly looks brighter for the balance of the year."

JOBS AND WAGE TOTALS SHOW DECLINES HERE

But Hold Well Over Levels of a Year Ago.

Employment and wage disbursements in Chicago, as well as in Illinois as a whole, edged off slightly in the period Nov. 15 to Dec. 15, according to data assembled by the Illinois department of labor. Total jobs and pay rolls, however, held well above the levels of a year ago.

Seven hundred sixty-two establishments in Chicago, with a total of 211,065 wage earners, reduced employment by 2 per cent and pay rolls by 1 per cent during the period. The manufacturing industries, represented by 490 concerns, employing 117,095 persons, curtailed the number of wage earners by 3.3 per cent and retrenched pay rolls by six tenths of 1 per cent. Employment in the nonmanufacturing categories fell to a lesser extent, only two-tenths of 1 per cent, but wage payments were cut by 1.4 per cent.

Lighter Loss in State.

Downstate the diminutions in both employment and pay rolls were less pronounced than in Chicago. The number of wage earners employed by 1,723 establishments declined only nine-tenths of 1 per cent, and wage disbursements three-tenths of 1 per cent in the period. The loss in employment was the third consecutive one, that in pay rolls the second. Both decreases were fractionally more than seasonal.

However, these contractions in both employment and wage disbursements late in 1933 were too slight to nullify the substantial gains made in the spring and summer.

Volume of employment last month maintained itself at 19.1 per cent, and pay rolls at 24.2 per cent, in excess of the like month of 1932, according to the department.

Factories Show Gains in Year.

In the manufacturing groups the number of wage earners was 26.5 per cent greater than that in December, 1932, and the wage payments 29.2 per cent greater. The nonmanufacturing classification showed to less advantage; its margin of employment was 7.7 per cent, and that of its pay rolls 6.2 per cent.

Even with the comparative improvement, however, employment in all reporting industries during December was only 68 per cent of the volume prevailing in the years 1925-1927, and pay rolls were only 47.7 per cent of average monthly disbursements then.

To what an extent the individual worker has been affected is intimated in the indices for average weekly earnings which in December, 1933, were $20.69, compared with $20.25 in December, 1932.

WOOL MARKETS

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 19.—The Boston wool market was more active today than for several weeks. Some substantial orders were being placed for territory and Texas fine wools. Little business was done in coarse wools and practically none in fleeces such as Ohio and similar grades.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Cotton goods were quieter today, but generally firm. Standard wide print cloths sold at 6¾ cents. Corduroys advanced 2 cents a yard and are being sold for long term delivery. Wool goods are still rather quiet. Rayon yarns for weaving sell more freely and stocks have been cleaned out. Silk goods are quieter following a strike in dress cutting channels. Burlap markets were slightly easier on spot deliveries.

HEAVIER SUPPLY BREAKS PRICES IN HOG MARKET

Average Down 10 Cents; Cattle and Lambs Rise.

Heavier receipts reversed the trend of the hog market yesterday and prices slipped back 5 to 15 cents. Large local packers were active buyers on the late rounds, but failed to give much support to the price structure and the close saw the low level of the day.

Supplies at all points were larger than usual. Combined receipts at the eleven markets yesterday at 131,000 compared with 102,000 a week ago and with 89,000 a year ago. The five day total at the 11 points at 630,000 showed an increase of 43,000 over a week ago and 170,000 over a year ago.

Receipts Mostly Light Stock.

Receipts this week indicated that the "old crop" hogs are about all marketed. About 80 per cent of the receipts consist of stock weighing under 250 pounds, the majority of the consignments running from 170 to 235 pounds. Packing sows and extremely heavy butchers were scarce and about steady.

The range of prices was narrowest in seven months. The extreme range from common rough "packers" to selected light showed a spread of only 95 cents, the first time it has been under $1 since early in June. Top sales moved down to $3.60, showing 5 cents loss, while the general average at $3.35 was down 10 cents. Quotations are back to within 5 to 10 cents of last week's close.

Cattle Still Stronger.

Additional strength was found in the market for cattle yesterday, with top sales equaling the recent four months' high marks. Prime 1,120 pound steers topped the list at $7.25, as high as any cattle have sold since last August. This price is within 35 cents of the top for all of last year. Most other classes of cattle also shared in the rise, although plainer classes of beef cows found an undependable outlet at barely steady rates. The canners and cutters, which have been a drug on the market all week, sold to slightly better advantage yesterday.

Lambs Rise 25 Cents.

Lamb prices soared 25 cents. Top wooled stock sold at $9, highest since June, 1931. This price showed an advance of $2.40 over the low point last November and $3 above a year ago. Two years ago yesterday top lambs sold at $6.25. All interests were aggressive in the trade around $8.90 for wooled lambs, local packers paying this figure for prime 95 pound averages. The lamb market has advanced 75 cents to $1 this week.

GOOD BUYING OF LARD RESULTS IN BETTER PRICES

Local and outside buying orders for May and June lard were more numerous yesterday, particularly the latter. Closing trade were at net gains of 2½ to 7½ cents, except on old May lard, which was unchanged.

Cash lard was in fair demand. Export clearances were 85,480 pounds of lard. Liverpool was unchanged to 3d lower.

Bellies were traded in fairly at 5 to 7½ cents advance, except for January, which was unchanged. Cash lots were steady at 6.50 cents. Prices:

USED AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE.

NO MATTER WHAT YOU WANT TO BUY

STUDEBAKER

FIVE DAYS' DRIVING TRIAL.

A-U-B-U-R-N-S.

Here are 3 dandies. All especially priced: '31 Conv. Sedan, 6 w. w.; like new.....$495
'31 Sport Sedan, 6 w. w.; it's a 100% 375
'30 De Luxe Sedan, hardly used..... 275

CHEVROLETS, 1933s.

We have a '33 Sport Roadster, a really beautiful car, and a '33 Coach that's like brand new. Both priced at $495 each.

G-R-A-H-A-M-S.

These 2 cars cannot be duplicated elsewhere at our barrain prices. A '32 de luxe 8 Sedan with 6 w. w. hardly driven at all, was just reduced to $875. A '31 de luxe 8 Sedan with 6 wire wheels now only $385.

H-U-P-M-O-B-I-L-E-S.

Here are 3 beauties. A '31 de luxe Victoria with 6 wire wheels that's really like new, for $395. A '30 de luxe Sedan with very low mileage is priced at $275. A '29 Eight Sedan that runs fine, cut to $245.

P-A-C-K-A-R-D-S.

A '29 De Luxe Sedan with side mounts and many extras that's 100% throughout, priced at only $345. A '28 Six Victoria in dandy condition was just reduced by us to $185.

PIERCE-ARROWS.

These two cars really must be seen to be appreciated. One is a '31 de luxe Limousine that was chauffeur driven, special for $850. We offer a '29 de luxe 7 passenger sedan that's A-1 for just $545.

STUDEBAKERS.

Over 60 good looking, fine performing Studebakers are in our stock, and they are priced at $50 and up. We have all popular body styles, and year models from '25s to '32s. Many of these were officials' cars, some were demonstrators, and all were checked over by expert Studebaker mechanics. Each one is backed by driving trial. Many are guaranteed for 90 days.

WILLYS SIXES, 1932s.

These are easily the best Willys buys in town. We have three '32s—a Sedan Coach, and a Sport Coupe. All were carefully checked over in our shops. All are like new today. Just specially cut to $325 each.
